Margalla Hills Fire Extinguished Amidst Sweeping Nationwide Heatwave

ISLAMABAD/RAWALPINDI: Authorities on Sunday doused another forest fire that erupted on Margalla Hills as the country remains under the grip of a heatwave.

The latest fire erupted only a day after authorities in the federal capital controlled fire in two separate locations in the Margalla hills. However, Deputy Commissioner Islamabad Irfan Memon said the fire erupted again on the Margalla Hills part located in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa earlier today. He said the Capital Development Authority (CDA) teams were present on the site to control the fire and added that 36 firefighters participated in the firefighting operation. The deputy commissioner said authorities established a firewall to stop the flames from entering the federal city. The Islamabad administration undertook joint efforts with the KP government to contain the flames, he added. The Margalla range, part of the Himalayan foothills, has experienced bushfires relatively often in the summer months. Lately, the fire intermittently erupted in the Islamabad hills. Officials are yet to confirm if the fires are related to the high temperatures or due to arson. However, three suspects were arrested on suspicion of igniting the forest fires, the capital's administration said on Friday. Separately, the fire also erupted in the forest area spreading over an area of 15 to 20 acres located in the Baghar Sharif area of Rawalpindi's Kahuta Tehsil. Rescue teams and police officials are battling the flames to bring it under control. The rescue officials said the risk of fire spreading was increasing as it is a rugged and mountainous area, adding that the rescue officials are extinguishing the fire wherever it is accessible. The district administration has launched an emergency operation and called for more personnel and machinery to contain the blaze. Meanwhile, a fire that erupted in the forest area of Kurd Sharif located in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa's Karak district a day earlier damaged a large number of valuable trees and wildlife. According to rescue officials, the blaze has been brought under control in the Kurd Sharif but smoke is still billowing in some areas. They said due to a lack of access via land route, rescue personnel were facing difficulties as the teams were dispatched to the affected area via Mianwali. According to rescue in-charge Malik Nurul Amin, the fire has been doused but the cooling process is underway in areas where smoke is billowing.

Donald Trump Joins TikTok, A Platform He Once Sought To Ban In US

Republican presidential candidate Donald Trump has joined TikTok, the short video social media platform that is owned by China-based tech giant ByteDance and that he tried to ban as president, ahead of the US elections in November. Politico, which first reported the news, said he posted a launch video on his account on Saturday night. The video showed Trump greeting fans at an Ultimate Fighting Championship fight in Newark, New Jersey. The account, President Donald J Trump with the address @realdonaldtrump, has more than 450,000 followers by 0800 GMT. ByteDance is challenging in courts a US law that came into effect in April requiring it to sell TikTok by next January or face a ban. The White House says it wants to see Chinese-based ownership ended on national security grounds, but not a ban on TikTok. TikTok has argued that it will not share US user data with the Chinese government and that it has taken substantial measures to protect the privacy of its users.

Trump's attempt to ban TikTok in 2020 when he was president was blocked by the courts. He said in March that the platform was a national security threat but also that a ban on it would hurt some young people and only strengthen Meta Platforms' Facebook, which he has strongly criticized.—Agency

LAHORE: To counter the menace of professional beggary, the Punjab government has decided to establish special barracks across the province's jails where beggar mafia chiefs will be imprisoned.

This initiative follows the instructions of Chief Minister Maryam Nawaz Sharif and represents a significant step in the province's crackdown on organized begging.

Sindh needs more officers like Farhat Junejo to speak up against corruption

The recent allegations of rampant corruption within Sindh's Anti-Corruption Establishment (ACE) by the ousted chairman Farhat Junejo are deeply troubling and warrant immediate attention. Junejo's unceremonious removal and subsequent revelations paint a grim picture of the state of governance in Sindh, particularly under the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) leadership, which has been marred by corruption scandals for nearly two decades.

Junejo, a respected BS-21 officer, claimed in his letter to Minister Mohammad Bux Mahar that he was removed for being a "threat to the corruption system." He detailed a nefarious network allegedly extracting Rs60-70 million monthly from various government departments. The allegations suggest that ACE, a body meant to combat corruption, is instead being run like an auction house, with positions and favors bought and sold openly. This is not just a betrayal of public trust but an indication of how deeply entrenched corruption is in the province.

The dismissal of these allegations by the spokesperson for the minister as "baseless" without a thorough investigation only adds to the controversy. The spokesperson's assertion that Junejo's claims are merely retaliatory further underscores the need for transparency and accountability. The Sindh government must address these allegations head-on rather than dismiss them outright.

Corruption in Sindh is a cancer that has crippled public institutions and eroded trust in governance. For the province to have any chance of recovery, it needs more officers like Farhat Junejo—individuals who are willing to stand up against corruption, even at great personal risk. The allegations made by Junejo should not be swept under the rug but should trigger a comprehensive and impartial investigation. Only by rooting out corruption can Sindh hope to build a future where public service is guided by integrity and professionalism.

It is imperative that the Sindh government acts decisively. The people of Sindh deserve better than to be governed by a system that allows corruption to thrive. Now is the time for real change, and it starts with holding those in power accountable.

Businesswoman Halla Tomasdottir Becomes Iceland's New President

Reykjavik: Businesswoman Halla Tomasdottir was on Sunday declared the winner of Iceland's presidential election, final results showed, beating former prime minister Katrin Jakobsdottir whom critics said was too political for the post.

Jakobsdottir conceded defeat early on Sunday and congratulated Tomasdottir, the CEO of The B Team, a global non-profit co-founded by UK business tycoon Richard Branson to promote business practices focused on humanity and the climate.

Iceland's president holds a largely ceremonial position in the parliamentary republic, acting as a guarantor of the constitution and national unity.

He or she does however have the power to veto legislation or submit it to a referendum.

Tomasdottir, 55, won 34.3 percent of votes, ahead of 48-year-old Jakobsdottir, who garnered 25.5 percent after stepping down as prime minister of a left-right government in April to run in Saturday's election.

Tomasdottir, who came second in an earlier bid for the presidency in 2016, received much broader support than opinion polls had suggested in the run-up to this year's vote, spurring in the final days of the campaign after running neck-and-neck with Jakobsdottir.

Jakobsdottir conceded defeat already in the early hours of Sunday, before the last votes were counted.

"It seems to me that Halla Tomasdottir is quickly heading towards becoming the next president of Iceland."

"I congratulate her on that and know that she will be a good president," Jakobsdottir told national broadcaster RUV at an election night rally.

Second woman president Tomasdottir was to make a televised address to the nation later on Sunday. During her election rally in the early hours of Sunday, she told daily Morgunblaðið was "just trying to breathe".

"I feel incredibly good. I know it's not over until it's over. So I'm also just trying to stay calm and breathe," she said.

Tomasdottir is also the founder of Audur Capital, an investment firm created in 2007 aimed at promoting feminine values in the financial sector.

No one central issue dominated the campaign, where candidates traditionally run as independents without party affiliations.

In the country of 380,000 people, any citizen gathering

1,500 signatures can run for office.

While Jakobsdottir was at times seen as the favourite, political observers had suggested that her background as prime minister could weigh against her.

Among the other main candidates in the field of 13 were a political science professor, a comedian, and an Arctic and energy scholar.

Tomasdottir is set to be the second woman to serve as Iceland's president.

In 1980, Vigdís Finnbogadóttir became the world's first woman democratically elected as head of state.

Tomasdottir will take over the position on August 1, succeeding the hugely popular Gudni Johannesson, who has held the job since 2016. He announced earlier this year that he would not seek re-election. Jakobsdottir, party leader for the Left Green Movement from 2013 until her presidential bid, has been hailed for her handling of the resurgence in volcanic eruptions on the Reykjanes peninsula since December.—Agency

UK PM Rishi Sunak Takes Swipe At Labour Party Over "Lack Of Plans"

London: As the countdown for the UK general elections has started, British Prime Minister Rishi Sunak on Sunday took a swipe at the opposition Labour Party, apparently referring that the party doesn't have any plans for the country, if they come to power.

Rishi Sunak shared a short video on the social media platform X. In the video, Mr Sunak said, "Right, here we go again. Today I'm going to be doing an explainer on Labour's policy for our country's future." He then pointed to the clean board and left the room.

While sharing the video on X, Mr Sunak wrote, "NEW: Labour's plan explained" Mr Sunak has been repeatedly asserting that the Labour does not have any plans for UK and will push the country into "uncertainty."

On May 25, UK PM Rishi Sunak launched an attack on the opposition Labour Party, alleging that they "don't have a plan" and will push the country into "uncertainty." Earlier on May 22, Mr Sunak, in a surprise announcement outside Downing Street, declared the general election on July 4. Taking to social media platform X, Mr Sunak said, "We all know that Labour doesn't have a plan. But what does that actually mean if they go to power?"

"Uncertainty. Who knows what they would do in government? They won't tell us how they would fund any of their policies. They refused to meet our defence spending pledge. But what is the cost of this uncertainty?" he asked. The UK PM said that an uncertain future has consequences, which make the world "more dangerous". Mr Sunak also affirmed that he has taken the "bold action" necessary to secure the country. "An uncertain future has consequences. Our enemies notice. The world becomes more dangerous as they take advantage of our weakness. This leads to higher prices of food and fuel, as well as a greater risk of attacks against our nation," Mr Sunak said.—Agency

China marks 4th lunar success as Chang'e 6 probe lands on moon's far side

China's space agency, the China National Space Administration (CNSA), has announced that its Chang'e 6 mission lander made a successful soft landing on the far side of the moon late Saturday.

The lander softly touched down on the moon at 6:23pm on a southern portion of the Apollo crater within the South Pole-Aitken (SPA) Basin on the lunar far side, Space News reported.

The lunar landing marks a crucial achievement for China as the lander mission will soon begin collecting and bringing unique and scientifically invaluable lunar samples to Earth for analysis.

According to the United States' decadal surveys, an SPA sample return is a "high-priority science objective".

The Chang'e 6 mission marks China's fourth successful lunar landing from four attempts, and the second on the far side of the moon.

It is also the third lunar landing in January and Intuitive Machines' IM-1 Odyssey lander in February.

Teams will now begin initial checks of the lander's systems and soon begin collecting up to 2,000 grams of samples, including surface regolith and subsurface material.—Agency

"He Should Be...": Adult Star Breaks Silence On Donald Trump's Conviction

Stormy Daniels, the adult film actor, broke her silence after former US president Donald Trump's conviction to say he should be jailed, in an interview published in British tabloid The Mirror at the weekend.

"I think he should be sentenced to jail and some community service working for the less fortunate, or being the volunteer punching bag at a women's shelter," Daniels said in the interview, published late on Saturday.

A jury of 12 New Yorkers on Thursday found Trump guilty on 34 counts of business fraud for trying to cover up hush money payments to Daniels on the eve of the 2016 presidential election.

Daniels, whose real name is Stephanie Clifford, was paid $130,000 to keep silent and prevent scandal from breaking ahead of the election, in which Trump narrowly defeated Hillary Clinton.

After years of exchanging insults with Trump on social media, Daniels now says she finally has been "vindicated", although she was "shocked" at how quickly the jury made a decision -- one that made Trump the first ever former US president to be convicted of a crime.

Daniels also accused the White House hopeful of being "completely and utterly out of touch with reality" and compared him to a child at one point in the interview.

"Intimidating" The former adult film actor and director helped bring Trump down in court with her gripping testimony, which included graphic descriptions of what she says was a casual sexual encounter in 2006.

"Being in court was so intimidating with the jurors looking at you," she said in the Mirror interview, adding that she was glad it was proved that she had been "telling the truth the entire time".

"It's not over for me. It's never going to be over for me. Trump may be guilty, but I still have to live with the legacy."

The 45-year-old had remained uncharacteristically quiet in the days following the Thursday conviction.

Daniels's husband Barrett Blaine had previously told CNN that she was "still processing" the trial. He suggested that she could be threatened by Trump's supporters.

"You know, all the MAGA idiots are going to be coming after her," Blaine said, referring to Trump's Make America Great Again movement.—Agency

Pakistan team to be 'royal guests at Hajj' if they win T20 World Cup 2024

ISLAMABAD: Ambassador of Saudi Arabia to Pakistan Nawaf bin Saeed Ahmed Al Maliki has announced that the Pakistan cricket team will be the royal guests on Hajj next year if they win the ongoing ICC T20 World Cup-2024.

In a special video message released on Sunday, the top Saudi diplomat also extended his best wishes to the Men in Green for the mega cricket gala. "My message to my brothers of the Pakistan cricket team is that, God willing, you will win this tournament."

"The Pakistani people will celebrate the team's success in the World Cup," the envoy said.

He also expressed his prayers for Pakistan's prosperity and development, adding that if the team clinch the ICC T20 World Cup 2024, they will be honoured as royal guests during Hajj next year.

The Pakistan team will be playing its first match of the T20 World Cup 2024 on Thursday against the US.

Pakistan's captain Babar Azam appeared as a special guest in the 52nd edition of the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) podcast on Sunday.

Babar discussed in the podcast that the match between the biggest rivals, India and Pakistan, carries a lot of importance for the world and has a separate fan base.

The most-awaited match between Pakistan and India will take place on Sunday (June 9) during the T20 World Cup 2024.

Morover, Babar wants his team to perform well against India, play easy cricket, and believe in their skills and hard work.

"The whole world is focused on the day when the India-Pakistan match is held. Naturally, there will be nerves, but we need to keep our focus, stick to the basics and play easy cricket. It is always a pressure game; the more you keep cool and calm, believe in your skills and hard work, then things get easier," Babar said.

In the episode, the top-order batter of the team sat down for a candid discussion focusing on the forthcoming T20 World Cup 2024.—Agency

Imran Nazir, Ahmed Shehzad suggest Pakistan's ideal opening pair for T20 World Cup

LAHORE: Imran Nazir and Ahmed Shehzad suggested changes to Pakistan's opening pair for the ongoing T20 World Cup.

Led by Babar Azam, Pakistan will begin their T20 World Cup campaign on June 6 against the United States in Dallas and all eyes are on the players who will open the innings for them.

Nazir, who represented Pakistan in 25 T20Is, believed that Fakhar Zaman should open the innings alongside Mohammad Rizwan as scoring in the first six overs is the most important thing in T20Is.

"We can only talk about the players from the 15-man squad, not those who are already out. If I talk about Fakhar [Zaman], I think he is one of those batters [for opening]," Nazir said while talking on Geo News.

"If you cannot set the tone [of the match] in the first six overs, neither you can chase the target, nor you can score a big total. For a long time, we have the same players opening the innings, Saim [Ayub] got the chance but he could not do much."

"I would go with Fakhar opening the innings alongside Rizwan and Babar would come at number three."

Shehzad was sitting next to Nazir and he agreed with some of the former batter's views. The 32-year-old named Usman Khan as the opener next to Rizwan, saying that if someone is included in the team, they should play at their original position.

"I will agree with some of Imran bhai's points because it is very important to have a good start in the first six overs. Gone are the days when you used to play in the UAE where you would score 140 or 145 and defend the target because of your elite spin attack," Shehzad said.

"It is one thing to play a poor ball and time it perfectly, everyone can do that. But when you score boundaries on great balls then it affects the bowlers and the team. So, keeping everything in mind, Rizwan should open alongside Usman Khan."

Usman Khan because if you have put him in the team, then play him at his position. He showed his potential in the last match [against England]. If Babar comes as an opener, then our middle order is already vulnerable, who will stand there? So, he should come in at number three and try to take the game deep with a good strike rate.—Agency

Kylian Mbappe signs contract with Real Madrid after Champions League win

PARIS: French striker Kylian Mbappe has signed a contract with Real Madrid, weeks after the announcement of leaving Paris Saint-Germain last month, according to a BBC report Sunday.

The 25-year-old signed a contract on a free transfer to join Madrid as the PSG deal is set to expire on June 30.

In a video message on X, formerly Twitter, Kylian Mbappe announced leaving PSG at the end of the season. The signing of a contract with Real Madrid was announced by an Italian sports journalist Fabrizio Romano.

On X, the Italian journalist said: "Kylian Mbappe to Real Madrid... HERE WE GO."

"It's a lot of emotions, many years where I had the chance and a great honour to be a member of the biggest French club," Mbappe told his fans on X on May 10.

Kylian Mbappe commenced his journey with Real Madrid in 2017. The French club witnessed three Ligue 1 titles in 2017, 2018-19 and 2020-21.

In an emotional video message, Mbappe went on: "One of the best in the world, which allowed me to arrive here, to have my first experience in a club with a lot of pressure, to grow as a player of course, by being alongside some of the best in history some of the greatest champions to meet a lot of people, to grow as a man as well." He thanked his teammates, managers, and the supporting people in PSG who are not at the forefront but in the shadows.—Agency

Champions Madrid will retain same winning 'desire': Ancelotti

MADRID: Real Madrid coach Carlo Ancelotti said his team would be back for more silverware with the same hunger next season after claiming a record-extending 15th Champions League trophy at Wembley on Saturday.

Los Blancos held off Borussia Dortmund and then struck twice through Dani Carvajal and Vinicius Junior to secure a 2-0 victory.

"Here there's no danger of our stomachs being too full... tomorrow this club will enjoy another fantastic day with our fans, then to rest, the players will go to the Euros, the Copa America, then we will return with the same desire and hope as ever," pledged Ancelotti.

The Italian lifted the trophy for a record-extending fifth time as a coach and his players jubilantly tossed him into the air during the celebrations.

"This competition gave me fantastic happiness, as a player, as a manager," continued Ancelotti, who turns 65 on June 10. "My target is to try to repeat the same emotion that we (have) the week after this game, this is the target."

"I have the luck to be at the best club in the world." The coach said he rated the team's performance this season as "10 out of 10" after severe injuries to several key players including David Alaba, Eder Militao and Thibaut Courtois, the latter of whom started the final.

Madrid, who completed a La Liga and Champions League double for the fifth time in their history, are Spain's dominant force.

That advantage may be further increased by the signing of France striker Kylian Mbappe at the end of his Paris Saint-Germain deal, a move expected to be announced in the coming days.

Madrid will lose German midfielder metronome Toni Kroos, retiring from football after Euro 2024.

"What will happen now? Something will happen. We lost an important player, we will have other players to take over," said Ancelotti.—Agency

Hayes off to winning start as US women thrash South Korea

DENVER: Emma Hayes got her international coaching career off to a flying start as the United States defeated South Korea 4-0 in a friendly in Colorado.

Mallory Swanson and Tierna Davidson scored two goals apiece to give Hayes a resounding victory in her first game in charge of the American women since her appointment was announced in November last year.

The 47-year-old former Chelsea boss was named to the US job in the wake of the USA's early exit at last year's Women's World Cup, and has been tasked with reviving the fortunes of the four-time world champions.

Hayes couldn't have hoped for a smoother start to her reign as a confident US line-up dismantled the Koreans in bright sunshine at a packed Dick's Sporting Goods Park in suburban Denver.

"We were controlled in what we did in the first half, we struck to the structures and the coaching," Hayes said. "Everybody did what I asked of them."

Hayes inherited a US squad grappling with controversy in April after anti-LGBTQ social media posts by midfielder Korbin Albert came to light. Albert was handed her first minutes under Hayes on Saturday after appearing as a substitute.

The English coach said after Saturday's game, which saw the US team wearing shirts emblazoned with rainbow-colored numbers to mark the start of Pride month, that she wanted to build a tolerant team culture.

"We want an environment which is tolerant and respectful and even though there's difference, it's important for us that we live up to the values and everything this team is about," Hayes said.—Agency

LAHORE: Punjab Assembly Opposition Leader Malik Ahmad Khan Bhachar asserted to Punjab government to abstain from filing unfair FIRs against Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) workers.

In a press conference in Lahore, Malik Ahmad claimed that the incumbent government was a forged government formed on Form-47, backed by court verdicts.

He stated that the government's reliance on retired judges for making fair decisions was flawed, saying, "Retired judges can't issue fair judgments." He reiterated, "You (government) are binding a person sitting in court to the decisions of the cabinet."

The opposition leader warned the incumbent

He criticized the Punjab government, labeling it as a TikTok government that was exerting pressure on PTI workers, actions that would eventually haunt them.

Referring to the May 9 riots incident, he highlighted that 16 individuals from PTI were martyred, yet no FIRs were registered against the perpetrators.

Seminar On World Anti-Tobacco Day Raises Awareness On Smoking Hazards And Advocates For Increased Cigarette Taxes

ISLAMABAD: On the occasion of World Anti-Tobacco Day, an awareness seminar was organized to raise awareness about the health risks associated with tobacco use and its harmful effects. The theme for this year's World No Tobacco Day is "Protecting Children From Tobacco Industry Interference and Advocating for an End to the Targeting of Youth with Harmful Tobacco Products."

The seminar aimed to highlight the urgent need for the government to impose a 37-40% tax on cigarettes in the budget for 2024-25. Speakers emphasized the importance of public awareness about the harmful effects of smoking and encouraged individuals to quit for a healthier life.

In his address, Barrister

Aqeel Malik, the Federal Government's spokesperson for legal affairs, pointed out the rising smoking trends among young people and urged the government to impose higher taxes on cigarettes, citing examples from countries like Australia where a pack costs 58 dollars. He stressed the importance of enforcing existing laws in addition to increasing taxes, stating that this would help deter the younger generation from smoking.

Social worker Abdul Moez Tariq expressed concern over smoking becoming a fashion trend among the youth and suggested that making cigarettes more expensive would help keep them out of reach. He highlighted that Pakistan loses 567 billion rupees in revenue due to favorable tax policies for international cigarette companies.

Dr. Asif Iqbal, MD of Social Policy and Development, noted that according to global health experts, tobacco use is the second leading cause of death after high blood pressure. He mentioned that after the government imposed a tax on cigarettes, 26 out of 100 people reduced their smoking habit.

As responsible citizens, the speakers urged the government to implement a track and trace system and impose a 37-40% tax on tobacco in the next fiscal year's budget. The additional revenue generated could be used to fund the health and education sectors, contributing to the overall well-being of the nation.—RT

Donald Trump makes major statements after hush money conviction

Former US president Donald Trump has made major revelations about himself and the case after hush money conviction in which the 12-member jury found him guilty on Thursday. While speaking in an interview with Fox News Sunday, the 77-year-old Trump called himself opposite to what President Joe Biden and his Democrats call the former president a threat to US democracy. It is the first time that the business mogul has sat down with a popular US TV channel for an interview. "Now I'm leading over this guy (Joe Biden)... who can't put two sentences together, that's destroying our country. Look, he's the worst president in the history of this country, and he's a danger to the country." "And you know, they have misinformation — 'Donald Trump is a threat to democracy' — it's just words. He doesn't even know what it means. But it's like their slogan, 'I'm a threat to democracy.' I'm the opposite. They're the threat to democracy," the Republican presumptive nominee said.

President Joe Biden repeatedly called Trump a major threat to US democracy underlining the former commander-in-chief's cases, unsubstantiated claims about elections, and his impeachments.

Thursday's verdict marked history in the US in which Trump became the first former president to be convicted of a crime in New York City, for falsifying business records to pay hush money to an adult film star Stormy Daniels.—Agency

California's Clear Lake Turns Green With Algae, Visible From Space, Says NASA

California's largest freshwater lake has become a vibrant emerald due to a massive algal bloom. The bloom's intensity is so extreme that NASA captured it in satellite images taken in mid-May.

The culprit behind the vibrant hue could be cyanobacteria, also known as blue-green algae, along with other types of phytoplankton. Clear Lake, a popular hub for fishing, water sports, and recreation (nicknamed the "bass capital of the west"), stretches over 68 square miles in Northern California, roughly 100 miles north of San Francisco. Local public health officials have warned visitors, urging them to be aware of the algae blooms. This includes keeping pets away from the water and avoiding areas that appear discolored, have surface scum, or emit a foul odour, as reported by the Press Democrat newspaper.

The appearance of cyanobacteria in Clear Lake is not unusual, but it has occurred earlier and in greater abundance than in typical years," the newspaper said. Current levels of toxins in the water are being tested. The Big Valley Band of Pomo Indians has been monitoring water quality at the lake for the past decade. "This year has the earliest blooms since the Tribal program lakeshore cyanobacteria and cyanotoxin sampling began in 2014," a Clear Lake water quality Facebook page noted. While archaeological evidence suggests humans have inhabited the area around Clear Lake for a staggering 12,000 years, sediment samples reveal the lake has harbored significant algae populations for a similarly vast period.—Agency

Proposal Under Review To Increase Tax Rates For Real Estate Sellers And Buyers

ISLAMABAD: The government is considering different proposals to bring the real estate sector into the tax net including raising the tax rates for sellers and purchasers for both filers and non-filers as well as collecting Gains Tax irrespective of any period.

In the name of progressive taxation under the IMF demands, the Federal Bureau of Revenue (FBR) is contemplating options to come up with taxation rates of 3% for property transactions up to Rs50 million, 4% for up to Rs70 million, and 7% for Rs100 million under 236C for sellers.

It is under consideration to include capital gains in income (in the case of individuals, including such gains under the head "Income from property", and in the case of corporations, under the head "Income from a business"). It is proposed to repeal the capital gains exemption for industrial undertaking in a Special Export Zone (Clause 126D) of Part-I of the Second Schedule) of Income Tax.

Related to enhancing taxation on real estate, there is another proposal that is not directly linked with the budget-making exercise for 2024-25 but the FBR might opt to jack up valuation tables for real estate for differences in rates between the market and FBR's notified valuation rates.

The FBR has undertaken an exercise to revise upward the valuation tables of major cities but it was not yet notified. The revised valuation table might be notified from the start of the next fiscal year. The upward revision in valuation tables helped the FBR collect more taxes after raising the base of valuation rates of different plots depending on the area defined by the FBR.

Under 236C, there is an advance tax on the sale or transfer of immovable property. Now the FBR is considering amending the meaning of "personal movable property" in Section 37(1) of the Income Tax Ordinance (ITO) to include a catch-all category comprising any property capable of being held as an investment, not being stock-in-trade or assets that depreciate or amortise for the ITO.

The FBR will review the tax slabs for capital gains on real estate and listed securities, make sure that such gains are taxed at an appropriate rate for capital (as opposed to labour) income, and eliminate the provision that capital gains are untaxed once the underlying asset has been held for a certain period.

The taxation of capital gains could be strengthened. One way is to broaden the types of assets subject to capital gains taxation, and in particular, by ensuring that new types of investment assets, such as cryptocurrencies, are within the scope of capital gains taxation. Another is to ensure that capital gains on real properties and listed securities are subject to tax, regardless of the duration of ownership.—Agency Skipper Assad Vala made 22-ball 21 with the help of two fours and a six. Kiplin Doriga (27*) chipped in with some vital runs at the backend to take the total to 136/8.

Uncovering DPRK's Illicit Operations: The Role Of Nam Chol Ung And The RGB

By Rim Yun ho

The UN Panel of Experts, tasked with enforcing sanctions on North Korea (DPRK), concluded its term on April 30, 2024, following a Russian veto on its extension. Established in 2009, the panel aimed to curb DPRK's nuclear and missile programs.

In its final report, the panel highlighted 112 instances of DPRK's sanction violations, spotlighting Nam Chol Ung, an officer of the Reconnaissance General Bureau (RGB), a key intelligence agency. Nam operated clandestine businesses abroad, linked to supporting the Kim family's regime and even implicated in Kim Jong Nam's assassination.

Nam Chol Ung orchestrated illegal trade, including smuggling fuel and luxury goods, violating UNSC Resolution 2270. To evade sanctions, he set up offices in Thailand and Laos using fake documents, funneling profits to the regime.

Nam's son seeks employment at a UN organization, raising concerns about his ties to DPRK's illicit activities. Meanwhile, Nam's wife manages his assets from China, though China remains silent on the matter.

The report recommends sanctions on Nam Chol Ung and the cyber hacking group Lazarus, operated by DPRK. Despite Nam's departure from Thailand, the report underscores the need for global vigilance against individuals like him. As the report unfolds, it serves as a critical case study for international authorities, signaling the gravity of DPRK's illicit activities and urging decisive action against individuals like Nam Chol Ung.

Dystopia is the new world order

By Kazi Shahana Akbar Abbasi

The dystopian reality of our world is quickly turning into a nightmare that will obliterate international order as we know it.

This stark contrast is highlighted by the ongoing humanitarian crisis in Gaza, where civilians are quite literally burning to death. The latest Israeli airstrike on a tent camp in Rafah resulted in the deaths of 45 civilians and produced some of the most horrific videos to ever be posted to social media. One such video depicted a father holding the burnt corpse of his beheaded child.

The following day, images were posted of American politician and diplomat Nikki Haley visiting the northern border of Israel and signing missiles with the words "FINISH THEM." Such appalling spectacles have been recurring in the Western world ever since the war on Gaza was reinstated back in October.

Celebrities continue to parade an ostentatious display of frivolity at events such as the Met Gala and Cannes Film Festival. It is important to note that while innocent civilians in Gaza have been cut off from necessities such as food and water for over six months, celebrities in the West spent upwards of $75,000 on a ticket to the Met Gala in May.

It is unfathomable to scroll on social media and witness the dissonant combination of luxury and indulgence at the hands of public figures while families in Gaza are posting videos begging for donations needed to escape the war zone. The juxtaposition of these two worlds represents a grotesque reality that is worse than what we witness in movies such as The Hunger Games.

Last month, President Asif Ali Zardari, while chairing a special meeting over the law and order situation in Sindh, directed Sindh Chief Minister Murad Ali Shah to launch a large-scale operation against street criminals in Karachi. Fazl Criticizes Institutions For Breaching Constitutional Protocols MUZZAFARGH: Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam-Fazl (JUI-F) Chief Maulana Fazlur Rehman lashed out on Sunday at institutions, stating that the entities which break the constitution are the ones responsible for carrying out the rebellion.

While addressing a rally in Muzaffargarh, the JUI-F chief asserted that certain institutions played no part in the creation of Pakistan but contributed to its disintegration.

Fazl accused the establishment of tampering with the constitution, asserting that those who break it are the true rebels, not them.

He criticized the current government setup while reflecting on the ongoing fight against terrorism, noting, "[They] declared a war against terrorism, yet terrorism continues to rise."

"If terrorism is crossing the borders, then where are you standing on the borders?" Fazl stated while questioning the military's effectiveness. He also discussed the deteriorating law and order situation, the JUI-F chief noted. "The people of KP and Balochistan are suffering from severe unrest."

Schedule during his address, the JUI-F chief declared, "The fourth schedule will not stop us."

The JUI-F chief announced that on the occasion of the Golden Jubilee of Khatam-e-Nabuwat, the party will celebrate "Youm-e-Fatah" on September 7 at Minar-e-Pakistan.

Expressing solidarity with Palestinians over Israel's ongoing horrific assault on the besieged Gaza Strip, he stated that the Muslims of Palestine have sacrificed a lot.

"[Even] the European countries are being forced to recognize Palestine as a state [now]," he added.

"We want to convey to the Palestinians that Pakistan stands with you," the JUI-F chief proclaimed.

Referring to the recent scandal involving wheat, he questioned the import of sub-standard crops, asking, "Why did you import 3.5 million tons of worm-infested wheat?" while alleging that a "deal" was made.

Last month on May 24, the PTI senior leadership held a consultative meeting wherein it came to the fore that in their talks with a party delegation, the JUI-F chief demanded that he would join the opposition alliance only when a fresh movement was launched from a new platform.

According to a report by BBC Urdu released on May 8, Fazl claimed that if the "powerful circles" did not admit that the February 8 general elections were "rigged," then that meant the people had also "rejected" their narrative on last year's May 9 violence.—RT/Agency

Maldives Plans Ban On Israeli Visitors In Protest Against Gaza Conflict

Male: The Indian Ocean nation of the Maldives will ban Israelis from the luxury tourist hot spot, the office of the president said Sunday, announcing a national rally in "solidarity with Palestine".

The Maldives, a tiny Islamic republic of more than 1,000 strategically located coral islets, is known for its secluded sandy white beaches, shallow turquoise lagoons and Robinson Crusoe-style getaways.

President Mohamed Muizzu has "resolved to impose a ban on Israeli passports" a spokesman for his office said in a statement, without giving details of when the new law would take effect.

Muizzu also announced a national fundraising campaign called "Maldivians in Solidarity with Palestine".

The Maldives had lifted a previous ban on Israeli tourists in the early 1990s and moved to restore relations in 2010.

However, normalisation attempts were scuttled following the toppling of president Mohamed Nasheed in February 2012. Opposition parties and government allies in the Maldives have been putting pressure on Muizzu to ban Israelis, as a sign of protest against October 7 attack on Israel, which resulted in the deaths of 1,189 people, mostly civilians, according to an AFP tally based on Israeli official figures.

Hamas also took 252 hostages, 121 of whom remain in Gaza, including 37 the army says are dead.

EU Maintains Ban On Pakistani Air Carriers, Including PIA

KARACHI: The European Union (EU) refused to lift the ban on Pakistani air carriers including PIA, media reported on Saturday.

The European Union (EU) in its recent meeting found no grounds for amending the current list of air carriers banned from operating within the Union, including Pakistani airlines.

This decision comes after a comprehensive review by the EU Air Safety Committee, which involved an on-site evaluation of the Pakistan Civil Aviation Authority (PCAA) and sample assessments of Pakistani air carriers Fly Jinnah and Airblue Ltd.

The on-site assessment, conducted between November 27 and 30, 2023, focused on the PCAA's role and responsibility in safety oversight.

Although the PCAA demonstrated adherence to international safety standards and was staffed by technically skilled professionals.

However, the on-site assessment team identified several shortcomings, including insufficient scrutiny in closing findings based on proposed corrective actions rather than actual evidence, deviations from established procedures, and a severe understaffing in the Flight Standards Directorate.

Despite these issues, no major safety concerns were identified in the airworthiness or personnel licensing and training organizations, which were found to be appropriately staffed.

Fly Jinnah, one of the air carriers assessed, was noted for needing improvement in record keeping and management of findings.

The PCAA presented a Corrective Action Plan (CAP) on May 6, 2024, and elaborated on the steps taken to address the identified issues during a hearing before the EU Air Safety Committee on May 14, 2024.

Notably, the PCAA increased the number of qualified inspectors from one to nineteen in the Flight Standards Directorate, established a Quality Control section in each department, and created a central Quality Assurance department.

Fly Jinnah detailed its current operations and the measures taken to address quality management system flaws, including the use of software tools for various

Naqvi Directs For Accelerated Passport Issuance For Overseas Pakistanis

ISLAMABAD: Taking notice of the delay in issuing passports to overseas Pakistanis, Interior Minister Mohsin Naqvi on Sunday directed to expedite the service for timely issuance of the document to them.

Speaking during his visit to Nadra and passport centres in London, the interior minister directed officials to issue urgent passports to overseas Pakistanis within seven days and normal passports within 30 days.

"This policy will be applicable to all Pakistani missions abroad," he said as normal passports were being issued in about four months while urgent in one and a half months.

Naqvi said delay would not be tolerated anymore and action would be taken against non-issuance of passport within the stipulated time.

He also established a monitoring cell and appointed his Personal Staff Officer ASP Shahrbano as its head "to ensure delivery of passports within the time". Overseas Pakistanis will be able to lodge a complaint at the email address: passport@interior.gov.pk if they do not receive their passport within time, Radio Pakistan reported.

During the visit, the interior minister interacted with the Pakistanis present at the centres as well.

He appreciated the Nadra staff as no one complained about their service. He congratulated them for their good performance. Taking notice of the staff shortage, the minister directed effective staff management to fulfil the staff requirement. On this occasion, Pakistan's High Commissioner to the United Kingdom Dr Muhammad Faisal was accompanying the interior minister.—RT/Agency

Pakistan's Potential Absence From Ukraine Peace Summit

ISLAMABAD: More than two years after the Russian invasion of Ukraine, Pakistan is now facing yet another diplomatic challenge.

Pakistan is among the countries from the so-called Global South invited to the Ukraine Peace Summit to be held in Switzerland on June 15 and 16.

Islamabad was extended an invitation for the first time to such an international conference on the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

Foreign Office Spokesperson Mumtaz Zahra Baloch confirmed at the weekly briefing last week that Pakistan was invited to the summit. She said the invitation was under consideration.

However, sources said that Pakistan was likely to skip the peace summit as part of its efforts to maintain "neutrality."

Sources noted that since Russia was not invited to the summit, it might not be useful. However, they said that a final decision had yet to be made.

China too was extended an invitation but Beijing has already decided to stay away. Officials in Beijing questioned the credibility of the process when Russia, a main party to the conflict, was not invited.

Sources said that Pakistan usually takes cues from China on such key international and regional issues.

However, observers believe that it wouldn't be a surprise if Western countries were quietly persuading Pakistan to attend the conference.

When Russia invaded Ukraine in February 2022, Pakistan's then-prime minister Imran Khan was in Moscow. His visit, though unrelated to President Vladimir Putin's decision, certainly raised many eyebrows, particularly in the West.

Imran later cited his Moscow trip as one of the main reasons behind his ouster through a vote of no confidence. Basing his claim on that infamous diplomatic cable, the jailed former premier believed that the US was not happy with his move and hence conspired against his government.

The US always denied the allegations while opposition parties, which ousted him from power, dismissed the involvement of any foreign hand.

It is evident that the Russia-Ukraine conflict has tested Pakistan's diplomatic skills.—RT/Agency

Chinese Envoy Anticipates Strengthening Of Ties With PM Shehbaz's Visit

ISLAMABAD: Chinese ambassador to Pakistan Jiang Zaidong has said that Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's visit to his country would inject strong impetus to upgrade the all-weather strategic cooperation between the two friendly nations, according to a statement issued on Sunday.

The premier will leave for China on Tuesday for a five-day visit at the invitation of his Chinese counterpart Li Qiang.

"[PM Shehbaz's visit will] provide constant boost to Pakistan's economic and social development and send [a] strong signal of solidarity and cooperation between our two countries to the international community," the ambassador added.

"The strategic communication between [the] leaders of the two countries guides our relations. Over the past 73 years, [the] leaders of the two countries frequently visited each other like close relatives. Under the strategic guidance of our leaders, the ironclad friendship between China and Pakistan stood the test of times."

The ambassador expected the leaders of the two countries to reach new important consensus on high quality development of the China-Pakistan Economic Corridor these schemes had resulted in $25.4 billion in direct investment, 236,000 jobs, 510 kilometres of highway, more than 8,000 MW of electricity and 886 kilometres of core power transmission network.

The ambassador noted that in March after the general elections, President Xi Jinping sent congratulatory letters to President Asif Ali Zardari and PM Shehbaz on taking charge of their new positions, highlighting that the two countries should jointly build the upgraded version of CPEC and an even closer China-Pakistan community with a shared future for the new era.

"[The] Pakistani leaders replied with gratitude, expressing their strong agreement with President Xi Jinping's important opinion."—RT/Agency
