Country's Gas Transmission System At Risk Due To Line Pack Pressure

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's gas transmission and distribution system is at risk due to increasing line pack pressure which has surged to a dangerous level of 5.13 billion cubic feet (bcf) after May 5, media reported on Monday.

The pressure in the gas transmission system remained at a manageable level of 4.570-4.97bcf between May 5 and May 25 but has now soared to critical levels owing to the reduction in the use of Re-Gasified Liquefied Natural Gas (RLNG) by the power sector, a senior official told the publication.

"Now, the gas system has come again under duress on May 25-26 mainly because of reduction in the use of RLNG by the power sector," the official said, adding that the pipeline could burst any time as the gas transmission system becomes more vulnerable if the gas pressure surges past 5bcf-mark.

ity generation owing to which the line pack pressure has increased to 1.530bcf, putting the gas transmission system under duress.

Meanwhile, gas consumption in the fertiliser industry stands at 52 mmcf as compared to Saturday's consumption of 40mmcf by Fatima Fertiliser due to start up of their plant at 1900 hrs on May 24 after completion of their Annual Turn Around (ATA).

Furthermore, system gas consumption by Engro Fertilizer was suspended at 2200 hrs on April 22 due to start up of Annual Turn Around of their plant for about 54 days of the year.

With the current RLNG consumption rate standing at 32 mmcf, the data warns extreme high-pressure condition prevails throughout the transmission network due to reduced offtake of RLNG by the power sector.

Commenting on the steps taken to tackle the situation, he said that authorities have started reducing gas flows from local gas fields into the Sui Northern Gas Pipelines Limited (SNGPL) system to reduce the line pack pressure.

However, the official noted that reduction in gas flow from local gas fields poses significant risks to maintaining the current local gas production level.

Recalling the repeated warnings by exploration and production companies against the "perilous" practice of decreasing local gas flows to safeguard the gas transmission system, he said that gas wells nearing depletion are compelled to reduce natural gas flows, causing irreparable damage, and they cannot recharge to their original level.

The wells require capital-intensive investment through artificial lift methods to resume production, he concluded.—RT/Agency

KP And Federal Governments Reconcile, Agree To Collaborate For Public Relief

ISLAMABAD: Following months-long tussle and exchange of heated arguments over arrears, Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KP) and Centre have finally agreed to bury the hatchet and work together for public relief.

The development came during a meeting between KP's firebrand Chief Minister Ali Amin Gandapur and Interior Minister Mohsin Naqvi in Islamabad on Monday. Federal Minister for Energy Awaiz Ahmad Khan Leghari and the federal interior secretary were also among the attendees of the meeting.

It is pertinent to mention here that the KP government and the Centre had been at odds over multiple issues, including the prolonged power cuts in the province with CM Gandapur even threatening to take control of the power distribution company, the Peshawar Electric Supply Company (Pesco) after decrying the excessive power outages in the province.

In addition to this, the KP government and Centre have been engaged in a verbal spat in recent days with the former complaining of dues that are owed to the province by the federal government.

In March, CM Gandapur threatened to take the Centre to court over the arrears issue.

Addressing a joint presser, following a "meaningful" dialogue, CM Gandapur said: "The federal and provincial institutions will work together to remove the causes of line losses."

Through which people would get relief.

"Even though KP provides electricity to the entire country," he said, "the province itself is experiencing prolonged power cuts."

The chief minister further said that he engaged in talks to solve the problems being faced by the province. "We will have to come to the table for the rights and issues of the province."

Since KP itself generates electricity, he said, the people of the province wanted to end loadshedding and seek cheap electricity.

CM Gandapur also thanked the federal government for realising the grievances of the people of the province.

Quoting PTI founder Imran Khan, he said that their "fight is not against the state's intentions".

On his part, the energy minister thanked Interior Minister Naqvi for playing a key role in defusing tensions between KP and Centre and bridging the gap between the two sides.

Without revealing details, the federal minister said: "We have found a solution to the problems."

A uniform model will be implemented in KP and other provinces, he added.

Referring to the decisions made in the meeting, the minister said that PTI, PML-N and allied parties have taken a "big step" to recover the economy and steer the country out of crisis.

Despite having a different political narrative, the energy minister said that they agreed on this agenda for the sake of the people and the country.

"We have found a solution to the problems. The solution will be applied to other provinces too."

He vowed to address the issues of power theft and line losses across the country.

The PTI and the PML-N have jointly taken this step to improve the country's economy.

Talking to journalists, the interior minister revealed that the meeting concluded with a "breakthrough". He, however, did not give details about the breakthrough and said that the session was held in a pleasant atmosphere.

Matters related to public relief were discussed in the meeting, he added. Ahead of the crucial holiday, Naqvi welcomed CM Gandapur upon his arrival at the Foreign Ministry. During his interaction with the media, the chief minister said: "Our cases are in the courts and we hope that we will get relief from the courts. I am sitting with them [federal ministers] to solve the problems of the people of his province. In political matters, different things should not be mixed."—RT/Agency

Do we have a bomb to save ourselves from our own follies and misplaced priorities?

The abrupt declaration of a public holiday on May 28th, Youm-e-Takbeer, symbolizes a profound misstep in the face of Pakistan's current economic crisis. Prime Minister Shahbaz Sharif's announcement, meant to evoke national pride by commemorating our 1998 nuclear tests, instead underscores a troubling disregard for the urgent need for economic stability and productivity.

While the historical significance of Youm-e-Takbeer is undisputed, celebrating it with a sudden halt to business activities is imprudent. At a time when Pakistan is teetering on the brink of economic default, every working day is crucial. The private sector and financial institutions are already stretched thin, grappling with a precarious economic environment. Many leaders of the business community have rightly expressed concerns over the detrimental im-act of this unplanned holiday. The halt in business activities, particularly those involving crucial financial transactions with the United States, exacerbates our economic woes by delaying much-needed cash inflows.

The government's decision reflects a misguided sense of bravado, prioritizing symbolic gestures over practical needs. As a nation facing severe financial challenges, our focus should be on bolstering productivity, enhancing exports, and stabilizing the economy. This abrupt holiday not only disrupts business operations but also sends a worrying signal to potential foreign investors about the unpredictability of our economic policies.

In times of crisis, responsible governance demands decisions that prioritize economic resilience and stability. The sudden declaration of a holiday, at a moment when the nation requires relentless effort to avert default, is a stark example of misplaced priorities. We must recalibrate our focus towards constructive actions that genuinely support national prosperity, rather than indulging in symbolic acts that offer no tangible benefit. Our nuclear arsenal may secure our defense, but it is prudent economic policies and consistent productivity that will secure our future.

Mirpurkhas administration finalizes arrangements for 56th annual Mango Festival

By Sajjad Ali Abbasi
 MIRPURKHAS: Mirpurkhas District is renowned as the City of Mangoes. For the past 55 years, the district administration and the management committee have organized an annual mango exhibition at Shaheed Benazir Bhutto Exhibition Hall (Fruit Farm) in Mirpurkhas every June. This year, the 56th Mango Festival will be held from May 31, 2024, to June 2, 2024, as a three-day annual mango exhibition. Preparations for the event have been initiated by the district administration, the Department of Agriculture, and the Management Committee. The first mango exhibition in Mirpurkhas started in 1965 with the aim of fostering connections among farmers from distant areas of the province and the country, exchanging agricultural information and promoting the production and varieties of mangoes to improve mango cultivation in their regions. Due to water scarcity, the Sindh Government has allocated substantial funds for irrigating orchards using the drip irrigation system, which has been initiated on an experimental basis. This system has been established at the Sindh Horticulture Research Institute in Mirpurkhas. The institute, originally known as the Government Fruit Farm, was established in 1904 and later converted to an experimental station in 1926. It was upgraded to a horticultural research institution in 1958, with sub-stations established across various districts in Sindh for research on tomatoes in Badin, chilies in Umerkot (Kunri tehsil), jujubes and onions in Hyderabad, saponillas, bananas, papayas, citrus fruits, and mangoes in Shaheed Benazirabad, Mirpurkhas District. These stations provide valuable advice to farmers and introduce new varieties. Some of the old mango varieties from this institute that are well-known nationally and internationally include Sindhri, Almas, Chauns, Tota Puri, Alfonso, Collector, Langra, Saleh Bhai, Dussehri, Swarnika, Began Palli, Gulab Khasa, Saroli, Neelum, Zafran and Anwar Ratol. New varieties introduced to farmers by this institute include Jagirdar, Mehran, and Shehenshah Anmol. Ripe and unripe mangoes contain various vitamins, including Vitamin A, Vitamin C, and Vitamin E, which protect against heart diseases, cancer, and diabetes. Mangoes contain up to 66% calories. Pakistan produces 120,000 tons of mangoes annually. Mirpurkhas district alone produces over 30,000 acres. Under the leadership of Divisional Commissioner Mirpurkhas, Faisal Ahmed Quli and Deputy Commissioner Mirpurkhas, Sono Khan Chandio, the district administration is organizing the annual three-day mango exhibition from May 31, 2024, to June 2, 2024, which will also feature sports and cultural programs. Sub-committees have been formed to ensure the success of the exhibition, and small farmers have been invited to set up stalls. The 56th annual three-day mango exhibition will be inaugurated by the Provincial Minister of Agriculture seconded to attend. On the second day, an agricultural seminar and traditional Sindh sport Malakhra competitions will take place. The closing ceremony will feature mangoes to increase exports, Pakistan has 450,000 acres of mango orchards, producing 1.8 million tons of mangoes annually. - RT

PAK vs ENG: Boom Boom reaches out to Shadab Khan after worst bowling figures in T20Is

KARACHI: Following Pakistan's defeat against England in the second T20I at the Edgbaston Stadium in Birmingham, former skipper Shahid Afridi reached out to Green Shirts' leg spinner Shadab Khan after he recorded his worst bowling figures in the T20Is.

During the match on Saturday, Babar Azam-led side was bowled out for 160 while chasing a target of 184 with the host England securing their eighth win in the last 11 T20Is against the Men in Green.

During the match, Shadab went on to concede 55 runs in his four overs without taking any wicket - his worst bowling figure in T20Is.

The right-arm leg spinner had bowled the same figures during a Pakistan Super League (PSL) match against Peshawar Zalmi in 2021.

Afridi, while talking to a local news channel, revealed he had a chat with Shadab after Saturday's match where he tried to give him confidence and told him what he was doing wrong with the ball.

"I need Shadab to deliver with the ball. Whenever he has performed with the ball, Pakistan has won. I have watched all of his matches in the past. We had a detailed chat yesterday, I asked him who is guiding him or if there is something he is not doing, how are you making such mistakes is there no one to tell you?" said Afridi.

He was then asked if there's some mental block with Shadab to which he said: "Is there any leg-spin coach with the team? Saeed Ajmal was there but he was an off-spinner. Ajmal should be asked if he guided Shadab and why is he not doing what he was told.—Agency

Cristiano Ronaldo could shatter jaw-dropping records at Euro 2024

Cristiano Ronaldo has proved time and time again that he can break all sorts of records and he is expected to do no less at the Euro 2024 in Germany this summer.

However, what records could he likely snatch this time?

Ronaldo, 39, will become the first player in history to feature in six separate European Championships if he makes at least one appearance.

He will also become the oldest outfield player to feature at the tournament, a title which is currently held by Lothar Matthaus, who was 39 in Euro 2000.

However, Pepe has the chance to snatch that record away from Ronaldo if he features.

Additionally, the Portuguese footballer could beat Ivica Vastic to become the oldest goalscorer at Euros, if he scores.

If the former Real Madrid star manages to score once, he'll become the first player in Euros history to score in six separate tournaments.

Ronaldo could become the first player in history to make it into four separate Euro Team of the Tournaments.

The former Manchester United star could also become the first player in Euros history to score in three separate penalty shootouts if he scores in a penalty shootout.

Ronaldo is just two assists away from becoming the top assister in the history of the competition, to snatch the accolade from Karel Poborsky with eight assists.

Having already won one European Championship Golden Boot, Ronaldo could become the first player in history to win two of them, if he wins the Golden Boot this year.—Agency

Haris Rauf hopeful for Pakistan's comeback in England series

CARLISLE: Pakistan's right-arm pacer Haris Rauf expressed his confidence in the national team to force a comeback in the ongoing four-match T20I series against England.

The express pacer addressed a press conference here on Monday and revealed that the touring side is confident and will try to win the remaining fixtures heading into the ICC Men's T20 World Cup 2024.

"Yeah, we lost one game but as a team, we are very confident and [will] try to win the next couple of games before the World Cup.

"As a team, we had a good practice session today and we played a lot of games in the past.

"Obviously, it is disheartening to lose a match but as a team, we are confident and we can beat any opposition and we've done that a lot of times in the past.

"When you make mistakes, you learn from them and try not to repeat them. So, we'll work on it and will try to perform well in the coming matches and make a comeback."

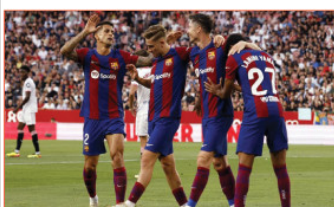

Haris Rauf further revealed the obstacles he faced amid his rehabilitation from a shoulder injury, which he sustained in the Pakistan Super League (PSL) 9.

"The family support remains throughout your career. Making a comeback is not easy but if one has delivered performances in the past, it is not difficult for the team to select again," Haris said.

"It's hard for a player when he gets injured and comes back again for the game. It's not easy because you are struggling a lot at that time. For an express bowler, you need pace so it's not easy to maintain same pace and length after an injury. It's hard for every player however belief in yourself makes the process easier," he added.

Notably, England are currently leading the four-match T20I series 1-0 after defeating Pakistan in the second game in Birmingham. Meanwhile, the first match in Leeds was called off due to persistent rain.—Agency

Gary Kirsten to have final say on team's vice-captaincy issue

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan's white-ball head coach Gary Kirsten has been given the authority to have the final say on the appointment of the national side's vice-captain if needed, media reported on Monday.

The development comes after six out of the seven Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) selectors voted against appointing a vice-captain for the upcoming T20 World Cup 2024 set to commence on June 1.

"Since so many ifs and buts were involved due to mishandling of the captaincy and vice-captaincy issues by the previous regime six selectors believed that no one should be appointed as deputy to Babar Azam," a source told the publication, adding that the team management headed by Gary will be responsible for appointing vice-captaincy if ever there comes a requirement.

"It was a better option not to offer the position to anyone for the World Cup," the source added.

On Saturday, media, citing sources, reported that pacer Shaheen Afridi had declined the PCB's offer to become vice-captaincy for the national side.

The left-arm fast bowler's refusal came after the board reinstated Babar and reappointed him as the team's T20 captain in March in response to the recommendation of the newly formed selection committee.

The sources added that left-arm fast was "not prepared" to take the responsibility of vice-captaincy.

Senior sports journalist Abdul Majid Bhatti told media that Afridi took it very seriously after being stripped of the T20 captaincy just after five matches. He added that the pacer decided to focus on his cricket instead of affecting the team's unity ahead of the T20 World Cup.

Bhatti said that the pacer's father-in-law Shahid Afridi used to guide him regarding his career decisions and the latter advised him to only focus on performance which led him to many opportunities to lead his side in future.

Furthermore, sources have told media that the PCB Management Committee, which was operating on a temporary basis, did not have a mandate to appoint or make any changes in captaincy which it did by replacing Babar with Shaheen.—Agency

Nadal bidding to avoid early French Open exit

PARIS: Rafael Nadal admits he will be facing "one of the toughest opponents possible" when he plays Alexander Zverev in the French Open first round on Monday.

This year's event was expected to be the 14-time champion's farewell to Roland Garros, but he has since insisted he could not confirm "100 percent" it would be his last appearance.

Nadal has only played four tournaments since January 2023 after suffering a hip injury and then a muscle tear.

That left him unseeded for the draw and vulnerable to a difficult opening round at a tournament where he has only lost three of his 115 matches.

World number four Zverev arrives in Paris as one of the favourites for the title.

"Of course on paper it is not the best draw," Nadal said ahead of the match on Court Philippe Chatrier.

"I play against one of the toughest opponents possible, and at the same time, he came here winning the last event and it's a Masters 1000.

"It's not a small one. So what can I do? That's the draw. Just try to be ready for it."

Nadal, who turns 38 in a week's time, has shown flashes of his best form in the clay-court swing, but was thrashed 6-1, 6-3 by Poland's Hubert Hurkacz in the second round of his last outing in Rome.

He boasts a 7-3 winning record over Zverev ahead of their first meeting since the 2022 French Open semi-finals, when the German left the court in a wheelchair near the end of the second set after injuring his ankle.

"I am not anxious. No, I am focused on trying to play well. That's it," said Nadal.

"Maybe I go there and I repeat the disaster of Rome. It's a possibility, of course. I don't want to hide that."

"But in my mind, is do something different and play much better and give myself a chance to play competitive."

Zverev did not play again in 2022 after that ankle injury but has climbed the rankings again in recent months. The 27-year-old has long been touted as a future Grand Slam champion but remains without one of tennis' four biggest titles.—Agency

Taking to X, formerly Twitter and Instagram, the Fortnight singer shared stunning photos from her trip with a heart-felt note, saying she has left her heart in Lisbon, seemingly making Kelce jealous.

Swift writes, "It's official, I left my [heart] in Lisbon. My first time in Portugal and you all made me feel like I was right at home."

She went on saying, "I'll seriously never forget the way you treated us, the overwhelming love and passion and hands in the air and dancing and how you screamed every lyric! Muito obrigada."

Taylor Swift's latest post came amid reports she is experiencing separation anxiety as she continues her European leg of the Eras Tour, away from her boyfriend, NFL star Travis Kelce. While Taylor dazzles audiences overseas, Kelce is stationed in Kansas City, participating in the Chiefs' Organized Team Activities (OTAs).

The insider told Life & Style, "They're going to be facing their longest time apart. He'll make some trips to see her, but she can't be leaving the tour to see him, so she's got to leave this all up to him and it's making her very anxious."

Big Ben Affleck, Jennifer Lopez set to make major announcement about their marriage

Ben Affleck and Jennifer Lopez will announce their heartbreaking divorce after the conclusion of her upcoming tour This Is Me... Live, predicted an expert.

During a conversation with Kinsey Schofield on her Unflinched podcast, American blogger and columnist Perez Hilton made shocking predictions about one of the most beloved Hollywood couples.

According to Hilton, Affleck is stalling to break the news of his separation from Lopez due to her tour, which has struggled to generate ticket sales as expected.

Multiple publications reported that several of JLO's concerts were cancelled because of low ticket sales, prompting her to rebrand the tour from "This Is Me... Now" to "This Is Me... Live: The Greatest Hits."

The rebrand suggests that Lopez is trying to attract more fans to buy her tickets of the tour, which will revolve around her discography, for those who didn't connect with her latest songs.

Speaking on heated rumours about Lopez and Affleck's split, Hilton said, "They're done it's over," before noting that Affleck "is just being a supportive love by trying to stall the news as much as possible until her tour is over."

"She's going on the road in a little bit and that also has been met with a lot of negative headlines about poor ticket sales and many shows were cancelled," the expert added.

Before concluding, he predicted that fans of Lopez and Affleck will "get an official announcement that they're divorcing" after This Is Me... Live conclusion.

Rumours about Affleck and Lopez parting ways swirled after In Touch Weekly reported that the couple is headed to 'divorce' after they failed to make a joint appearance in 47 days.

Chief Patron S.M. Tanveer, President Zubair Tufail, Secretary General (Sindh) Hanif Gohar, and core committee members Momin Ali Malik and Malik Khuda Bakhsh highlighted the severe challenges these sectors face due to economic crises, high utility costs, and frequent power and gas outages.

Infrastructure Preparedness: Urging federal and provincial governments to take advanced measures for the upcoming rainy season to prevent disruptions. UBG emphasized that improper attention and IMF conditionalities have exacerbated the challenges faced by the cottage and SME sectors. Business Community Concerned About Abrupt Holiday Announcement For Youm-e-Takbeer

KARACHI: The unexpected declaration of a public holiday by Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif on the occasion of Youm-e-Takbeer has stirred concerns among businesses, interrupting planned transactions and financial activities. Youm-e-Takbeer marks Pakistan's successful nuclear tests in 1998, a day of national significance. However, amidst economic challenges, Ismail Suttar, President of the Lasbela Chamber of Commerce and Industry, highlights the adverse impact of additional holidays on the private sector and banking industry. Suttar emphasizes the urgency for sustained economic activity, stressing the private sector's vital role in driving the economy forward. With Pakistan heavily reliant on exports, the sudden holiday disrupts financial transactions, particularly with the United States observing Memorial Day, a key trading partner. Warning against exacerbating Pakistan's economic woes, Suttar urges the government to reconsider the holiday announcement, proposing a revision limiting the holiday to schools. He underscores the need for prudent decision-making to instill confidence among investors and maintain momentum in attracting foreign direct investments. Expressing deep concern on behalf of the business community, President Suttar urges the government to prioritize economic stability and freeze the holiday notification accordingly, safeguarding the private sector from unnecessary disruptions.—RT

Nawaz Sharif To Play Active Political Role Ahead Of Key Meeting

LAHORE: Announcing the ruling Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) intra-party elections, Prime Minister's Adviser on Public and Political Affairs Rana Sanaullah has said that party supremo Nawaz Sharif will be seen proactively "playing his role in national politics soon."

Sanaullah, addressing a press conference in Lahore on Monday, announced that the ruling party commenced the process of the intra-party elections by the PML-N's constitution and an election commission was also established by a central working committee.

The former federal minister said that nomination papers were issued from 9am to 5pm today which would also be continued before 12pm by tomorrow (Tuesday). "Scrutiny of the nomination papers will be performed at 1pm, whereas, candidates could withdraw their nominations by 2.30pm, tomorrow."

He added: "Overall, 11 nominations have been issued so far. At 3pm tomorrow, final lists of the candidates will be issued and a general council's session will be held afterwards."

He added that the party would organise the polls for electing its president at 4pm tomorrow.

Sanaullah went on to say that Bashir Memon, Irfan-ul-Haque Siddiqui, Ishaq Dar, Raja Muhammad Farooq, Hafiz Hafeez-ur-Rehman and Shah Gulam Qadir have received their nomination papers today.

He said that Shahid Khaqan Abbasi — a disgruntled PML-N leader who had applied to register a new political party last month — could also submit his nominations, however, the scrutiny committee will decide on his "eligibility" to contest the party's intra-party polls.

Regarding Nawaz, the PML-N senior leader said that the entire party agreed on the former premier's name for the party's presidency. "However, the party would welcome if someone else wants to submit nominations for taking part in the upcoming polls."

Sanaullah further said that Nawaz transformed the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz into a popular public party after Quaid-i-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah that ruled the country four times.

"In case no candidates, the party's president would be elected unopposed, otherwise, polling will be held via a show of hands," he added.

The politico said that Nawaz was not angry with someone and was fully active in national politics. He added that all decisions of the federal and the Punjab governments would be taken after Nawaz's approval.

He further said that lesser statements from the PML-N supremo would be ended, soon.

The premier's aide added that the ruling PML-N was considering recommendations to reshuffle the party positions.

He said that Shehbaz

Sharif would be the next leader after Nawaz on which the entire party was agreed upon for the presidency. He praised Shehbaz, the incumbent prime minister, for making maximum efforts to pull the country out of the economic crisis.

To a question regarding the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), Sanaullah replied that he would continue to warn the nation against the former ruling party's founder Imran Khan.

He added that he was continuously warning the nation that the ousted premier would push the country into a big turmoil. The former security czar said that he was unaware of sources pushing the incarcerated PTI founder for making political blunders, however, "stupidity" could be committed by any individual.

"I would pray for the PTI founder not to face the same consequences as Sheikh Mujibur Rahman," he added.—RT/Agency

Raza Rabbani Advocates For Grand Dialogue To Prevent Institutional Overreach

ISLAMABAD: Former Senate chairman Mian Raza Rabbani has called for holding a grand intra-institutional dialogue, wherein, the institutions should agree on not to transgress into each other's domain.

Highlighting that the public exhibition of contradictions among institutes was casting long shadows on already fragile political system, Rabbani said, "The way forward is a grand intra-institutional dialogue, wherein, each institution agrees not to transgress into each other's domain, respecting the trichotomy of power envisaged in the Constitution."

In a press statement, the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) leader said Pakistan was engulfed in multiple crises, one being contradiction within ruling elite. The conflict of the ruling elite emanated from within and it had historical roots, he maintained.

He alleged that Pakistan's establishment had, in history, been taking support of the ju-dictary.

"The extreme polarised political atmosphere has affected this equation within the ruling elite. This intra-class contradiction within the elite, is vitiating the functioning of state institutions," he said.

Rabbani said in a democratic federal parliamentary system, parliament was the final arbiter for intra-elite disputes. Hence, he said, parliament should refrain from becoming a party to the intra-elite disputes. "The Committee of the Whole of the Senate of Pakistan should play its role in healing the situation," he suggested. Taking a dig at non-implementation of the Constitution in its true spirit, the politico said the Constitution was being treated as a "nose of wax". "It is molded to legitimate the unconstitutional transgression of one institution into the affairs of the other." The PPP leader said all this had created a situation "where rule of law has ceased to exist and there appears to be a rule by law." It had shaken the constitutional foundations of the state, created structural and political instability, he said.—RT/Agency

ISLAMABAD: PTI leader, Omar Ayub Khan, on Monday assured the tribesmen that he would take up their issue to the National Assembly, media reported.

Leaders from South Waziristan, including members of the Mehsud tribe, met with opposition leader Omar Ayub, along with Mahmood Achakzai, head of the Pakistan Constitution Protection Movement, and other prominent figures such as Asad Qaiser.

The joint Jirga discussed the critical issues stemming from the closure of the Angur Ada border — the border between the South Waziristan of Pakistan's Khyber Pakhtunkhwa and Afghanistan's Paktika Province.

During the meeting, the Jirga detailed the significant problems faced by the local population due to the border closure.

In response, Omar Ayub assured the leaders that he

Shehbaz Declares Public Holiday For Youm-e-Takbeer

ISLAMABAD: Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif on Monday declared a public holiday throughout the country on May 28 on account of Youm-e-Takbeer, the day when Pakistan's defence became impregnable after nuclear tests in the hills of Chagai, Balochistan in 1998. The announcement was made in a notification, a copy of which is available with media, issued by the cabinet secretariat.

Youm-e-Takbeer is observed on May 28, marking the historic day when Pakistan became an atomic power.

"Youm-e-Takbeer reminds how the entire Pakistani nation got united on that day to make the country's defence invincible," the prime minister said in a statement issued by the PM House.

On the day in 1998, he said, the nation decided that there would be no compromise on the country's integrity and defence by not yielding to any external pressure.

Both political and defence forces were united on the day under the National Flag to strengthen the country's defence, he said.

PM Shehbaz said it was the day of renewing the pledge that "we will always remain ready to thwart the nefarious designs of external and internal enemies, who want to endanger the country."

"May 28 is also the day of paying tributes to the steps taken by the then-prime minister Nawaz Sharif and the Pakistan Army to make the national defence invincible."

"We also pay tribute to Zulfikar Ali Bhutto for initiating the atomic programme and the scientists who played a key role in continuing it," the prime minister remarked.

He said on the day, the entire nation, including himself, resolved that the way the national defence was made invincible on May 28, 1998, "we will [similarly] make the country's economic stable and prosper through sheer hard work."

"Let's make a pledge on this day that by following the principles of

The ordinance was passed amidst a hearing of the NAB amendments case by the Supreme Court (SC) of Pakistan, challenged by Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Imran Khan.

The previous Pakistan Democratic Movement-led (PDM) government approved amendments to the National Accountability Ordinance 1999 in a bid to curtail the powers of the National Accountability Bureau (NAB).

ers exercised by the accountability bureau.

Sharing details of the key amendments, he said that after fresh amendments, no arrests could be made before completion of the investigation process, and the suspect will have the right to obtain bail while 90-day remand is also abolished.

"90-day remand is for terrorists and we have now reduced the duration of remand to 14 days," he said and added that no defamatory campaign could be carried out unless the suspect is convicted in the case. The case could not be used for political purposes in the assets beyond means case, he said.—RT/Agency
