Muharram Moon Not Sighted in Pakistan; Ashura To Be Observed On July 17

QUETTA: The crescent moon for Muharram has not been sighted in Pakistan and the first day of the month will fall on Monday (July 8), Central Ruet-e-Hilal Committee Chairman Maulana Abdul Khair Azad announced on Saturday.

Accordingly, Ashura — the 10th day of Muharram will fall on July 17.

The announcement was made after the Central Ruet-e-Hilal Committee met in Quetta to sight the crescent of Muharram Haram 1446 Hijri.

Chairman of the moon-sighting body Maulana Abdul Khair presided over the meeting to sight the moon of the first month of the Islamic calendar.

The meetings of zonal and district bodies of the Ruet-e-Hilal Committee will also simultaneously be held at their respective headquarters.

The Pakistan Meteorological Department (PMD) had predicted unlikely sighting of Muharram moon sighting today due to partly cloudy or cloudy weather in most parts of the country as the moon-sighting body gets busy. The Met Office had said that the new moon would be born on the crossing conjunction point at 03:57 PST on July 6. Muharram is regarded as one of the four sacred Islamic months. Ashura falls on its 10th day when grandson of the Holy Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), Hazrat Imam Husain (RA) along with his family members were martyred in the battle of Karbala. Faithful hold processions and majalis across the country in Muharram, while religious scholars address huge gatherings amid tight security, with thousands of law enforcers deployed to ensure security. Oil and Gas Exploration Firms Commit To $5 Billion Investment In Pakistan

ISLAMABAD: A group of local and international oil and gas exploration and production (E&P) companies is ready to pump $5 billion in Pakistan's petroleum sector, showing trust in the government's investor-friendly policies and assurances for the security of their capital, according to state-run APP.

An announcement to this effect came to light in a meeting held between a delegation of the local and international E&P firms with Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif on Saturday as the pressure continues to mount on Islamabad to shore up the country's wobbly energy infrastructure.

If it materialises, it will not only help provide more reliable energy supplies to the country's growing population but also cut reliance on expensive oil imports.

"Exploring the oil and gas reserves at the local level in Pakistan is our top priority," PM Shehbaz said during the meeting with the delegation at Prime Minister House, inviting the oil and gas explorers to also tap Pakistan's offshore reserves.

Pakistan spends billions of dollars every year on importing oil and gas, the PM lamented. "Production from local reserves will save Pakistan's valuable foreign exchange, and fuel and gas will become affordable for the common man."

Facing a severe balance of payments crisis, record inflation, and sharp currency devaluation, Pakistan lacks sufficient resources to operate its oil and gas plants, leading to the import of most of its energy needs.

Consequently, planned power cuts, known as load-shedding, occur every summer due to fuel shortages and high demand. The duration of these power cuts varies across different areas of the country, which has a population of 241 million.

The delegates informed the Prime Minister that over the next three years, around 240 exploratory wells would be drilled for $5 billion to explore petroleum and gas in Pakistan.

State Bank of Pakistan (SB) Governor Jamil Ahmed told the meeting that, on the prime minister's special instructions, all the remittances (profit of the business) had been sent to the respective countries of the oil and gas production companies.

The delegation thanked the prime minister for making the petroleum and gas exploration and production sector part of the consultation process, listening to their problems, and finding serious solutions to them.

The meeting was attended by Deputy PM Ishaq Dar, federal ministers Ahmad Khan Cheema, Muhammad Aurangzeb, Syed Mohsin Raza Naqvi, Engineer Amir Muqam, Ahsan Iqbal, Sardar Awas Khan Leghari, Deputy Chairman Planning Commission Jehanzeb Khan, Coordinator to PM Rana Ehsan Afzal, Chairman Federal Board of Revenue Amjad Zubair Tiwana, representatives of domestic and international companies, and relevant high officials.

According to the Pakistan Economic Survey 2023-24, Pakistan's petroleum import bill decreased in the first nine months (July-March) of the fiscal year 2023-24 not because of higher local production but due to lower consumption.

The Economic Survey states that the drop in consumption was caused by reduced economic activity and higher product prices. Total petroleum product imports fell to 11,047 thousand metric tons, valued at $8.36 billion.

The main imported products are motor spirit (MS), high-speed diesel (HSD), and crude oil. Compared to the same period last fiscal year (2022-23), the import bill for MS dropped from $3.704 billion to $3.156 billion, for HSD from $1.646 billion to $1.050 billion, and for crude oil from $4.287 billion to $4.051 billion.

Oil and gas exploration companies showed mixed results during this period. Gas exploration declined by 2%, while crude oil production increased by 1.5%. Gas production decreased from 1,190 million cubic feet in the first nine months of the previous fiscal year to 1,166 million cubic feet in the same period this year. However, crude oil production rose by 1.5%, from 25.5 million barrels to 25.7 million barrels. —RT/Agency

Court Reserves Verdict On Imran's Interim Bail In Three May 9 Cases

LAHORE: An anti-terrorism court has reserved its decision on Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Imran Khan's interim bail requests related to the May 9 incidents, including the Jinnah House case and two other cases.

During the hearing on Saturday, Imran counsel, Barrister Salman Safdar, argued that the PTI founder was being targeted for political reasons.

"In my entire career, I have never seen so many cases against a single individual. Those who were actually inciting against institutions at the scene were not arrested," Safdar alleged.

How could a case be filed against him when he was in custody at the time of the crime?" PTI chief's counsel questioned.

The government lawyer countered, stating that according to a special branch report, the former premier had instructed his followers to attack civil and military installations if he were arrested.

"The directive to attack military installations across Pakistan resulted in the events that transpired," the prosecutor claimed. After hearing arguments from both sides, the court reserved its judgement on Khan's interim bail requests. Earlier this week, on July 3, a district and sessions court in Islamabad acquitted the founder of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), Imran Khan, along with all other defendants in a case registered at Islamabad's Aahpara police station. Judicial Magistrate Yasir Mahmood announced the reserved verdict, clearing Imran Khan, Shah Mahmood Qureshi, Sheikh Rasheed, Shehryar Afridi, Faisal Javed, Raja Khuram Nawaz, Ali Nawaz Awan, Asad

Operation Azm-e-Istehkam: Nawaz Urges Full Support For Armed Forces

ISLAMABAD: After the announcement of a new anti-terrorism drive — Operation Azm-e-Istehkam (Resolve for Stability), Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) President Nawaz Sharif on Saturday called for extending "unwavering support to armed forces and security institutions to root out terrorism from the country."

"[The] issues which were countered seven years ago have now become a serious crisis, again," Nawaz said in a meeting with PML-N Parliamentary Leader in the Senate Irfan Siddiqui in Murree today.

Slamming the opposition's criticism against Operation Azm-e-Istehkam, the former prime minister said that some elements behind "instability" and "defamation" of the country abroad were not interested in [fortifying] democracy.

He demanded all stakeholders to show firm support to the security institutions to eliminate the menace of terrorism.

The PML-N's top leader made the statement after Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif decided to organise an all-parties conference (APC) take all stakeholders into confidence on the newly launched anti-terrorism operation — a reinvigorated and re-energised national counter-terrorism drive following a spike in terrorist attacks.

The federal cabinet last week approved the launching of the counter-terrorism operation following the National Action Plan's Central Action Committee's recommendations to turn up the heat on militants targeting Pakistan — which would be focused on intelligence-based operations instead of large-scale military action.

Regarding the scope of the new operation, Defence Minister Khawaja Asif also revealed in a recent interview with the Voice of America (VoA) that Pakistan could target terrorist hideouts across the border in Afghanistan to target outlawed Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP) and other militant outfits for carrying out attacks in the Pakistani territory.

However, opposition parties including the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), Jamiat-e-Ulema Islam Fazl (JUI-F), Awami National Party (ANP), and others have voiced concerns over the military operation, demanding that parliament must be taken into confidence before taking any such decision.

Imran's counsel said that if these conditions were not met, the ex-PM would take the matter to the higher courts. During a court appearance on Friday, Imran expressed his lack of confidence in Chief Justice of Pakistan (CJP) Qazi Faez Isa. Khan announced his intention to go on a hunger strike, stating, "I will announce the final date for the hunger strike after consulting with my lawyers." —RT/Agency

Sindh Government To Launch Pakistan's First EV And Pink EV Taxis: Sharjeel

KARACHI: The Sindh government on Saturday announced that it would soon launch Pakistan's first EV taxis in the province.

"Pakistan's first EV taxis and Pink EV taxis will be started soon by Transport Department Government of Sindh," Sindh Minister for Information, Excise, Narcotics and Transport Sharjeel Inam Memon said in a post on X, formerly Twitter.

The announcement comes as province's largest city, Karachi, suffers from high air pollution levels due to an overwhelmingly large number of gasoline-engine vehicles in light of an arguably insufficient mass-transit system to meet its needs.

However, the minister did not disclose any timeline for EV vehicles' launch in Sindh.

The introduction of EV

taxis is likely to not only address the air pollution issue but might also provide an alternate and hopefully cheaper commute option to the masses owing to the soaring fuel prices which not only have resulted in high fares being charged by various online ride-hailing apps but also costs owners to private vehicles heavily as well.

Furthermore, the introduction of electric vehicles also falls in line with the global trend and shift towards environment-friendly vehicles as several countries around the world strive to shift away from fossil fuels.

Earlier this year, Karachi received 30 hybrid and 50 electric buses as part of the Peoples Bus Service fleet being run in the city - pushing the total number to 300 vehicles.—RT

NEPRA Announces Relief Of PKR 1.67 Per Unit under April FCA Notification

KARACHI: The National Electric Power Regulatory Authority (NEPRA) has issued its decision regarding the Fuel Charges Adjustment (FCA) requested by KE for April 2024, indicating a benefit of PKR 1.67 per kWh to be passed on to customers in their July 2024 bills.

Earlier, NEPRA had notified a decision that specified the FCA rate of PKR 1.7111 per kWh and PKR 1.3946 per kWh, pertaining to July 2023 and September 2023 respectively, to be applied to customers' July 2024 bills.

Fuel Charge Adjustments are incurred by utilities due to global variations in fuel prices used to generate electricity and changes in generation mix. These costs are passed through to the consumers following NEPRA's scrutiny and approval.

Earlier to this, the Federal Investigation Agency (FIA) Anti-Corruption Circle Lahore initiated an inquiry against Lahore Electric Supply Company (LESCO).

The FIA spokesperson stated that the power distribution company - LESCO - allegedly overbilled millions of protected customers by sending the consumers more than 200 units of power bills. Due to the alleged over-billing, the category of the protected consumers changed, resulting in an additional burden of millions.—RT/Agency

Old wine in a new bottle!

The launch of Awaam Pakistan by former Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) leaders Shahid Khaqan Abbasi and Miftah Ismail heralds yet another attempt to rejuvenate the political landscape of Pakistan. However, the history of similar ventures suggests that this initiative is likely to be another exercise in futility. While the party's slogan, "Awaam Pakistan: Badlein ge nizam" (People of Pakistan: We will change the system), offers a tantalizing promise, it risks being perceived as nothing more than old wine in a new bottle.

The assertion that Awaam Pakistan will eschew hereditary politics is commendable, yet the skepticism surrounding its efficacy is hard to dispel. Pakistan's political history is replete with new parties emerging with lofty ideals and revolutionary rhetoric, only to succumb to the same pitfalls of self-preservation and political expediency. Abbasi and Ismail's critique of traditional parties and their focus on the public interest over political survival is a familiar refrain, yet tangible results remain elusive.

The real issue lies in the disconnect between political leadership and the genuine will of the people. For decades, the Pakistani populace has witnessed promises of systemic change from new political entities, only to see them absorbed into the existing power structures or dissipate into irrelevance. The true catalyst for change will not be another political experiment but a sincere and sustained effort to engage with and empower the citizenry.

If Awaam Pakistan aspires to be more than a transient phenomenon, it must transcend the conventional model of political parties and establish a genuine connection with the people it aims to represent. This requires more than rhetoric; it demands a commitment to transparency, accountability, and grassroots engagement. The people's will, not the machinations of political elites, should be the driving force behind any meaningful transformation.

Ultimately, the success of any political movement hinges on its ability to honor the aspirations of the populace. The repeated failures of similar initiatives underscore the need for a paradigm shift in how political change is envisioned and enacted in Pakistan. It is only by respecting and amplifying the genuine will of the people that Awaam Pakistan can hope to achieve its ambitious goals.

Andy Murray's Wimbledon career ended following Emma Raducanu's withdrawal from their scheduled mixed doubles match.

The 37-year-old former world number one was set to partner with his compatriot on Saturday evening at the All England Club.

Raducanu cited "some stiffness" in her right wrist as the reason for her decision.

The 21-year-old progressed to the fourth round of the women's singles with a commanding two-set victory over Greek ninth seed Maria Sakkari on Friday.

"I have decided to make the very tough decision to withdraw from the mixed doubles," she said.

"I'm disappointed as I was really looking forward to playing with Andy but I've got to take care."

Murray, a two-time singles champion, was competing at Wimbledon for the final time before retiring later this year.

Jimmy Connors backs Novak Djokovic to win Wimbledon

Eight-time Grand Slam winner Jimmy Connors is backing Novak Djokovic to win Wimbledon 2024 despite just returning from knee surgery a month ago.

Djokovic began his Wimbledon 2024 campaign on a high note as he managed to beat Vit Koprieva and Jacob Fearnley in his first two matches and will now take on Alexei Popyrin in the third round on Saturday.

The Serb has been ranked the third-best player in the tournament by experts, behind Carlos Alcaraz and Janik Sinner but according to the Connors, if Djokovic is fit, he can be the absolute favourite.

"You got to look at 'Djoker'. He may be the third favourite, but he has won the tournament seven times," Wimbledon said.

"If he's healthy and feeling good, then why wouldn't he be right up there as the favourite? Sure, he's had a tough season so far, but champions like Djokovic thrive under pressure. Wimbledon could be his stage to turn it all around.

"Djokovic has this incredible knack for wearing down his opponents. His movement on the court is like no other, and his stamina is second to none."

Connors also declared Alcaraz the biggest threat to the Serb and also added that Sinner will have some additional pressure as he is the world No. 1.

"Alcaraz has that fearless spirit and, having already won a Major, he knows what it takes to perform on the big stage," Connors continued.

"Sinner has had tough outings against Djokovic in the past. Facing Djokovic at Wimbledon, where his game shines brightest, is a different challenge altogether.—Agency

In a recent interview with a local channel, television host, model, and mother-of-three Mathira opened up about the pressures and traumas she faced while navigating life as a single parent after her divorce in 2018. She shed light on the strength she found in her children.

Mathira expressed that her three sons have been her greatest source of support, describing how she had to adopt both maternal and paternal roles in their upbringing. She explained, "When the relationship with the father fizzles out completely it's up to the mother to take on the man's role. To be a man, for a woman that's not her job. But when she becomes a man, she becomes stronger than a man."

The model also highlighted the double standards present in society, pointing out the stark differences in how single mothers and fathers are perceived. "When a single mother does something instead of praising her, they wonder how many others were behind the scenes helping her. When a man does something good, we appreciate him, but when a woman is running a household, there are too many accusations against her," said Mathira. She poignantly added, "It gets very tough and then she's not able to be a good mother or take on the role of a father." She also revealed the se-

Khaqan, Miftah Launch Their New Party

ISLAMABAD: Ending months of speculation about the formation of a new political party, former Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) leaders, Shahid Khaqan Abbasi and Miftah Ismail launched 'Awam Pakistan,' with a pledge to change the governance system of the country and deny political space to the "tainted" politicians.

"Politicians with tainted reputations won't be a part of Awam Pakistan," said Khaqan, who served as prime minister during the PML-N's 2013-18 stint in power, at the press conference in Islamabad flanked by Miftah and ex-PML-N leader Mehboob Khan.

The party's launch came months after Khaqan and Ismail parted ways from the ruling party following their differences with the leadership.

Giving rise to speculations about a new political platform, Khaqan in April approached the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) for the registration of a new party.

In a hard-hitting press conference today, the former prime minister bashed the incumbent government, saying that those won elections on the basis of "Form-47" — reference to the alleged manipulation in the election results — can't build the country.

"We are just concerned about power, not about the country. Parties keep forming in Pakistan for specific purposes," he said, adding that they had not invited anyone to join the newly-launched Awam Pakistan party.

Electables are part of the politics but not acceptable, he added.

Without naming anyone, the ex-prime minister said that he and his fellow leaders remained a part of a particular political party in good or bad times but couldn't be a part of it anymore just for the sake of power.

"The government consists of a handful of elites who don't want to change the system," Khaqan added. Speaking at the occasion, Miftah came hard on the existing system in the country saying that "predatory" set-up cannot continue.

"Are you running East India Company," he said, adding that the "system of the hunter and the hunted cannot continue".

Lambasting the federal government for its budget for the fiscal year 2024-25, the ex-finance czar said that those earning merely Rs50,000 per month are asked to pay tax, but no tax is demanded from the one owning thousands of acres of land.

"The tax on the salaried class has been doubled in the budget [...] the middle class is being crushed," Miftah said, stressing that the budget in essence is a reflection of the ruling elite's priorities.

The ex-minister's comments refer to the tax-heavy Finance Bill 2024, which was assented by President Asif Ali Zardari last week, wherein the government has set out a challenging tax revenue target of Rs13 trillion for the year starting July 1, up about 40% from the current year to strengthen the case for a new rescue deal with the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

The rise in the tax target is made up of a 48% increase in direct taxes and a 35% hike in indirect taxes over revised estimates of the current year. Non-tax revenue, including petroleum levies, is seen increasing by a whopping 64%.

Referring to the recently announced anti-terrorism drive "Operation Azm-e-Istehkam," the politician said: "Today we are going to conduct another operation [...] why these operations are needed again and again because you cannot end poverty."

His remarks came as the federal cabinet last week approved the launch of the counter-terrorism operation following the National Action Plan's Central Apex Committee's recommendations to root out militancy from the country.

With opposition parties voicing concerns over the anti-terror operation, the government has decided to convene an all-parties conference (APC) "to gain political parties' confidence" over its decision. —RT/Agency

PTI Cancels Islamabad Rally, Files Contempt Plea Against Administration

ISLAMABAD: The Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) on Saturday called off its Islamabad rally and moved the Islamabad High Court (IHC) seeking contempt of court proceedings against those responsible for the suspension of the no objection certificate (NOC) in this regard.

The former ruling party had announced to hold a rally on Saturday in the Tarnol area in the outskirts of the federal capital and had filed a petition in the IHC seeking permission for its rally.

In response, IHC's Babar Sattar on June 26 directed the party and the city's administration to amicably sort out the issue after which the deputy commissioner allowed the PTI to hold its rally.

However, Islamabad Chief Commissioner Muhammad Ali Randhawa later suspended the NOC citing the beginning of the month of Muharram and security concerns along with complaints lodged by the local people.

The chief commissioner, in a letter dated July 5, said that the police on Wednesday confirmed recovering a heavy cache of weapons and ammunition.

Stressing that an intelligence-based operation (IBO) was still underway in Tarnol, the official highlighted insufficient manpower to secure a local Imam Bargah and the rally at the same time, particularly in Muharram.

The intelligence agencies, he added, had shared information about the presence of security threats in the area during this month.

Apart from the security threat, he said residents of Tarnol also conveyed their concerns over permission for the public gathering in the area.

Hence, Randhawa said he deemed it "expedient in the public interest to suspend the NOC till Chehlum".

In its petition filed in the IHC, the party said the Islamabad DC apprised the court on July 4 that the NOC had been issued.

Nevertheless, the plea added, the PTI leaders got to know about the NOC's suspension through the Islamabad Police's post via its official handle on social media platform X.

It further argued that suspension of the NOC for the public gathering despite the court order amounted to contempt of the court. Hence, it said, the court should take action against violators of its order and issue an order for holding the rally.

Meanwhile, the chief commissioner, DC, inspector general, Tarnol police station's station house officer (SHO) and others have been made parties in the case.

Talking to media in the IHC premises, PTI Chairman Barrister Gohar Khan announced calling off the rally and said: "Commissioner does not have the authority to suspend the notification issued on the high court order."

The politician further maintained that a hearing on their contempt plea could not be held due to the judge's absence. He also announced to share the next course of action after their political committee's meeting. —RT/Agency

Omar Ayub's Resignation Rejected On Imran's Directives

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) Chairman Barrister Gohar Ali Khan, following directives from founding chairman Imran Khan, has announced that Omar Ayub Khan's resignation as central secretary general has not been accepted.

Omar Ayub Khan has been directed to continue his duties as central secretary general. The PTI parliamentary party and core committee had also expressed full confidence in Ayub.

The parliamentary party and core committee unanimously passed resolutions recommending that founding chairman Imran Khan and chairman Barrister Gohar Ali Khan not accept Ayub's resignation.

Imran Khan also lauded Ayub's services and sacrifices for PTI. The parliamentary party PTI showed last month disagreement over party's founding chairman Imran Khan's decision to accept the resignation of PTI's secretary general Omar Ayub, urging him to take a U-turn and reappoint Ayub on the post.

The party's parliamentary faction's demand came within 24 hours after the incorporated PTI founder endorsed the decision of Ayub, who is also the leader of the opposition in the National Assembly, to step down from his party position.

Confusion prevailed within PTI ranks over Ayub's resignation amid reports of rifts in PTI. On the one hand, the party announced that it would take out rallies for the release of the party supremo. On the other hand, the secretary general left the key party position so that he could focus on parliamentary affairs. —RT/Agency

Revocation Of PTI's Rally Permission Purely An Administrative Matter: Rana Sanaullah

ISLAMABAD: Advisor to Prime Minister on Political Affairs and Inter-Provincial Coordination (IPC) Rana Sanaullah said on Saturday that the cancellation of permission for Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf's (PTI) rally is purely an administrative matter.

Holding rallies and mobilizing people are the essence of democracy. However, PTI should consider the sensitivity of the time (Muharram) before calling for a rally, he said while talking to a private news channel.

The local administration would have a proper justification as to why they revoked the permission, he added.

During Muharram, when the administration was fully occupied with ensuring security for the processions, it was unwise to gather people for other events, he further added. In response to a query about the All Party Conference (APC), he mentioned that the government has invited all stakeholders to participate in it. —RT/Agency

PTI's Ali Muhammad Khan Criticizes Marwat For Imran Khan Criticism

ISLAMABAD: PTI MNA Ali Muhammad Khan put party maverick Sher Afzal Marwat on blast on Saturday after a video surfaced of him seemingly criticizing party founder Imran Khan.

The PTI MNA, who is known for causing controversies, has previously accused both the US and Saudi Arabia of conspiring to topple the PTI government. The PTI had publicly distanced itself from his remarks while Marwat had chalked them off as his personal opinion, even as he continued to stick to them.

In February, the PTI had issued a show-cause notice to Marwat over remarks against party leader Barrister Gohar Ali Khan that had triggered a controversy within the party.

He was issued a second show-cause notice in May for violating the party's code of conduct and hurting its interests through his remarks against senior party leaders — Omar Ayub and Shibli Faraz — and Saudi Arabia. Marwat was also removed from the party's core and political committees on Imran's direction following the maverick's statements about Saudi Arabia.

A video doing the rounds on social media today, ostensibly a snippet from an interview with journalist Abrar Qureshi, showed Marwat saying: "Khan did wrong with me" and that Imran's decisions hurt the party.

About a public protest call, Marwat could be heard saying: "Khan had to make this decision and he delayed it. If he had decided to take people out and to do it after Eidul Fitr then everyone would've known that Imran wants [people] to get out and that everyone has been assigned duties," adding that the move would have separated those who complied and those who did not with the PTI founder's order.

"Till now, Imran has not officially conveyed or announced any decision that the people come out for the recovery of the mandate or his freedom or that of the judiciary. Khan should have decided this," Marwat said.

His social media team posted a message from him saying: "This video is edited. When the entire interview is broadcast, you will see it yourself."

On his own X account, he said that his interview in London was not how it was being presented.

"I complained about my treatment but never compared myself to Khan sahib. —RT/Agency

Tarar Questions Credibility of Awam Pakistan Party's Founders

ISLAMABAD: Federal Minister for Information and Broadcasting Attaullah Tarar on Saturday questioned the credibility of founders of the newly launched political party named as Awam Pakistan.

The minister, reacting to their presser held at the launching ceremony, said it was nothing but a gathering of investors who had billions of rupees in their possession.

The presser was a repeat telecast of the old narrative that was "full of contradictions", he maintained.

Referring to former prime minister Shahid Khaqan Abbasi and ex-finance minister Miftah Ismail, he asked how could a person without "loyalty" could do the "politics of ethics".

Ironically, those who devalued "speeches with full of contradictions" had remained in the power and enjoyed perks and privileges in the past. Tarar noted.

The minister said the public would ask them why they were silent while being in the highest offices of the country. Why the announcements made today were not implemented by them while being in the offices of the prime minister and minister of finance and petroleum, he questioned.

"On the one hand, they say that power is not their destination and at the same time they also declare themselves as the Messiah," Tarar wondered. —RT/Agency
