PTI Accuses Establishment Of Exerting Pressure On State Institutions Following Delay In Iddat Ruling

ISLAMABAD: A delay in the ruling on the un-Islamic nikah case has apparently shattered Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) hopes of the early release of its founder Imran Khan from prison.

Addressing a press conference in Islamabad on Wednesday, PTI Information Secretary Raouf Hasan said state institutions were trying to keep the party founder behind bars despite him securing bail in several cases.

"Establishment's pressure on state institutions is piling up," he stated while reacting to the delay in the announcement of a reserved verdict in the iddat case against the PTI founder and his wife Bushra Bibi by an Islamabad sessions court earlier today.

The Islamabad court had reserved the verdict last week on appeals filed by the PTI founder and his wife against their conviction in the iddat case.

However, District and Sessions Judge Shahrukh Arjumand sought his recusal from the case because it would not be appropriate for him to announce the verdict owing to repeated expression of no-confidence by Khawar Maneka, Bushra's ex-husband and the petitioner in the case.

In the presser today, the PTI spokesperson said the party has been witnessing "murder of justice" for the last two years and expressed fears that the former prime minister would have to spend more time in jail.

Khan, the deposed premier, has been behind bars since August last year after he was convicted in the Toshakhana case.

Although, the PTI founder was granted bail in the case, he remains incarcerated owing to his conviction in other cases including un-Islamic marriage and eptier.

He said the PTI founder should have been released from jail after his sentence was suspended in the Toshakhana case.

"We fear that more cases will be lodged against the PTI founder soon," the party's spokesperson said, claiming that iddat and other cases against him were

"baseless". Similarly, Hasan said PTI Vice Chairman and former foreign minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi was booked in additional cases related to May 9 when his release from prison was certain.

Hasan said the PTI was not in conflict with the institute of the army but an individual "Pakistan is suffering due to a dictatorship of an individual".

Referring to the Hamoodur Rahman Commission report on the 1971 fall of Dhaka, the PTI spokesperson said the report did not contain anything against the military.

He said then military ruler General Yahya Khan put the state at stake to prolong his rule. "Similarly, today one person has put the state in difficulty to remain in power," the spokesperson added.—RT/Agency

Supreme Court Rejects British Envoy's Comments On February General Elections

ISLAMABAD: The Supreme Court has severely criticised British High Commissioner to Pakistan Jane Marriot's recent speech targeting the South Asian nation's general elections in 2024, calling on the UK to learn from past mistakes and move on.

In a speech during the Asma Jahangir conference last month, Marriot while quoting British Foreign Secretary David Cameron raised concerns about Pakistan's February 8 elections.

"...not all parties were formally permitted to contest the elections and that legal processes were used to prevent some political leaders from participation, and to prevent the use of recognisable party symbols," Britain's top diplomat had said.

She then noted that Pakistan's government, civil society, and global players should work to nurture an "open society" and "vibrant democracy" as open societies are transparent.

The top court's registrar, in a letter to the envoy, said that her criticism of a certain political party being sidelined by stripping it of its symbol was unfounded as it did not follow the law.

The letter, drawing attention to the court's role, said elections were required to be held within 90 days of the completion of the tenure of the national and provincial assemblies.

However, they did not take place because then-president Arif Alvi and the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) were at odds regarding who was empowered to announce the election date.

"The matter was resolved in just 12 days by the Supreme Court, and general elections were held throughout Pakistan on 8 February 2024," the registrar said.

Previously, it mentioned, that many wanting to contest elections in Pakistan faced a lifetime ban because they were not considered honest and trustworthy (Sadiq and Ameen) by the Supreme Court.

However, a larger seven-member bench overruled the earlier decision, it said, holding that it did not conform to the Constitution and the law.

The registrar said that the law enacted by Parliament (Elections Act, 2017) requires democracy within political parties via the holding of periodic intra-party elections, to forestall autocracy or even dictatorship within them.

To ensure compliance with this democratic principle the law stipulates, it said, that if a political party does not hold intra-party elections, then it would not be eligible for an election symbol.

"A political party (which had itself voted in this law) did not hold the mandated intra-party elections. The Supreme Court reiterated what the law stipulated," the letter said.

Therefore, the registrar said: "...your Excellency's criticism with regard to this decision, with utmost respect, was unjustified."

It is worthy to mention that it was upon the current chief justice's assumption of office that cases of public importance began to be broadcast live for the first time in Pakistan's history. This allowed the public at large to view Supreme Court proceedings in their entirety, with transparency in regard to how decisions came to be made. The decision regarding intra-party elections and party symbols was one of many to be broadcast live as such.

Updating Britain regarding a recent ruling, it stated:

"It was gratifying that your Excellency had repeatedly stressed the importance of open societies' which you stated are necessary for vibrant democracies. You will be pleased to learn that the Supreme Court has recognised the right to information and vigorously applied it to itself, a copy of its decision is attached as D".

"Persisting in the violent undemocratic mistakes of the past condemns present and future generations, and perpetuates cycles of violence. Let us embrace truth, which sets us free," it added.

Raising some questions, the top court's letter read: "Should the overthrow of the elected democratic government of Mohammad Mossadegh in 1953, to capture Iranian oil, not be revealed after over seven decades of cover-up? Will this not prove therapeutic for the perpetrator and the victim? Will it not engender trust, possibly friendship, and peace?"

"Ceding to what it described as Jewish Zionist aspirations, the British government wrote to an individual, its own citizen, on 2 November 1917 convening its decision to establish a settler-colonial state. This decision was not voted upon by the people of the area who were impacted by it, nor even by your own. The British government, and not Parliament, unilaterally decided it. The Balfour Declaration became the foundation on which an ethnic state was established. Those who had always lived there were excluded from this ethnic state, contained in ghettos, humiliated, deprived, brutalised, maimed and killed."

Let us step back from the precipice of settler-ethnic superiority. Deaths of thousands of children and many thousands more innocents may unjustifiably come to define a people, which would be an abomination. Let us all stand up and be counted for equality, peace and humanity, the apex court stressed.

"Let us be honest and acknowledge past mistakes in the spirit of openness, advocated by your Excellency. And, jettison the unholy concept of ethnic superiority, and its concomitant humanity — an inferior humanity."

"The Supreme Court of Pakistan has acknowledged the mistakes made in its past, addressed them in detail, and taken steps to ensure that they are not repeated. Since the Government of His Majesty King Charles III has stressed the need for open societies and democracy, and offered criticism on the decisions of the Supreme Court of Pakistan, reciprocity would presumably be acceptable."

"This letter is written on instructions of the Chief Justice of Pakistan, who extends to you and the people of your country his yearning for openness and democracy, and his best regards," it concluded.—RT/Agency

28 Dead As Bus Overtakes In Balochistan's Washuk

WASHUK: At least 28 people, including women and children, were killed after a passenger bus turned turtle and plunged into a ditch in Balochistan's Washuk district on Wednesday morning.

According to rescue and Levies officials, about 22 people sustained injuries in the accident and have been moved to the Civil Hospital in Basima.

The premier also directed the authorities concerned to provide assistance to the injured.

Balochistan's Chief Minister Sarfraz Bugti offered his condolences over the loss of lives in the horrific accident and prayed for those who were wounded.

In two similar incidents in May, 13 people belonging to the same family were killed and nine others got wounded as a truck plunged into a ditch in Punjab's Khushab district.

The accident occurred because of a brake failure on Panj Pir Manawan Road in Khushab, consequently, the truck driver lost control of the vehicle and it fell into the ditch.

The deceased of the ill-fated crash included women, too, and the family was going to Khushab.

Meanwhile, 20 people lost their lives while 21 sustained injuries after a passenger bus veered off a narrow mountain road and plummeted into a ravine in a remote area of Diamer district, Gilgit Baltistan.

The mishap took place at the Yashokhal area on the Karakoram Highway in Diamer early Friday morning at around 5:30am, according to police. The bus was on its way from Rawalpindi to Gilgit. Meanwhile, the police said there were at least 38 passengers on board.—RT/Agency

Petrol Expected To Decrease By Rs5 In Upcoming Review

ISLAMABAD: Petrol and diesel prices are expected to decline by up to Rs5 per litre in the upcoming fortnightly review, sources told media on Wednesday. The Petroleum Division sources said on Wednesday that the per litre price of petrol is likely to go down by Rs5 while diesel is expected to be slashed by Rs4 per litre. However, they said the next two days are important regarding any change in the fuel prices as the Oil and Gas Regulatory Authority (Ogra) will forward its summary to the Finance Division on May 31. The final decision on the petroleum products prices will be made following the Ministry of Finance's consultation with Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif. If approved, this will be the third consecutive reduction in fuel prices. Earlier this month, the federal government had approved a massive cut of Rs15.39 per litre in the petrol price and the price of diesel was reduced by Rs788 per litre. Currently, petrol is available at Rs273.10 per litre while diesel is being sold at Rs274.08 per litre. The prices of petroleum products are revised every 15 days in Pakistan adjusting them to the trend of global oil prices and the rupee's exchange rate to the dollar. The Pakistani rupee has held steady recently. About 85% of Pakistan's oil needs are imported, and the country has been struggling with a balance of payments problem and skyrocketing inflation, which was recorded at 17.3% year-on-year in April.—RT/Agency

Imran Challenges Punjab Cabinet's Decision On New Cases In LHC

LAHORE: Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founding chairman Imran Khan petitioned the Lahore High Court (LHC) on Wednesday, challenging the Punjab cabinet's decision to register additional cases against him and other PTI lawmakers.

The former prime minister's petition, filed through prominent party counsel Sardar Latif Khan Khosa, argued that the cases are "unlawful and unconstitutional," asserting that he and his party members are being falsely accused. On May 24, Punjab Chief Minister Maryam Nawaz's cabinet approved the initiation of 'fresh legal action' against Imran and other party leaders for their purported involvement in crafting a 'narrative of hate' against state institutions, especially the army. The petition stated that PTI Maryam's cabinet approved a request from the home secretary to register new cases against PTI members. Imran, through his counsel, requested certified copies of agenda item 11 from the May 24 cabinet meeting, along with the minutes and recommendations. However, he has not received the requested information. In his petition, Imran stated that numerous cases against him stemmed from events on May 9, when he was arrested at the Islamabad High Court (IHC), leading to widespread unrest and damage in various cities, including Lahore's Corps Commander House. He emphasised that approximately 10,000 PTI workers and nearly all party leaders were detained, with many still imprisoned a year later. In response to these detentions, Imran filed a writ petition in the LHC seeking a declaration that the charges against him in multiple FIRs are illegal and beyond jurisdiction. The court admitted the petition on July 7 and ordered on July 14 that no coercive action could be taken against Imran in cases where he is not named until further hearings.—RT/Agency

International Consensus Wanes As Russia Hints At Recognizing Taliban

ISLAMABAD: When Kabul fell to the Afghan Taliban in August 2021 without firing a single shot, there was a near-international consensus among the big powers as well as regional players on the future of Afghanistan.

All major powers, including the US, China, Russia, and regional players such as Pakistan, Iran, and others, agreed the Taliban had to fulfil certain conditions before their de facto government was recognised. Those conditions included forming an inclusive government, respecting women's and human rights, and not allowing Afghan soil to be used again by terrorist groups. Pakistan was one of only three countries that recognised the Taliban's first rule from 1996 to 2001, but this time it aligned with the international consensus on the question of recognition. The understanding among the major players and stakeholders remained in place for a good two years before the international consensus started falling apart. The first sign of rupture came in March when China accepted the full-time ambassador appointed by the Taliban regime. Though Beijing never officially recognised the Taliban government, its move to accept a full-time ambassador was seen as tacit recognition. Now, another major power and stakeholder in Afghanistan is inching closer to establishing full-fledged ties with the Taliban Russia, which suffered a defeat at the hands of Afghan Mujahideen backed by Pakistan and the entire Western bloc, is hinting at recognising the Taliban government. As part of the first step, the Russian Ministry of Justice and Foreign Affairs recommended President Vladimir Putin remove the Afghan Taliban from the list of terrorist organisations.—RT/Agency

Farooq Naik Calls For Withdrawal Of Amendments In NAB Law

ISLAMABAD: People's Party leader Farooq H. Naik has demanded withdrawal of recent amendments in the NAB law made by an ordinance, media reported on Wednesday.

He called the NAB (Amendment) Ordinance 2024 a draconian law.

He said the PDM had made three amendments in the NAB law. "Now this new ordinance has come to force, which was not taken before the parliament. This practice should not be followed," he stressed.

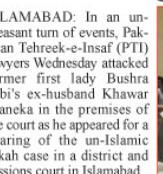

He said more than 14 days' remand period negates the law. "Why the officer involved in registering fake cases should not be convicted," he questioned while commenting on the amended NAB law. "While the NAB accused getting 14-14 years sentences from courts," he said.

The National Accountability Bureau (NAB) can now detain the individuals accused in cases under the anti-graft watchdog for 40 days after acting President Yousaf Raza Gilani signed the NAB (Amendment) Ordinance 2024 into law.

The new ordinance has extended the period of remand accused in NAB cases from 14 days to 40 days. Moreover, the sentence duration for the officer convicted for framing cases based on ill will, has been reduced to two years from five years.—RT/Agency

PTI Lawyers Accused Of Assaulting Khawar Maneka

ISLAMABAD: In an unpleasant turn of events, Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) lawyers Wednesday attacked former first lady Bushra Bibi's ex-husband Khawar Maneka in the premises of the court as he appeared for a hearing of the un-Islamic nikah case in a district and sessions court in Islamabad.

During the hearing of appeals filed by Bushra her husband and PTI founder Imran Khan against conviction in the iddat case, Judge Shahrukh Arjumand went into his chamber without announcing the verdict.

Following the development, PTI lawyers hurried into the courtroom which prompted Maneka's lawyers to escort him out. However, while being escorted out, a PTI lawyer then attacked Maneka within the court premises after which he fell to the ground.

The court, on May 23, reserved the verdict on the appeals which was to be announced today.

Maneka, in January, had moved the court challenging Khan and Bushra Bibi's marriage and terming their nikah as fraudulent, stressing that the marriage was solemnised during her iddat (the time a woman goes into isolation after a divorce or her husband's death). The trial court then handed down a seven-year sentence to the couple in February and imposed a fine of Rs500,000 each on the duo. In its 51-page detailed verdict, the court maintained that the record proves that both of the accused, Khan and Bushra, were in relation before the 2018 "fraudulent" nikah.—RT/Agency

The protesters stated that electricity is unavailable for 16 to 18 hours in the mentioned areas. Despite this, cutting off electricity during the summer season is sheer cruelty. They have complained to the K-Electric administration about the issue of heavy bills. Instead, they should unannounced load shedding and hefty bills, but no one is willing to listen. That is why they are protesting in front of the K-Electric Bin Qasim office. They demanded an end to unannounced load shedding and the provision of electricity, along with stopping the issuance of hefty bills. Instead, they should send fair bills so that poor people can pay for the electricity they actually use. If their demands are not met, they will expand the scope of their protest.

The removal of harassment and corruption will lead to more tax compliance

The recent move to unblock over 7,000 SIM cards following the submission of income tax returns is a welcome development in Pakistan's ongoing efforts to broaden its tax base. This innovative approach by the Federal Board of Revenue (FBR) has demonstrated that out-of-the-box solutions can yield tangible results, as evidenced by the filing of 7,167 new tax returns. However, while this initial success is commendable, the journey to bring a significant number of citizens into the tax net is far from over.

The FBR's strategy of leveraging mobile connectivity to enforce tax compliance is clever, yet it also underscores the need for deeper reforms within our tax system. The current cumbersome tax filing process must be streamlined to encourage voluntary compliance. One significant barrier is the pervasive fear of harassment by tax authorities, which deters many from filing returns. To address this, the introduction of a fixed tax scheme with a no-questions-asked policy could be a game-changer. Such a scheme would reassure taxpayers that they will not be subjected to undue scrutiny or corrupt practices, potentially increasing compliance rates. Moreover, the government must lead by example. If we are to instill a culture of tax compliance, it should be mandatory for every parliamentarian, officeholder, bureaucrat, and even non-civilians to file their taxes annually, including the rejection of zero returns when applicable. This would not only set a precedent but also build public trust in the tax system. And while blocking SIM cards has yielded positive results, sustainable progress will require comprehensive reforms. Simplifying the tax process and ensuring that all public officials lead by example are crucial steps. Only then can we hope to significantly increase tax compliance and secure a fair contribution from all citizens towards national development.

Awami Tehreek slams Sindh's poor law and order situation

By Javed Laghari

DADU: As preparations are underway for the sixth anniversary gathering commemorating the esteemed leader of Awami Tehreek, Rasool Bux Palijo, the party's central leadership has intensified its call for the restoration of the rule of law in Sindh. Lal Jarwar, President of Awami Tehreek central, alongside Noor Ahmed Katiar, Central General Secretary, District Dadu President Advocate Najeeb Maheser, and Riaz Pechuho, visited Dadu Press Club to rally support from political, social, and literary figures, as well as journalists, for the upcoming event.

Addressing the gathering, Lal Jarwar voiced grave concerns over the escalating lawlessness in Sindh, attributing it to a calculated conspiracy aimed at replacing the rule of law with a regime of banditry. He lamented the deteriorating security situation, particularly in Sukkur and Larkana divisions, which he described as becoming safe havens for criminal elements.

Jarwar did not mince words in his criticism of the ruling Pakistan People's Party (PPP), accusing its feudal lords and chiefs of colluding with bandits and perpetuating a culture of impunity. He directly challenged the leadership of PPP, including Chairman Bilawal Bhutto Zardari, Chief Minister Syed Murad Ali Shah, and President Asif Ali Zardari, questioning their accountability in the proliferation of sophisticated weaponry among criminal elements.

Expressing profound sorrow over the targeted killings of journalists, Jarwar condemned the murder of Nasrullah Gadani and other media personnel, attributing these atrocities to the oppressive feudal and tribal systems entrenched in Sindh. He lambasted the Sindh Government and police for their failure to apprehend the perpetrators of such heinous crimes, calling for urgent action to ensure justice for the victims and their families.

In a bold appeal to the judiciary, Jarwar urged the Supreme Court to intervene decisively, establishing a high judicial commission to investigate the rampant lawlessness in Sindh and expedite the arrest of individuals responsible for the murders of journalists, including Nasrullah Gadani and Jan Muhammad Mahar. He also demanded the immediate release of Priya Kumari and the restoration of the rule of law and constitution in Sindh, reaffirming Awami Tehreek's unwavering commitment to upholding justice and accountability.

Terminated employees of Kario Ghanwar Oil Field demand justice

By Abdul Sattar

TANDO MUHAMMAD KHAN: The residents of Pir Ali Shah village in the Tando Ghulam Hyder area, including Ali Asghar Shah, Muhammad Yousef Shah, and Ahmed Ali Shah, have raised their voices against injustice as they demand justice for their wrongful dismissal from the Kario Ghanwar Oil Field four years ago.

Narrating their ordeal to journalists, the aggrieved workers revealed that they were unjustly terminated from their positions at the oil field by the contractor, Noor Muhammad Bhatti, leaving them without employment. Despite seeking assistance from various local leaders, their pleas for justice fell on deaf ears, as the contractor's influence thwarted their efforts.

Faced with no other recourse, they turned to the legal system, where the Civil Judge issued notices to Noor Muhammad Bhatti. However, Bhatti has failed to appear in any hearings, further prolonging their quest for justice.

Adding to their woes, the sacked workers alleged that Noor Muhammad Bhatti has initiated retalitory actions against them, subjecting them to constant harassment and intimidation in an attempt to drive them out of the area. They highlighted instances of unwarranted attacks on their homes by Bhatti and his associates, including Khair Muhammad Laghari, Aziz Kalhero, and Hassan Mahar. Expressing concern for their safety and property, the workers fear that Bhatti's ulterior motive is to seize their 17 acres of agricultural land. In light of these threats, they are appealing to the Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP) Tando Muhammad Khan, the Station House Officer (SHO) Tando Ghulam Hyder, and the Civil Judge to intervene, provide them with protection, and take swift action against Noor Muhammad Bhatti, including his arrest.

The plight of these sacked workers highlights the pressing need for accountability and protection of labor rights, as they continue to pursue justice against powerful interests.

According to reports from ESPN, the Spanish Football club set to see the end of its contract with Benfica Maria has reached an agreement on finances with Lionel Messi Inter Miami.

Angel Di Maria played with his country fellow in the 2021-2022 season before leaving for Juventus. In the following season, Messi also left the Paris-based club after three years and commenced his new life chapter in the Major League Soccer in the last year.

Djokovic shrugs off troubles in winning start at French Open

PARIS: Defending champion Novak Djokovic shrugged off his recent troubles to sweep his way to the top of the 93rd career win at the French Open, extending his run of first round Roland Garros victories to a perfect 20.

Djokovic, chasing a fourth title in Paris and record 25th Grand Slam triumph, came through against 142nd-ranked French wildcard Pierre-Hugues Herbert 6-4, 7-6 (7/3), 6-4.

The 37-year-old, who saw career-long rival and 14-time champion Rafael Nadal exit the tournament on Monday, had arrived under a cloud.

For the first time since 2018, he is without a title and has yet to reach a final this season.

He has also endured recent misfortunes being accidentally hit on the head by a metal water bottle in Rome and then suffering stomach problems in Geneva.

"It was a solid performance," said Djokovic. "I could have done better, especially on the return, but bravo to him for serving well."

"It's a victory in three sets, that's what matters at this moment. I felt better compared to the last few weeks. I was focused. I encouraged myself. I am satisfied with my state of mind."

Djokovic, who has advanced to the French Open quarter-finals or better every year since 2010, will face Spain's 63rd-ranked Roberto Carballes Baena for a place in the last 32.

Australian Open champion Aryna Sabalenka, a semi-finalist in 2023, overpowered Russian teenager Erika Andreeva 6-1, 6-2 in just 68 minutes under the roof of Court Philippe Chatrier as heavy rain caused a five-hour delay to action around the grounds.

World number two Sabalenka fired 27 winners past the 100th-ranked Andreeva and broke serve five times in a dominant display.

"I'm trying to do well on clay, it is tough conditions here but I enjoy playing here and I'm just trying to bring my best tennis every time - whatever the surface," said Sabalenka.

The Belarusian has made at least the last-four at her past six Grand Slams and is expected to be Iga Swiatek's toughest rival in the Polo's bid for a fourth French Open title. There was better luck for Andreeva's younger sister Mirra, who went to the fourth round as a 16-year-old in 2023.

'IPL form is irrelevant': Usman Khawaja on Glenn Maxwell's recent struggles

SYDNEY: Australian Test cricketer Usman Khawaja has extended his support for teammate Glenn Maxwell, expressing optimism that the all-rounder will showcase his form in the upcoming ICC Men's T20 World Cup, despite his recent performance in the IPL.

Maxwell represented Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) in the recently concluded IPL, where he managed a meagre 52 runs in nine innings.

However, Khawaja backed Maxwell, calling IPL form 'irrelevant.' He expressed hope that the all-rounder will bounce back during the mega-event.

"The IPL form is absolutely irrelevant. Maxy's proven himself time and time again. Any player who's performed over a long period of time understands that you can't perform well every time you go out there," Khawaja said while speaking to the West Australian.

The experienced opener acknowledged the high-risk nature of T20 cricket, where the middle-order batters often need to maintain higher strike rates. However, Usman Khawaja expressed confidence that Glenn Maxwell only requires one innings to regain his form.

"You take a few risks, particularly if you bat in the middle order, and T20 cricket's not easy. But for this tournament if he gets one good innings, he's away. It doesn't matter what's happened in the past. He's not going to change his game and nor should he. Just keep going. He'll find it," Khawaja added.

Maxwell did not participate in Australia's first T20 World Cup 2024 warm-up fixture against Namibia yesterday, along with Travis Head, Pat Cummins, Mitchell Starc, Cameron Green, and Marcus Stoinis. These players were participating in IPL and expected to link up with the team soon.

LA-bound Giroud's leadership will be missed, says Milan captain

PERTH: AC Milan captain Davide Calabria said on Wednesday that the departure of Olivier Giroud to Major League Soccer will leave a leadership hole at the seven-time European champions.

Veteran French striker Giroud will play his final match for Milan in a post-season friendly against Rome in Perth on Friday in front of an expected crowd of 50,000 at the Optus Stadium.

The 37-year-old is heading to Los Angeles FC next season and will bow out of international football for France after the Euros, which begin in Germany next month.

Giroud was given an emotional farewell by the Milan fans as he signed off from Serie A with a goal in a 3-3 draw with Salernitana on Saturday.

American midfielder Christian Pulisic and winger Rafael Leao are missing from Milan's tour squad but Giroud has made the long journey to Australia.

"He's an important leader on-and-off the field, particularly off the field," Calabria told reporters in Perth on Wednesday.

Serie A triumph, the only trophy he won at the Italian club.

Giroud is not the only departure at Milan, who are looking for a new coach after coming second in Serie A but failing to mount a serious challenge to fierce rivals Inter Milan.

Stefano Pioli, who had one year remaining on his contract, left at the end of the Serie A campaign after four-and-a-half years in charge.

Reports said he will be replaced by Lille coach Paulo Fonseca, who has also been linked with Marseille.

Jennifer Lopez 'distracting' herself from marital crisis with Big Ben Affleck

Jennifer Lopez is trying to stay occupied in order to distract herself from marital woes with Ben Affleck.

The 54-year-old singer spent Mother's Day apart from her husband despite living in the same city of Los Angeles.

As her latest film Atlas debuted on Memorial Day weekend and topped the Netflix charts in 55 countries, a source now tells PEOPLE that she's keeping herself busy on purpose.

"They're still living separately. She's back in L.A. for tour rehearsals. She seems okay. She's very focused on work," an insider spoke of her sci-fi movie, which attracted 28.2 million views.

Earlier in May, sources privy to In Touch claimed that Ben has "moved out" of their home.

"The writing is on the wall - it's over. They're headed for a divorce - and for once, [Ben's] not to blame!" they had claimed.

"Ben already moved out and they'll likely have to sell the dream house they spent two years searching for. They'll never stop loving each other, but she can't control him, and he can't change her. There's no way it could have lasted," the insider added further.

Don't be desensitized to the horror endured by Palestinians: Bella Hadid

If any celebrity can be counted upon to go the extra mile to stand in solidarity with Palestinians, it is supermodel Bella Hadid. Ever since October 7, Hadid has risked her career by calling out the ongoing atrocities being committed in the Gaza Strip, and has always openly embraced the Palestinian roots she has inherited through her father.

Having recently made a powerful statement at Cannes by boasting a keffiyeh-inspired dress, Bella took to her Instagram to pen a heartfelt, educational note in support of her fellow Palestinians.

"Palestine on my mind, in my blood and on my heart. Always," captioned the supermodel. "While I still have to go to work, even through this horror, to wear our culture makes me a proud Palestinian, and I want the world to continue to see Palestine, wherever we go."

Shedding light on those in the industry who have also supported the same causes as her, Hadid highlighted designers who have worked consistently over the years to promote Palestinian art, history, and culture. Keeping in mind the Israeli air strikes in Rafah that have resulted in yet more civilian deaths, Hadid also pointed her followers towards her Instagram stories so they could appreciate the full spectrum of the deadly humanitarian crisis engulfing the region.

"If you don't know what's happening right now in Gaza, watch my stories (and find other accounts leading to Palestinians on the ground) and please educate yourself on the ongoing occupation and genocide that is happening RIGHT NOW in Gaza," pleaded Hadid in her caption. "Do not be desensitized to the horror that is being endured by the Palestinian people." As part of her relentless campaign to educate her followers about her heritage, Hadid illustrated how the keffiyeh has come to symbolise Palestinian advocacy.

KATI Raises Alarm Over IMF's Trade Deficit Forecast

KARACHI: The Korangi Association of Trade and Industry (KATI) President Johar Qandhari has expressed deep concern over the International Monetary Fund's (IMF) forecast that the trade deficit will exceed $27 billion in the coming financial year. prices of electricity and gas need to be brought down to promote industrialization, set up new industries, eliminate unemployment, and accelerate economic activities," he said.

policy in consultation with industrialists. He stressed that reducing energy and production costs is crucial to boosting exports immediately. Additionally, Qandhari advocated for measures to control imports and reduce dependence on foreign goods by increasing duties on unnecessary and luxury items.

PTI Urges CJP Isa And CEC To Investigate Nawaz's Election As PML-N President

ISLAMABAD: The Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) has called on Chief Justice of Pakistan (CJP) Qazi Faez Isa and Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sikandar Sultan Raja to look into Nawaz Sharif's election as Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) president, media reported on Wednesday.

"The election commission and the supreme court should take notice of the unopposed election of the fugitive and analyse it on the same criteria on which the fair elections of the PTI were tested," the PTI spokesperson said.

"The nation is watching every raton sitting on the state thrones very carefully and will deal with those who deviate from the Constitution and the law," he added.

The former ruling party's remarks come as Nawaz, a three-time former prime minister, was elected as the PML-N President "unopposed" — six years after a court ruling had removed him from office.

Nawaz had lost the prime minister's office in 2017 and the presidency of his party in 2018, as a result of the Panama Papers ruling.

However, he was elected as the party president today once again as no other party leader submitted their nomination papers against the party supremo for the top "guardians of national interests and would fight against the corrupt and oppressive regime until the end".

The spokesperson further rejected the PML-N President May 28 "Youm-e-Takbeer" celebration as "absurd" stressing that the government was attempting to use the national atomic program for their political gains and using public funds to that effect. Underlining that Pakistan's nuclear program was a great national asset which was acquired by the nation by "cutting its belly," he lauded the scientists for making the country a nuclear power and stressed that the program was materialised owing to the competent, hardworking and intelligent patriotic scientists under the unwavering leadership of Dr Abdul Qadeer Khan.—RT/Agency

The party then held its intra-party elections on March 3 which too have been challenged with the ECP raising questions over the current "status" of the former ruling party after losing "its organisational structure on lapsing of 5 years". Terming the PML-N as "nothing more than the personal estate of the Sharifs and the inheritance for their young children," the PTI spokesperson rebuked the "venomous propaganda" against its incarcerated founder Imran Khan stressing that the former premier

Verdict Delayed In Iddat Case As Judge Requests Transfer Of Appeals To Another Court

ISLAMABAD: In a dramatic turn of events, the sessions judge hearing the Iddat case sought its transfer to another court on Monday when announcing the reserved judgment many thought would overturn the incarcerated premier Imran Khan and his wife Bushra Bibi's conviction.

Judge Shahrukh Arjumand left the courtroom after complainant Khawar Maneka expressed no confidence in him. The complainant made emotional arguments after asking the court to grant him 10 minutes to speak.

Shortly after, the judge wrote to the Islamabad High Court (IHC) requesting it to fix the case for hearing in some other court. Judge Arjumand wrote in the letter "Though earlier application of complainants has already been dismissed in this regard on April 30, 2024, but I think it will not be appropriate to decide the IHC hearing in this case as the Presiding Officer."

It added "As arguments at length were heard in the matter, therefore, it is humbly submitted to transfer the appeals to any other court of competent jurisdiction." "It is further submitted that complainant and his counsel always tried to frustrate and delay the proceedings on one pretext or other, therefore, time frame may be fixed for disposal of appeals," the judge wrote.

As the hearing commenced, an hour later than scheduled, Maneka appeared before the court along with his counsel Rizwan Abbasi.

The judge observed that prosecutor Abbasi was yet to present arguments on two points, following which he stepped onto the dais. However, Maneka requested the court for some time to present his arguments. At this, the judge asked him to let his counsel speak first. "My lawyer will not be able to explain my suffering. I will speak myself," replied Maneka.

At this point, Bushra Bibi's counsel Usman Gill urged the court to issue contempt notices to Maneka for interrupting court proceedings. Maneka asked for 10 minutes of speaking time, saying he belonged to a village and that rumors were being spread about him and his daughter's divorce every day. "Fake divorce letters are being made and spread on social media," the complainant maintained.

lawyer Farooq H. Naik, filed two applications before the court on behalf of their clients in a previous hearing, pleading that Asif Ali Zardari has been elected president.

While in another application, his sister Faryal Talpur sought exemption from the court appearance for one day.—RT/Agency

"Under the law, every six months one's permit for such secret recording will be reviewed, has any such review committee been formed to date?"
