"I tried to stop the [passage] of the defamation bill as governor," he said while speaking to the media in Dubai on Sunday.

His statement comes a day after interim Punjab Governor Malik Muhammad Ahmad Khan signed the bill into law in the absence of Haider.

Government establishes departments to speed up mining

ISLAMABAD: The federal government has established departments in all provinces to speed up mining of mineral reserves in Pakistan.

The minerals sector is one of the priority sectors of Special Investment Facilitation Council (SIFC) and collaborations are being made with local and foreign investors for its promotion.

Mining in Chagai district has been accelerated since the out-of-court settlement with Barrack Gold. It is a $4 billion project in which Pakistan will contribute $2 billion. A $1 billion mining fund has also been established jointly by Pakistan and Kuwait under the SIFC.

Earlier in 2022, Pakistan and Barrick Gold Corporation have signed $8 billion landmark agreement on Reko Diq project after Supreme Court (SC) termed the deal 'legal'.

The $8 billion landmark agreement was signed by Reko Diq Gold Corporation representative and federal and Balochistan government representatives.

The Supreme Court (SC) of Pakistan on Dec 9 ruled that new deal on the Reko Diq gold and copper mining project in Balochistan is legal. Reko Diq is one of the world's largest undeveloped copper-gold mines. The project is being restarted after remaining on hold since 2011.

The top court announced the ruling on a reference sent by President Arif Alvi under Article 186 of the Constitution of Pakistan in the Reko Diq Project on the advice of Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif.—RT/Agency

Russia's Latest Generation Fighter Jet Su-57 Hit For First Time, Claims Ukraine

Kyiv: Ukrainian forces have for the first time hit a latest-generation Russian Su-57 fighter jet at an air base inside Russia, Kyiv's GUR defence intelligence agency said on Sunday, showing satellite pictures which it said confirmed the strike.

In a Telegram post, the GUR did not specify how the Su-57 was hit or by which unit of the Ukrainian military.

A popular Russian pro-war military blogger who calls himself Fighterbomber and focuses on aviation said the report of the strike on the Su-57 was correct and that it had been hit by a drone.

The GUR said the aircraft was parked at the Akhtubinsk airfield, which it said was 589 km (366 miles) from front lines in Ukraine between Ukrainian and Russian invasion forces.

"The pictures show that on June 7, the Su-57 was standing intact, and on (June 8th), there were craters from the explosion and characteristic spots of fire caused by fire damage near it," the GUR said, with the images posted alongside the message.

Ukraine has been fighting a full-scale Russian invasion since February 2022. Both sides conduct regular strikes hundreds of kilometers into enemy territory with missiles and drones.—Agency

Reading Between The Lines Of Manzoor Wassan's Predictions

Senior Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) leader Manzoor Wassan's recent forecast about Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif possibly dissolving the National Assembly within the next three months has sparked considerable speculation. Known for his bold predictions, Wassan insists that the upcoming trimester is "extremely crucial" for Pakistan's political landscape, ruling out the possibility of Nawaz Sharif returning as the premier and doubting favourable conditions for PTI founder Imran Khan.

While Wassan's statements have created a media stir, it is crucial to recognize the underlying message they convey. Such a startling prediction would not have been made without the tacit approval of the PPP leadership, particularly from the party's president, Asif Ali Zardari. Wassan's declaration should be seen as a strategic communication from the PPP, signaling both their internal stance and a broader message to other political stakeholders.

The implications of Wassan's remarks extend beyond the immediate political theatrics. They suggest that the PPP is not only asserting its position but also highlighting its exclusion from pivotal decision-making processes, such as the upcoming federal budget discussions. This exclusion hints at deeper fissures within the coalition government, adding another layer of complexity to the current political scenario.

For Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif and his brother,

PML-N President Nawaz Sharif, Wassan's forecast serves as a cautionary note. It underscores the necessity for careful maneuvering and coalition management in the coming months. The PPP's dissatisfaction with the lack of consultation on the budget and other critical policies indicates potential turbulence ahead, requiring both leadership and political acumen to navigate.

As the political landscape braces for possible upheaval, it is hoped that any crisis will be brief and ultimately lead to greater political stability. Pakistan has endured significant political uncertainty over the past 26 months; thus, a period of stability and collaborative governance would be a welcome change. The country's leadership must prioritize national interest and unity to steer through this pivotal phase, ensuring a stable and prosperous future for Pakistan.

Elon Musk May Leave Tesla If $56 Billion Pay Not Approved, Board Chair Warns

Billionaire Elon Musk may leave Tesla if shareholders reject his $56 billion pay package, according to the company's board chair Robyn Denholm. She also stated that the CEO could spend his time in "other places", as per a report in the Verge.

The shareholders of the electric car maker will decide on Mr Musk's compensation package on June 13. This will be the second time that shareholders will vote on the CEO's compensation which was first ruled invalid earlier this year by a Delaware court who claimed that the approval process was "deeply flawed."

Ms Denholm wrote in the letter to shareholders, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, "Elon is not a typical executive, and Tesla is not a typical company. So, the typical way in which companies compensate key executives is not going to drive results for Tesla. Motivating someone like Elon requires something different."

"What we recognized in 2018 and continue to recognize today is that one thing Elon most certainly does not have is unlimited time. Nor does he face any shortage of ideas and other places he can make an incredible difference in the world. We want those ideas, that energy and that time to be at Tesla, for the benefit of you, our owners. But that requires reciprocal respect," she continued.

The billionaire's other ventures including SpaceX, X and xAI, have concerned investors about his ability to focus on Tesla. Ms Denholm insisted that the vote to accept the $56 billion compensation plan is "not about the money," even if it would make Mr Musk the highest-paid CEO in modern history. "We all know Elon is one of the wealthiest people on the planet, and he would remain so even if Tesla were to renege on the commitment we made in 2018," she wrote.

The 2018 deal was made in order to "keep Elon focused on Tesla and motivated to achieve the company's incomparable ambitions," according to Ms Denholm's letter. "Upholding our end of the bargain, then, by ratifying the decision we all made in 2018, is more important than ever. If Tesla is to retain Elon's attention and motivate him to continue to devote his time, energy, ambition and vision to deliver comparable results in the future, we must stand by our deal," she wrote.

Notably, Mr Musk is looking to acquire a 25 per cent interest in Tesla, which would give him more influence over the company to accomplish his objectives of creating artificial intelligence and self-driving vehicles. He has also threatened to split off Tesla's AI research into a different company if his demands are not satisfied.—Agency

Another military spokesman, Peter Lerner, told US network ABC that "the forces came under fire from a 360-degree threat -- RPGs, AK-47s, explosive devices, mortar rounds. It was a war zone."

"No one could move." Eyewitnesses said the Israeli raid and retreat were covered by heavy air strikes as well as drone and tank fire. Several told AFP they had seen bodies in the streets, which AFP could not independently verify. As the fighting raged, the injured were taken to one of Gaza's hospitals, medics said. "The hospital was filled with martyrs and injured, and it was impossible to accommodate such a large number within minutes," said doctor Marwan Abu Nasser, an official at the Al-Awda health facility near the camp. "Of course, the hospital was under fire, and no one could move during the operation." Croatia beat Portugal in Euro 2024 warm-up friendly

PORTUGAL: Croatia finished their Euro 2024 preparations with an impressive 2-1 friendly win over Portugal on Saturday.

Zlatko Dalic's side beat the Euro 2016 winners in the Lisbon suburb of Oeiras to send Group B rivals Spain and Italy a warning.

Roberto Martinez's Portugal, among the contenders to win the tournament, fell to only their second defeat in 13 matches under the Spaniard.

Talisman Cristiano Ronaldo was left on the bench by Martinez, whose side spurned chances to equalise in the second half.

Portugal won all of their qualifying games but have lost in friendlies against Slovenia in March, and now Croatia.

"Winning against Croatia doesn't make us good enough to win the tournament, losing doesn't mean we will not qualify for the last 16," continued Martinez.

"A friendly game is about preparation. Now we are stronger than before the game... this is international football.

Uganda bundle out for 39 as West Indies win by 134 runs

West Indies won by a whopping 134 runs against Uganda, their largest margin of victory in terms of runs in a T20 match, on Sunday at the Grand Prairie Stadium in Dallas.

Chasing a target of 174 runs, Uganda were bundled out for only 39 runs, the joint-lowest team total in the men's T20 World Cup, in 12 overs. The Netherlands were also dismissed for the same score against Sri Lanka in Chattogram in 2014.

"I think I needed this. In the nets and the previous series, I felt the ball was coming out good but I was just not getting the rewards," Hosein said after the match.

West Indies became the first West Indies bowler to take a five-wicket haul in a men's T20 World Cup innings.

Alzarri Joseph also chipped in with two wickets for six runs in three overs.

Murad Emphasizes Public-Private Partnerships At Naya Nazimabad Event

By Rahib Gaho

KARACHI: Sindh Chief Minister Syed Murad Ali Shah, speaking in a light-hearted manner at Naya Nazimabad, equipped that Pakistan's cricket team lost their match against America because the country was busy with IMF negotiations. He confidently added that the team would definitely defeat India in their upcoming match.

CM Shah made these remarks at the inauguration ceremony of Naya Nazimabad Gymkhana, Jamia Masjid, and the Naya Nazimabad flyover, where he was invited by Arif Habib, the head of the Naya Nazimabad project. The event was attended by parliamentarians, businessmen, bankers, and industrialists.

Addressing the Pakistan-India match in the T-20 World Cup, Shah humorously noted that the team deliberately lost to America due to ongoing IMF talks but would "give a tough time to India."

Discussing the Public-Private Partnership (PPP) project, Murad Shah highlighted the Sindh government's success in providing better infrastructure solutions through such collaborations. He mentioned internationally acclaimed projects like the Coal Development, the Ghotki-Kandhkot Bridge, the Hyderabad-Mirpurkhas Road, the Jhirk-Mulkarri Bridge on the River Indus, and the Karachi-Thatta Dual Carriageway.

Shah reiterated his government's commitment to high-quality living standards, including amenities for health, sports, and entertainment. He emphasized the importance of strategic collaborations with the private sector to achieve these goals.

He announced that, following Chairman Bilawal Bhutto Zardari's instructions, the provincial government has begun constructing 2.1 million houses for flood-affected people. With 15 houses built daily, 100,000 have been completed, and work on 800,000 houses is ongoing. The transparency in this initiative has led to public donations of 7,000 houses worth Rs2.1 billion, reflecting confidence in the Sindh government.

Praising the development of Naya Nazimabad, Shah noted its contribution to urban regeneration, social upliftment, and the province's economic well-being. He stressed the significance of public-private partnerships in fostering such impactful projects.

Murad Shah also mentioned the ongoing construction of Youth Centers in every district, with 23 centers to be completed this year, offering facilities similar to those of a Gymkhana.

He emphasized the role of public-private partnerships in sustainable development, combining government oversight with private sector innovation and efficiency. This collaboration leads to robust infrastructures, improved services, and dynamic communities.

Shah highlighted the importance of transparent project management, involving all stakeholders and maintaining clear communication to ensure efficient and high-quality project completion. He assured that the Sindh government is ready to support similar initiatives, urging the private sector to foster such partnerships for a brighter future for Karachi and Sindh.

Israel Extends Al Jazeera Ban For Another 45 Days, Cites Security Threat

Jerusalem: A ban on Al Jazeera's operations in Israel was extended for another 45 days by Israel's telecoms regulator on Sunday after the cabinet agreed its broadcasts posed a threat to security.

A Tel Aviv court last week upheld an initial 35-day ban on Al Jazeera operations in Israel, imposed by the government on national security grounds, which ended on Saturday.

In a separate ruling on a petition by Al Jazeera against the closure, Israel's Supreme Court described the measure against the Qatari-backed broadcaster channel as "precedent-setting".

It gave Israel's government until Aug. 8 to offer arguments for "why it should not be determined that the Law Preventing a Foreign Broadcaster from Harming National Security" is void.

Al Jazeera had told the court it did not incite violence or terrorism and that the ban was disproportionate, a court document showed. The channel, which has criticised Israel's military operations in Gaza, was not immediately available for comment.

However, the politician quickly realised his error after the other participants of the meeting noticed that he had his trousers around his ankles. Mr Maia then hurriedly grabbed his device to show his face.

Videos going viral on social media show Pablo Mello, the councillor leading the session, surprised by the incident. He then asked the former mayor to turn his camera off. Notably, the live session was about a bill to designate Mirante da Rocinha as a cultural heritage site.

Later, Mr Maia's office issued a statement and rendered an apology. According to his press office, the 78-year-old "suddenly felt unwell" and this "damaged his perception of the camera," as per a Sky News report.

However, this is not the first time such an incident has occurred. In December 2023, Indian-American entrepreneur and Republican leader Vivek Ramaswamy was caught in an embarrassing moment during a live X Spaces chat with SpaceX and Tesla Chief Elon Musk, US conspiracy theorist Alex Jones and several others. The chat had around 2.3 million listeners tuned in.

Saudi authorities evict 300,000 unregistered pilgrims from Makkah before Hajj

Saudi Arabia announced Saturday that security forces had removed hundreds of thousands of unauthorised pilgrims from Makkah before the upcoming annual Hajj pilgrimage.

Saudi officials have revealed that managing the crowd during Hajj, which is one of the five pillars of Islam, is a significant concern as it drew more than 1.8 million Muslims last year, AFP reported.

Those turned away in recent days from the holy city, home to the Grand Mosque and the Kaaba, include 153,998 foreigners who travelled from abroad on tourist visas rather than the required Hajj visas, the official Saudi Press Agency said.

In addition, Saudi authorities have rounded up 171,587 others who are based in Saudi Arabia but are not residents of Makkah and did not have Hajj permits, SPA said.

The Hajj, which begins on June 14, must be undertaken at least once by all Muslims with the means and it involves a series of rituals completed over at least four days in Makkah and its surroundings in the west of Saudi Arabia.

Many seek to complete the rites through unofficial channels as obtaining the formal permits and travel packages can be extremely costly, with limited quotas for pilgrims from each country.—Agency thing I can do and it doesn't take a lot of time. I consider it multitasking - making blood cells while I'm doing everything else in my life. And it's just that hour every two months to go down to the blood center and donate." Mr Bickoff has a B-negative blood type and is in high demand. This US Man Has Donated Over 110 Litres Blood, Calls It "Multitasking"

A man from Long Island in the United States has donated around 29 gallons of blood (approximately 110 litres) in 49 years, Henry Bickoff, aged 68, started the noble deed in 1975. His blood has helped 693 people, according to the New York Blood Center.

He has donated the equivalent of 870 single-serve ice cream scoops, 310 Coke cans or almost six-gallon office water cooler bottles. "I've been doing it for a while," he told the New York Post. "It's something I've committed to, and it's actually nice to get a little bit of recognition for it," he added.

The eye care professional made his first donation when he was in college. "Every body was doing it. It was a save-the-world kind of situation of do something good for everybody." Mr Bickoff said. However, he recalled his first experience and said that he was "very dizzy" after the donation since he was not hydrated, fed or rested. However, it did not stop him from continuing to do it.

The optometrist continued, "This may sound silly but I consider it my main act of charity. It's something I can do and it doesn't take a lot of time. Customs Agents Call For Urgent Clearance Of Thousands Of Stuck Containers At Karachi Port KARACHI: Khurram Ejaz, former president of the Karachi Customs Agents Association, has sharply criticized port authorities for their lack of preparation in clearing the backlog of containers at Karachi Port. In a statement, Ejaz highlighted that the arrival of the world's largest ship, a historic event for the port, was marred by administrative failures, leading to a significant delay in container clearance.

Ejaz remarked, "The docking of such a massive ship was known well in advance, yet no effective measures were taken to ensure the timely processing of the cargo. As a result, thousands of containers are now stuck, causing substantial financial strain on importers who are incurring hefty detention and demurrage charges."

He criticized the Karachi Port administration's lack of readiness, stating, "Had there been adequate preparations for the prompt clearance of these containers, the situation at Karachi Port would be vastly different. Over a week has passed, and yet, the containers remain unexamined."

Ejaz also directed criticism at the Minister of Ports and Shipping, noting that while the arrival of such a significant vessel is a notable achievement, it requires meticulous planning and stringent regulation to manage the increased volume efficiently. He called for stricter regulatory measures to ensure the smooth functioning of port operations, emphasizing that the trade community and consumers, already grappling with inflation, should not bear the brunt of administrative oversights. Ejaz urged the new Minister of Ports and Shipping to not only launch promising projects but also to enforce stringent measures where necessary to prevent such disruptions in the future.—RT

South Korea Resumes Loudspeaker Broadcasts After North's Trash Balloons

Seoul: South Korea resumed loudspeaker broadcasts directed at North Korea on Sunday, its military said, following through on a warning demanding Pyongyang stop sending balloons carrying trash into the South.

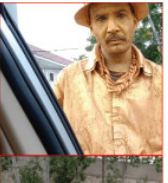

The decision to resume the broadcasts, as a form of psychological warfare, was made after North Korea began launching on Saturday about 330 balloons with trash attached, with about 80 of them dropping over the border, South Korea's military said.

"The measures we will take may be unbearable for the North Korean regime but they will send a message of hope and light to the North's troops and its people," South Korea's National Security Council said.

South Korea had warned the North it would take retaliatory measures which could include propaganda broadcasts from huge loudspeakers set up at the border.

The broadcasts were made Sunday afternoon and whether more will follow depends on how North Korea responds, South Korea's military said.—Agency

Karachi's Child Beggars Painted In Silver And Gold Face Deadly Health Risks, But Does Anyone Care?

By Muzna Abbasi

On the bustling streets of Karachi, a disturbing new trend has emerged among the city's many child beggars: young children are being completely coated in silver and gold paint. This practice, devised by unscrupulous handlers, aims to elicit more sympathy—and thus more money—from passersby. However, behind this glittering facade lies a dark and dangerous reality.

Children as young as five are subjected to being entirely painted in metallic colors, transforming them into living statues. This tactic, designed to tug at the heartstrings of the public, exploits the natural compassion people feel for these young, vulnerable souls. Yet, the grim truth is that these children are pawns in a much larger, deeply ingrained begging mafia that profits immensely from their misery. What most people, including our indifferent authorities, fail to grasp are the severe health risks these children face. The paints used are often cheap, highly toxic, and not intended for prolonged skin contact, especially in the scorching summer heat of Karachi. Exposure to these substances can lead to a myriad of health issues including severe skin irritation, chemical burns, respiratory problems from inhaling fumes, and potential long-term damage to vital organs such as the liver and kidneys.

Medical experts warn that the practice of covering children in paint prevents their skin from breathing, exacerbating the risk of heat exhaustion and other heat-related illnesses. Despite the intense heat and the evident dangers, it is nothing short of a miracle that no child has yet succumbed to these hazardous conditions.

The plight of these children is compounded by the systemic failures of the authorities to enforce existing laws. The anti-vagrancy law of 1958 and subsequent child protection acts are clear in their provisions to protect these children, yet enforcement remains sporadic and ineffective. Efforts by the Sindh government to ban child beggars have seen little success. The powerful mafia behind the begging operations often ensures that arrested children are quickly released and returned to the streets, perpetuating the cycle of exploitation.

Former Sindh Governor Muhammad Zubair Quits PML-N

KARACHI: PTI Sindh's General Secretary, Advocate Ali Palh along with other party leaders is addressing a press conference, at the Solid Waste Management Dumping Point.—RT

KARACHI: Former Sindh governor Muhammad Zubair on Sunday announced to quit the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) over some "reservations".

Speaking to Geo News, Zubair, who did not disclose what issues exactly led to his departure, said he would take decision about his future politics in consultation with his "friends".

Zubair joins a list of top leaders who recently parted ways with the ruling party, including former prime minister Shahid Khaqan Abbasi and ex-finance minister Miftah Ismail.

The politician has been critical of the incumbent government, which was formed after the February 8 elections, and also recently said he was in the party "like Abbasi", hinting at his displeasure with the leadership.

When former Rawalpindi Division Commissioner Liaquat Ali Chatha made allegations that the election results were manipulated, Zubair had said that the PML-N should "publicly accept defeat" and allow the country to move on. However, Chatha backtracked on his claims.

While it is unclear whether he will join a political party or not, Abbasi had on April 8 approached the Election Commission of Pakistan for registration of a new political party.

Ismail is also supporting the formation of a new party of individuals having "proven integrity and competence".

Talking to Geo News, Zubair said he stood by Nawaz's stance of resistance, while Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif's job was to back a reconciliatory stance.

Announcing to continue national politics, he said he has not yet decided which party he would join.

"It's clear that I will (continue to) do politics, but I haven't decided from what platform or party I will do politics," he said.

On why he quit the PML-N, he said he had no disagreements with Nawaz. "Obviously, he made me his spokesman, gave me space and prominent posts in politics," he said. Zubair said he agreed to the PML-N's policies which banked on the masses.

However, after the no-trust vote against former prime minister Imran Khan, "we saw that the party had quit the principled politics," he said.

He said after the PML-N's coming into power following Imran's removal as the prime minister, those 16 months were "so bad that when the time of elections came in 2024, no party leader even once mentioned what they delivered in their rule of 16 months".

On the party's differing narratives, he said when the PTI was in power, the PML-

N had two narratives — one was a resisting and the other one a reconciliatory narrative.

Nawaz and his daughter Maryam carried the resisting narrative which stated "respect the ballot", while Shehbaz carried the reconciliatory narrative that encompassed "coming into power by hook or by crook".

"I stood by the resisting narrative, but since we had to defend the party so we would say that there was no difference in both the stances. Definitely, there was a huge difference," he said.

Zubair's brief profile

Zubair, who was a prominent leader of the PML-N, was sworn in as the Sindh governor on February 2, 2017. He served in the post for more than one year till August 2018.

He is an IBA graduate and proved his mettle in the professional sector, where he spent 26 years with IBM from 1981 to 2007, working in various capacities in Rome, Milan, Paris and Dubai.

In 1998, he was appointed Chief Financial Officer (CFO) for IBM Pakistan and was later elevated to CFO of IBM Middle East/Africa region in 2004.

After joining PML-N, he was part of the party's Tax Reforms Media Committee between 2012-2013, and in July 2013, he was appointed Chairman of the Board of Investment, where he served until December of that year.

He was then appointed as Chairman of the Privatisation Commission in 2013 and he served until 2017. He has also served as the spokesperson of PML-N President Nawaz Sharif and Senior Vice President Maryam Nawaz.

Zubair is the son of General (ret'd) Ghulam Umar and also the elder brother of former Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf leader Asad Umar.

He holds a master's degree in business administration from Karachi's renowned Institute of Business Administration. Zubair has also served as one of the Board of Directors in 1980 in the capacity of student representative and also taught Financial Management from 1981-1986.

Modi sworn in as Indian PM for historic third term

Narendra Modi was sworn in as India's prime minister on Sunday for a record-equaling third term, but as a reserve coalition's head after a shock poll setback that will test his ability to ensure policy certainty in the world's most populous nation.

President Droupadi Murmu administered the oath of office to Modi at a grand ceremony at the Rashtrapati Bhavan, the president's palace in New Delhi, attended by thousands of dignitaries, including the leaders of seven regional countries, Bollywood stars and industrialists.

Modi, who started as a publicist of the Hindu nationalist Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh (RSS), the ideological parent of his Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), is only the second person after independence leader Jawaharlal Nehru to serve a third straight term as prime minister.

Modi, 73, secured the third term in elections that concluded on June 1 with the support of 14 regional parties in his BJP-led National Democratic Alliance beating growth and lifted India's global standing but appeared to have missed a step at home as a lack of enough jobs, high prices, low incomes and religious faultlines pushed voters to rein him in.

When Modi was the chief minister of the western state of Gujarat from 2001 to 2014, BJP enjoyed strong majorities, allowing him to govern decisively.

Modi's new term as prime minister, therefore, is likely to be fraught with challenges on building consensus on contentious political and policy issues in the face of different interests of regional parties and a stronger opposition, analysts say.

Some analysts worry that the fiscal balance in the world's fastest growing economy could also come under pressure due to demands for higher development funds for states ruled by the NDA's regional partners and a possible push by BJP to spend more on welfare to woo back voters it lost in this year's election.

Modi, whose election campaign was marked by religious rhetoric and criticism of the opposition for allegedly favouring India's 200 million minority Muslims, has adopted a more conciliatory tone since the shock result. "We have won the majority... but to run the country it is unanimity that is crucial... we will strive for unanimity," he said on Friday after the NDA formally named him coalition head.—RT/Agency

Reaffirming Pakistan's commitment to the purposes and principles of the United Nations Charter and the ASEAN Regional Forum's mandate, he emphasized the importance of international collaboration for shared objectives of stability and sustainable prosperity.

Stressing the need for an equitable and inclusive security framework, the Additional Foreign Secretary underscored the importance of resolving the Jammu and Kashmir dispute in accordance with the United Nations Security Council Resolutions and the aspirations of the Kashmiri people for lasting peace and security in South Asia. Imran Ahmed Siddiqui also condemned the rising tide of Islamophobia and pursuit of Islamophobic political agenda as strategic in election campaigns. He emphasised the importance of comprehensive approaches to address the root causes of terrorism. He also called for international scrutiny and accountability for extraterritorial killings by foreign agents inside Pakistan. The Additional Foreign Secretary reaffirmed Pakistan's consistent and principled stance on the Palestinian question and called for an urgent and unconditional ceasefire in Gaza and an end to foreign occupation of Palestinian territories.—RT/Agency

Education sector to get record increase in new budget

ISLAMABAD: In a move to grow the education sector, the federal government announced a record increase in the budget allocation, media reported on Sunday.

As announced by the Planning Commission, the education sector has been allocated a staggering Rs 20.25 billion for the budget 2024-25.

Last year, a total of Rs 8.5 billion was apportioned for public sector development programs, indicating a substantial increase in the current year's budget by 140 percent.

The increase in the budget allocation has paved the way for the launch of several new programs by the Federal Ministry of Education during the current financial year.

However, this staggering increase in the budget was due to the launch of several new programs by the Federal Ministry.

Earlier to this, the Higher Education Commission

(HEC) budget has been restored to Rs 65 billion for the financial year 2024-25.

According to the details, the Minister of Finance revised the order to cut Rs 40 billion in the budget of the HEC for the financial year 2024-25 and restored the

Earlier this year, the HEC's budget was slashed from Rs 65 billion to a mere Rs 25 billion, causing widespread concern among educational institutions and stakeholders.

The significant budget cut had raised alarms about the future of higher education

IMF talks end without agreement

ISLAMABAD: Another round of discussions between Pakistan and the International Monetary Fund (IMF) has ended inconclusively due to disagreement over new income tax rates for salaried and non-salaried persons and the imposition of standard 18% sales tax on agriculture and health sectors' goods.

Discussions are revolving around whether to charge a new backbreaking 45% income tax from salaried and non-salaried individuals on a monthly income of just over Rs467,000, according to sources. At present, the maximum rate of 35% is applicable to a monthly income of over Rs500,000. However, both sides have converged on the issue of increasing the income tax burden on exporters in the next budget who paid a paltry sum of Rs86 billion this year, which is 280% less than the taxes paid by the salaried people. Pakistan also showed willingness to show pensions beyond a certain income threshold.

Pakistan and the IMF authorities on Friday held discussions on the outstanding issues related to taxation and the energy sector. Sources said that both sides could not resolve their differences on the income tax threshold, the merger of salaried and non-salaried rates and the maximum income tax for individuals.

The IMF insisted on merging the slabs related to salaried, non-salaried and other incomes. On the government's proposal of increasing the annual threshold of taxable income to Rs900,000, the IMF is asking for the maximum income tax rate to be increased from 35% to 45%. However, the government is not willing to increase the maximum rate for the salaried individuals to 45% but showed flexibility to keep the taxable income threshold at the current Rs600,000. It is also asking to keep the salaried and non-salaried slabs separate but is willing to increase the highest tax rate for non-salaried persons to 45%, said the sources. The non-salaried business individuals pay tax after excluding expenses while the salaried persons pay tax on their gross income without excluding the expenses. Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif is so far not willing to increase the burden on the salaried class.—RT/Agency

Israel's war cabinet member Benny Gantz resigns from Netanyahu's government

JERUSALEM: Israeli minister Benny Gantz announced his resignation from Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's emergency government on Sunday, withdrawing the only centrist power in the embattled leader's far-right coalition, amid a months-long war in Gaza.

Netanyahu issued a brief statement calling on Gantz not to "abandon the front" but his departure will not endanger the parliamentary majority of 64 seats in the 120-seat Knesset held by the ruling right-wing coalition.

"Netanyahu is preventing us from advancing toward true victory. That is why we are leaving the emergency government today, with a heavy heart but with full conscience," Gantz said at a televised news conference.

Gantz's resignation has been expected ever since he presented the conservative prime minister with a June 8 deadline to come up with a clear day-after strategy for Gaza, where Israel has been pressing a devastating military offensive against the ruling Palestinian group Hamas. His departure means that Netanyahu will lose the backing of a centrist bloc that has helped broaden support for the government in Israel and abroad, at a time of increasing diplomatic and domestic pressure against Netanyahu's war.—RT/Agency
