Sleepy Joe Quits US Presidential Race

WASHINGTON: US President Joe Biden ended his reelection campaign on Sunday after fellow Democrats lost faith in his mental acuity and ability to beat Donald Trump, leaving the presidential race in uncharted territory.

Biden, in a post on X, said he will remain in his role as president and commander-in-chief until his term ends in January 2025 and will address the nation this week.

"It has been the greatest honor of my life to serve as your President. And while it has been my intention to seek reelection, I believe it is in the best interest of my party and the country for me to stand down and to focus solely on fulfilling my duties as President for the remainder of my term," Biden wrote. By dropping his reelection bid, he clears the way for Vice President Kamala Harris to run at the top of the ticket, the first Black woman to do so in the country's history. Biden, 81, did not mention her when he announced his move. It was unclear whether other senior Democrats would challenge Harris for the party's nomination, who was widely seen as the pick

Information Minister Claims Imran's Adiala 'Presidential Suite' Surpasses Middle-Class Homes

ISLAMABAD: Information Minister Attaullah Tarar slammed Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Imran Khan for claiming that he was imprisoned in a death cell when, in actuality, he was in a "presidential suite", which is better than a middle-class family's house.

"You are telling the West that you're facing troubles, and you're imprisoned in a death cell. This death cell is a 'presidential suite' in Adiala jail, which is better than a middle-class house," Tarar said during a press conference in Islamabad.

Imran, in an interview with the Sunday Times through his lawyers, claimed that he was imprisoned in a death cell, where "terrorists" are kept to ensure "they have no contact with anyone".

The 71-year-old cricket-turned-politician has been in prison for almost a year now in three cases — the Toshakhana case, cipher case, and the un-Islamic marriage case. His wife, Bushra Bibi, is also behind bars.

However, a court suspended his sentence in the Toshakhana case, while other courts overturned his convictions in the cipher and iddat cases, respectively.

While there were hopes for his and Bushra's release in July, they were dashed when the National Accountability Bureau (NAB) arrested them on fresh charges related to the sale of state gifts.

As Imran remains behind bars, he has kept claiming that he's not being provided several facilities, but to set the record straight, the government submitted documentary evidence of facilities being provided to the PTI founder in Adiala jail, rebutting his claims that he was being kept in solitary confinement.

The pictures shared with the court showed that the PTI founder was provided with several facilities that a common prisoner cannot imagine — since he's a former prime minister.

Imran has an exercise bike and stretching belt for physical fitness, books, a separate kitchen, a special menu, an exclusive gallery for a walk, LED, a room cooler, and a study table.

In his presser, while referring to the interview, he reminded the people of how a "dictator" Imran would treat his political opponents — regardless of their gender.

"[They knew] Shehbaz Sharif had a pain in his back. Despite that, he was brought in an armored car and pushed, and it is visible in the footage. Maryam Nawaz was in a 7x8 cell, where she could not even spread the prayer mat properly, she was not even allowed to walk."

Recalling how former prime minister Nawaz Sharif was treated, Tarar said the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz president's wife died while he was in prison. He claimed that a fire was lit using wood outside Rana Samaulah's jail cell in extremely hot weather.

"These are his words, I will take off the AC and TV and not give you food. I will not allow them medicines or visits," Tarar said, reminding the people about what Imran would say about his plans for imprisoned PML-N leaders.

In response to a question, Tarar said his government did not want to victimise its political opponents and that the authorities also follow through on Imran's requests for "desi murghi".

In response to a question about disruption in the internet, Tarar claimed that the internet services were disrupted across several countries and flights were also affected in the US.

"The government has nothing to do with it, it's an overall problem," he said, noting that the IT Ministry and the Pakistan Telecommunication Authority (PTA) would inform about cyber security.

He added that if the government were to install a firewall, it would be for data and cyber security, not to gag freedom of expression. "This is as per my knowledge."

He said that on social media, there are several issues — some people deserve to be killed, women harassment, and child pornography. "You can see what kind of content is being uploaded on Twitter (now X)."

The info minister noted that the interim government had placed a ban on the social media platform as its policies did not meet with the nation's compliance rate.

"There is some content that terrorists and anti-state elements use [to their benefit]. The interior minister has taken this matter up in court," he added.

According to the information minister, "Some armed people from political parties, including the PTI," attended the Aman (peace) March organised by Bannu traders and created chaos by resorting to firing near Bannu Cantt's wall on Friday where eight troops were martyred last week. One person was killed and 23 sustained injuries due to stampede after the firing incident during Friday's rally in Bannu, Tarar confirmed, adding that the victim was dead one kilometre away from Bannu Cantonment's wall.

He questioned why "armed groups of some political parties" attended the traders' event and what were their motives behind opening fire at the sensitive site of Bannu Cantonment's wall.

He blamed the Imran-founded party for being "a sympathiser for the outlawed Tehreek-e-Taliban Pakistan (TTP)" and wanted the "politics of bodies" in the country.

The minister directly blamed the PTI workers for their alleged involvement in the Bannu Aman March's firing incident and termed it a "conspiracy" of the former ruling party to create chaos in the country.

He also rejected the armed forces' involvement in the firing incident during the Bannu rally, saying some people tried to blame the Pakistan Army for the incident for their ulterior motives.

He also rejected the Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KP) government's statement on the incident, as well as its announcement to hold an inquiry into the incident as the ruling party's associates were behind the attack. —RT/Agency

Islamabad Condemns Attack By 'Extremist Group' On Consulate In Germany

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan on Sunday strongly condemned an attack by a gang of extremists on its consulate in Germany's Frankfurt and the failure of the German authorities to protect the sanctity and security of the premises of its consular mission.

The Foreign Office's statement comes a day after a group of Afghan nationals vandalised and attacked the Pakistani consulate, pelting stones at the building and removing the country's flag.

The statement said that the responsibility to protect the premises and ensure the security of diplomats falls under the host government under the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations, 1963.

"We are conveying our strong protest to the German government and urge to take immediate measures to fulfil its responsibilities under the Vienna Conventions," the Foreign Office said. According to media reports, the situation has drawn significant attention among the international communities, raising concerns about the diplomatic security of the installations.

However, the officials have been assured of a thorough investigation by the German authorities in Frankfurt.

They have also arrested several people who are being investigated after the video went viral. —RT/Agency

Gohar Ejaz Claims Corrupt Contracts Behind High Electricity Costs

ISLAMABAD: Former caretaker commerce minister Gohar Ejaz has disclosed data on payments to Independent Power Producers (IPPs), revealing significant financial burdens on consumers.

Ejaz shared on Sunday that over the past year, IPPs received payments amounting to Rs1.95 trillion. He criticised corrupt contracts and mismanagement that result in electricity being sold at Rs60 per unit, calling for public action against these deals. He highlighted that the government purchased electricity from one power plant at a record Rs750 per unit, and from coal power plants at an average of Rs200 per unit, while wind and solar plants sold electricity at over Rs50 per unit.

Ejaz pointed out that despite operating below 20% capacity, IPPs were paid substantial sums, including Rs140 billion to one plant operating at a 15% load factor and Rs120 billion to another at 17%.

These agreements, according to him, allow IPPs to invest heavily without generating equivalent power, stressing the need for "no capacity payment" agreements. He urged the government to only purchase from the cheapest electricity providers and treat all IPPs as merchant plants. —RT/Agency

PTI's Shafqat Mahmood Resigns From Politics, Denies Pressure To Do So

ISLAMABAD: Shafqat Mahmood, a once prominent leader of the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI), Sunday announced quitting politics but stressed that the decision was not due to coercion.

"34 years back, I resigned from a government job and entered politics. But after deliberations, I have now decided to retire from politics," Mahmood, a former federal minister, said in a post on X, previously known as Twitter.

A plethora of politicians left the former ruling party or quit politics altogether following the May 9 attacks on state installations, with the former saying that they were forced to quit the Imran Khan-founded party.

The leaders who deserted the now embattled PTI include Fawad Chaudhry, Asad Umar, Shireen Mazari, Fayazul Hassan Chohan, Maleeka Bokhari, Ali Zaidi, and Musarrat Jamshed Cheema.

While some leaders have tried joining the party ranks once again, the PTI leadership — which consists of several new faces — has decided that deserters would not be brought back to the fold.

"There's no pressure on me [to quit PTI] and neither do I plan on joining any other political party," Mahmood said, explaining that he took the decision due to "time" and his "age".

Reflecting on his political decades-long career, the former federal minister said he saw several ups and downs. "I have served as a member of the Senate and the National Assembly."

Not only that, he said that he was also appointed as a federal as well as provincial minister. Mahmood, on a lighter note, said he also "visited" jail during his political career.

The now-former PTI leader said that as the federal education minister, he rolled out the Single National Curriculum for the first time in history and also oversaw education-related affairs during the pressing period of COVID-19.

"I am satisfied that I have always performed all my responsibilities honestly and performed at every position as a duty. No one, thank God, has levelled any allegation against me." Revealing his future plans, Mahmood said that he wanted to spend the rest of his life teaching and writing. "I agree with those who say that the youth should participate in politics." —RT/Agency

According to sources within the National Assembly, the committee chairs had requested new vehicles despite already having vehicles in good condition.

Pakistan's First Air Ambulance Successfully Transfers Patient

LAHORE: A rescue air ambulance, an initiative undertaken by the Punjab Chief Minister Maryam Nawaz, successfully transferred a patient for the first time in Pakistan, media reported on Sunday.

The patient, identified as Halima Bibi - a 40-year-old woman from Mianwali, suffered paralysis after falling from a roof two days ago.

She was initially treated at Mianwali's District Headquarters Hospital, where surgeons referred her to Rawalpindi for further treatment.

Following CM Maryam Nawaz's directive, Halima Bibi was shifted from Mianwali to Rawalpindi within the critical "golden hour" in an air ambulance.

The patient's family expressed gratitude to Maryam Nawaz, calling her an "angel" for facilitating the project. Punjab Chief Minister emphasised that quality and timely medical treatment is the right of every citizen and will be ensured. She also announced the commencement of Pakistan's first air ambulance operations while appealing to the nation to pray for Bibi's recovery. First female Punjab Chief Minister Maryam Nawaz had made an announcement of launch of the air ambulance service within weeks in her maiden address at the Punjab Assembly.

Earlier in March, the Punjab cabinet approved the project, marking a significant step forward in emergency medical services. Under this initiative, there is a plan to initially get two aircraft on lease. These ambulances will be equipped to transport doctors, paramedics, and essential medical equipment, along with life-saving medicines. The air machines are designed to operate from short runways. Germany should feel ashamed over brazen diplomatic breach at Pakistani Consulate in Frankfurt

The brazen attack on the Pakistani Consulate in Frankfurt represents a disturbing violation of international diplomatic norms and a significant security failure by the German authorities. Under the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations of 1963, it is the explicit duty of the host country to ensure the security and sanctity of consular premises. Germany's inability to safeguard the Pakistani consulate and its staff from this egregious act endangers not only diplomatic relations but also the rule of law that is supposed to prevail in a civilized nation.

The protest, reportedly carried out by Afghan nationals, quickly devolved into violence as stones were thrown and the Pakistani flag was torn down. Such actions are not only unlawful but also deeply disrespectful, especially considering Pakistan's historical support for Afghanistan through decades of conflict and turmoil. The attackers' disregard for diplomatic protocol and international law reflects poorly on their cause and only serves to exacerbate tensions between the two neighboring Muslim countries.

Germany must take this incident seriously and address the evident security lapses. Immediate measures should be taken to arrest and prosecute those responsible, ensuring that such breaches are not repeated. The German government needs to reinforce its commitment to protecting diplomatic missions, thereby upholding the principles of international law and diplomacy.

For Pakistan, the attack on its consulate is a stark reminder of the challenges it faces in its diplomatic endeavors. Despite its longstanding support for Afghanistan, it must now contend with the fallout from actions taken by a violent few. The Pakistani government has rightly lodged a strong protest and must continue to press for justice and accountability.

Thus, Germany must not only rectify this security breach but also reaffirm its dedication to upholding international conventions. The Afghan community in Germany should reflect on the consequences of such unlawful actions and seek more constructive avenues for expressing their grievances. Diplomacy and dialogue must prevail over violence and disorder if we are to maintain a semblance of peace and mutual respect in international relations.

The community is being urged to remain vigilant and cooperate with the health teams to prevent further spread of the disease. The swift action and thorough measures implemented by DC Bhawani aim to mitigate the outbreak and restore health and safety to the affected areas.

Gastroenteritis outbreaks are not uncommon in the region, often exacerbated by poor sanitation and lack of clean drinking water. The authorities have been criticized in the past for their slow response to such health crises, but the proactive measures taken by DC Bhawani are a positive sign of change.

The affected areas have seen an influx of medical professionals and health workers, all working tirelessly to contain the outbreak. They are conducting door-to-door visits to identify new cases, provide treatment, and educate residents on preventive measures. This grassroots approach is essential in ensuring that the disease does not spread further. The District Health Officer has emphasized the importance of maintaining hygiene and using safe drinking water. They have distributed chlorine tablets and oral rehydration salts (ORS) to affected households, and public health messages are being broadcasted through local media to raise awareness.

Community leaders and local NGOs have also stepped in to support the efforts. They are providing additional resources, such as clean water supplies and sanitation facilities, to the most affected areas. Their involvement is crucial in addressing the immediate needs of the population and preventing future outbreaks.

Youth Killed In Fatal Umerkot Road Mishap

By Muhammad Bachal

UMERKOT: A tragic road accident near Umerkot claimed the life of a young motorcyclist. The incident occurred within the jurisdiction of Khokhrapur police station, where a severe collision between a dumper and a motorcycle resulted in the death of Jetho, son of Manko Malhi.

The accident happened on Friday afternoon, and Jetho was declared dead on the spot due to the impact. Upon receiving the information, Khokhrapur police swiftly arrived at the scene and transferred the deceased's body to a nearby hospital. The police also took immediate action by taking the dumper into custody and detaining the driver involved in the collision.

After completing the necessary legal procedures, the police handed over Jetho's body to his grieving relatives. The atmosphere at the handover was filled with mourning and sorrow as family members and friends gathered to pay their respects.

According to the police, the dumper and its driver are currently in custody, and a formal case will be registered once the relatives have arrived and provided their statements. The community is now awaiting justice for the young victim of this preventable tragedy.

Road accidents have become an alarming issue in Umerkot and the surrounding areas. The lack of proper road infrastructure, combined with reckless driving and inadequate enforcement of traffic laws, has resulted in numerous fatalities and injuries. The death of Jetho is yet another reminder of the urgent need for comprehensive measures to improve road safety.

Local residents have long complained about the dangerous conditions on the roads, particularly the heavy traffic of large vehicles like dumpers and trucks. These vehicles often travel at high speeds, posing a significant risk to smaller vehicles and pedestrians. Despite repeated calls for action, there has been little improvement in the situation.

The family of Jetho is not only mourning their loss but also calling for stricter regulations and better enforcement of existing laws to prevent similar incidents in the future. They have joined forces with other affected families to form a coalition advocating for road safety reforms. This coalition is pushing for better road maintenance, stricter penalties for traffic violations, and increased public awareness campaigns on road safety.

The local government has been urged to take immediate steps to address these concerns. There are calls for the installation of speed cameras, more frequent traffic patrols, and the construction of pedestrian bridges and crosswalks in high-traffic areas. These measures are seen as essential to reducing the number of accidents and saving lives.

The police have also been criticized for their handling of traffic violations. Many residents feel that fines and penalties are not being enforced consistently, leading to a culture of impunity among drivers. There is a demand for better training for traffic officers and a more transparent system of accountability within the police force.

Jetho's death has also highlighted the need for better emergency response services. In many cases, victims of road accidents do not receive timely medical attention due to a lack of adequate emergency services and infrastructure. Improving these services is crucial to ensuring that those injured in accidents have the best possible chance of survival.

As the community grieves, they are also mobilizing for change. Vigils and protests are being organized to put pressure on the authorities to take meaningful action. The hope is that Jetho's tragic death will not be in vain and that it will lead to lasting improvements in road safety.

The local media has played a significant role in bringing attention to these issues. Journalists and reporters have been actively covering the story, providing a platform for the voices of those affected and holding authorities accountable. This media coverage has been instrumental in keeping the issue in the public eye and maintaining momentum for change.

In the wake of this tragedy, there is a sense of urgency and determination within the community. They are committed to ensuring that no more lives are lost due to preventable road accidents. While the road ahead is challenging, the collective resolve of the residents of Umerkot offers hope for a safer future.

Ex-Chairman Talhar Town Committee Complains Of Torture And Mistreatment In Jail

By Raja Zafar Iqbal

BADIN: Mir Shahid Talpur, the former Chairman of Talhar Town Committee currently imprisoned in District Jail Badin, has raised serious allegations of torture and inhuman treatment during his recent court appearance. Talpur complained about the lack of proper medical care and denial of meeting facilities, stating that he is being subjected to physical and mental harassment.

Talpur, who suffers from blood pressure issues, expressed his dismay at the treatment he has received, which he claims violates jail rules. His lawyer mentioned that the court has scheduled a hearing for the case on July 23, where both parties are expected to present their arguments.

Mir Shahid Talpur's brother, Mir Noor Ahmed Talpur, a former member of the District Council Badin, spoke to journalists and accused PPP Member Provincial Assembly Mirullah Bakhsh Talpur of orchestrating a campaign of political revenge. Noor Ahmed asserted that his brother's "crime" was providing legal and moral support to the heirs of a poor working woman who was killed in Talhar.

He alleged that their family has since faced continuous harassment, including police raids, arrests, and false accusations. During these raids, he claimed, the sanctity of their home was violated, with doors, cupboards, furniture, electronic equipment, and other valuables being damaged or stolen, including jewelry worth crores of rupees.

Mir Noor Ahmed Talpur called for justice from the judiciary, expressing hope that the legal system would address the grievances and ensure fair treatment for his brother. The hearing on July 23 is highly anticipated, as it will shed light on the serious allegations and potentially uncover the motives behind the alleged mistreatment of Mir Shahid Talpur.

Allegations of Torture and Mistreatment Mir Shahid Talpur's allegations have sent shockwaves through the local community, with many expressing concern over the reported conditions in the District Jail Badin. During his court appearance, Talpur detailed the various forms of mistreatment he has allegedly endured.

These include physical beatings, verbal abuse, and psychological torment aimed at breaking his spirit. Talpur's lawyer has argued that such treatment is a gross violation of human rights and jail regulations. He emphasized that all prisoners, regardless of their charges, are entitled to basic human dignity and medical care.

The lack of proper medical attention, especially considering Talpur's blood pressure issues, poses a significant risk to his health and well-being. Political Motivations

The accusations of political revenge add another layer of complexity to the case. Mir Noor Ahmed Talpur's statements suggest a deep-seated rivalry between his family and PPP Member Provincial Assembly Mirullah Bakhsh Talpur.

This feud, according to Noor Ahmed, has led to a sustained campaign of harassment and intimidation against their family. Noor Ahmed's claims about police raids and the destruction of property paint a picture of systematic targeting.

He described incidents where police forces allegedly broke into their home without warrants, causing extensive damage and stealing valuable items. The psychological impact of these raids has been profound, leaving the family in a state of constant fear and anxiety.

Community Response The local community has rallied around the Talpur family, with many residents expressing solidarity and demanding justice. Social media platforms have been flooded with messages of support, and local advocacy groups have organized rallies to raise awareness about the case. The support reflects a broader concern about the misuse of power and the need for accountability within the political and judicial systems.

Legal Proceedings The upcoming court hearing on July 23 is crucial. Both sides will present their arguments, and the court's decision could have significant implications for Mir Shahid Talpur's case. His lawyer is preparing a robust defense, aiming to highlight the alleged violations of Talpur's rights and the broader context of political rivalry.

Legal experts have weighed in on the case, suggesting that it could set a precedent for how allegations of mistreatment and political harassment are handled in the judicial system. The hearing is expected to attract significant media attention, potentially influencing public opinion and the political landscape.

Family's Plea for Justice Mir Noor Ahmed Talpur's public plea for justice underscores the family's desperation and hope for a fair resolution. He has called on the judiciary to uphold the principles of justice and impartiality, ensuring that his brother receives fair treatment.

Noor Ahmed also appealed to human rights organizations to take notice of their plight and intervene. The Talpur family remains hopeful that the court will recognize the gravity of the allegations and take appropriate action.

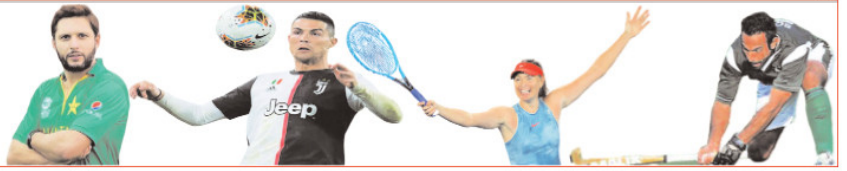

They believe that a fair trial and an impartial investigation are essential to uncovering the truth and holding those responsible accountable. The case of Mir Shahid Talpur highlights the challenges faced by individuals who become entangled in political rivalries. The allegations of torture, mistreatment, and political harassment raise serious questions about the integrity of the justice system and the protection of human rights.

As the court hearing approaches, the local community and local advocacy groups have organized rallies to raise awareness about the case. The support reflects a broader concern about the misuse of power and the need for accountability within the political and judicial systems.

The hearing on July 23 is highly anticipated, as it will shed light on the serious allegations and potentially uncover the motives behind the alleged mistreatment of Mir Shahid Talpur.

Rafael Nadal defeated in first tour final in two years

PARIS: Rafael Nadal lost his first final in two years on Sunday as the Spaniard went down 6-3, 6-2 to Portugal's Nuno Borges at the clay-court Bastad Open.

The Spanish tennis great had shown signs of a return to form in Scandinavia as he made an impressive run to the final, just one week before tennis at the Olympic Games gets underway on the clay in Paris.

But Nadal, rather than celebrating his 64th title on the surface and first since Roland Garros 2022, was dominated by Borges as he struggled to find fluency with his serve and groundstrokes.

"I don't know what to say. I think I was wishing for this moment for a while already," said Borges in his post-match interview.

"It's crazy, in tennis it doesn't happen when you expect it sometimes. I know we all wanted Rafa to win, a part of me wished that too, but something even bigger inside of me really pushed through today... I'm just really happy overall. I really don't know what to say, I'm very emotional."

Borges was the first to make headway in the match when he broke the Spaniard's serve to go 3-1 up, with Nadal saving break points before overcooking a forehand down the line.

But the 14-time French Open winner struck back immediately on the Borges serve, earning two break-back points before the Portuguese dumped a forehand into the net from inside the service box.

But neither player could quite grab the ascendancy in the first set as Borges quickly ran up a 0-40 lead in the next service game, converting his second break point with a perfectly executed drop shot.

Rafael Nadal was struggling to find his first serve but managed to hold just his second service game of the opening set to force Borges to serve one more time. The world number 51 kept his nerve to do just that.

The 38-year-old showed signs of his old self serving at deuce in the first game of the second set with a booming forehand winner down the line before he eventually held but that was one of the few highlights for Nadal on the day.—Agency

MANCHESTER: In a revelation from the biography "God Save Pep" by Marti Perarnau, it has been disclosed that Lionel Messi reached out to his former coach Pep Guardiola in 2020, exploring the possibility of a reunion at Manchester City.

The moment highlighted Messi's desire to reconnect with Guardiola, under whose guidance he had flourished at Barcelona.

According to the biography, Messi, at the age of 33, reportedly visited Guardiola's home in Barcelona to discuss the potential move. During this meeting, Guardiola expressed concerns about the challenges Messi might face joining Manchester City at this late stage in his career.

However, Messi was adamant, dismissing Guardiola's reservations about his ability to adapt and succeed in the Premier League. Despite Messi's enthusiasm and determination, Manchester City did not proceed with the move, ultimately allowing Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) to secure the Argentine superstar's signature.

The transfer to PSG marked the end of Messi's long and illustrious tenure with Barcelona, surprising many who had speculated about a potential reunion with Guardiola.

The biography by Perarnau provides a unique insight into the dynamics between Messi and Guardiola. It underscores the mutual respect and admiration that exists between the two football icons.

Guardiola's coaching tenure at Barcelona from 2008 to 2012 is often regarded as one of the most successful periods in the club's history, with Messi playing a pivotal role in their numerous triumphs.

Had Messi joined Manchester City, it would have reunited him with not only Guardiola but also several other superstars, creating a formidable lineup.—Agency

Jake Paul dominates Mike Perry with sixth-round TKO victory

Jake Paul delivered a dominant performance, defeating BKFC star Mike Perry at Amalie Arena. The former YouTube and Disney Channel star secured a sixth-round TKO after a series of powerful blows sent Perry stumbling into the corner.

"He's tough as nails," Paul remarked in the ring following his victory. "I'm sorry it took so long... I just hit too hard, but he took a lot of damage. That's a W, baby. I'm so excited."

Paul set the tone early, nearly fulfilling his promise of an early knockout. Within the first minute of the match, he landed a huge blow to Perry's head, sending him to the ground.

Although Perry quickly got back up, the knockdown gave Paul a significant early advantage.

Paul continued his assault in the second round, delivering another knock-down and opening a cut over Perry's eye. Despite Perry's attempts to defend himself, he struggled to protect his face and even threw Paul to the mat out of frustration.

By the fourth round, Paul had Perry cornered multiple times with little resistance. Perry managed to survive the round but was clearly exhausted.

When Paul unleashed a flurry of punches in the sixth round, the referee had BKFC, was considered one of Paul's toughest opponents on paper. However, Paul's performance demonstrated his growing skills as a boxer.

The defeat did not sit well with Conor McGregor, a part-owner of the BKFC, who claimed to have fired Perry from the league on social media, though it remains unclear if he has the authority to do so.

Paul, who entered the night with a 9-1 record and six KOs, has faced criticism for fighting non-boxers and other YouTubers. However, his recent victories, including back-to-back KO wins, have begun to silence his critics.

Paul was originally scheduled to fight boxing legend Mike Tyson, but the bout was postponed until November due to Tyson's health issues.

Despite Tyson's age and inactivity, Paul insisted the fight will happen.—Agency

ENG vs WI: Harry Brook ahead of Boom Boom Afridi, Virender Sehwag in elite Test list

This was the 25-year-old's first Test at home and it was particularly notable as it came after a string of five half-centuries and a highest score of 85, showcasing his ability to convert starts into substantial knocks.

Brook was initially cautious but found his rhythm with a boundary against Alzarri Joseph. His innings became more fluent as he effectively rotated the strike with Joe Root and played a crucial role in stabilising England's innings.

Brook's performance on Day 4 demonstrated his maturity and composure. After ending Day 3 at 71* (78), he resumed with confidence, scoring a boundary off the first over of the day bowled by Jayden Seales. Brook eventually reached the milestone in just 118 balls with a single off Joseph in the 62nd over. His performance was a crucial factor in England's strong position in the match.

Barcelona look to renew De Jong's contract to reduce salary

BARCELONA: FC Barcelona have decided to renew the contract of their player, Frenkie de Jong, where they would try to reduce his salary while increasing his stay with the club, reported SPORT on Sunday.

De Jong, 26, joined the Catalan club in 2019 from Ajax and has been one of their key players since then. He is also considered an important figure inside the dressing room as alongside Ter Stegen and others. Other than his importance on the field, De Jong is also the highest earner in the team and La Liga, and Barcelona are desperate to renew his contract where they would ask him to reduce his salary.

The club tried to do this in the past but they failed.

However, the club will not give up and will try to open talks with the Dutchman in the coming weeks where they would not just ask him to reduce his salary, but also extend his stay in Barcelona.

De Jong's current deal ends in 2026 meaning if he does not renew now, the club may have to sell him next year for a lesser amount or lose him for free in two years, which they do not want.

Barcelona are also trying to sign Athletic Bilbao's Nico Williams, and their goal so far now is to reduce the wage bill so they can sign some players in the summer transfer window.

Sells of some players will also help in registering new signings as the situation of Barcelona's financial matters is no secret to anyone but agreeing the big earners to take a wage cut is also in the club's mind.

It is worth mentioning that De Jong earns €31.6 million annually while his teammate Robert Lewandowski is on a reported €28.2 million a year.—Agency

By Aftab Bhatti

KASHMIRE: The incompetence of SEPCO staff has tragically claimed another life. In Solangi Muhalla, Rafique Ahmed Channa, a young man in his early twenties, was electrocuted while attempting to repair a faulty transformer on a private line.

The incident occurred on Thursday afternoon when locals, frustrated by SEPCO's lack of response, called upon Channa for assistance.

According to eyewitnesses, despite the power being turned off, a back current unexpectedly surged through the transformer, causing the fatal accident.

Channa, who had some experience with electrical repairs, was working alone when the tragedy struck.

The deceased's body was taken home, where it was met with an outpouring of grief from family members and neighbors.

The community expressed anger and frustration over SEPCO's negligence, which they believe directly led to the young man's untimely death.

Local authorities have been urged to investigate the incident and hold SEPCO accountable for their failure to respond to the initial repair requests.

In the meantime, the community mourns the loss of a promising young life cut short by preventable circumstances.

The tragic incident has reignited a longstanding debate over the reliability and safety of SEPCO's services. Residents of Solangi Muhalla and the surrounding areas have reported numerous instances of prolonged outages, faulty equipment, and delayed responses from SEPCO. They argue that these systemic issues have created an environment where such accidents are not just possible, but inevitable.

SEPCO's track record has been less than stellar, with frequent complaints about the lack of proper maintenance and timely repairs. Many in the community feel that SEPCO's management prioritizes profits over the safety and well-being of the people they serve.

This latest incident has only added fuel to the fire, prompting calls for a thorough overhaul of the company's operations and management.

Rafique Ahmed Channa's death is a stark reminder of the dangers posed by neglectful utility companies. Despite his relative inexperience, Channa stepped up to address an urgent need within his community, a testament to his character and the high regard in which he was held by those who knew him.

As the community mourns, they are also mobilizing for change. Petitions are being circulated, and plans for protests and legal action against SEPCO are underway.

The residents of Solangi Muhalla are determined to ensure that Rafique Ahmed Channa did not die in vain and that no other family has to suffer a similar tragedy.

In the face of such adversity, the resilience and solidarity of the community have shone through. Neighbors and friends have rallied around Channa's family, offering support and assistance in any way they can. This collective spirit is a powerful force, one that SEPCO and other authorities would do well to heed.

The local government has also been called upon to take immediate action. There are demands for stricter regulations and oversight of utility companies to prevent such incidents in the future.

The people of Solangi Muhalla are not just asking for justice for Channa, but for systemic changes that will safeguard their community against the failures of those entrusted with their welfare.

In the aftermath of this tragedy, it is clear that there is a need for a comprehensive review of SEPCO's practices. This should include a thorough investigation into their operational protocols, maintenance schedules, and response times.

Moreover, there should be an emphasis on accountability, ensuring that those responsible for negligence are held to account.

While nothing can bring back Rafique Ahmed Channa, his death could be the catalyst for much-needed reform. It is up to the community, the local government, and regulatory bodies to work together to prevent such avoidable tragedies in the future.

As they mourn a young life lost too soon, the people of Solangi Muhalla remain resolute in their pursuit of justice and safety.

India Has Historic Relationship With Russia, Not Going To Cut It Off: US

Washington: There is no tangible evidence of India deepening its military and technology relationship with Russia, US National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan has said, asserting that Moscow, which has become a "junior partner" to China, is not necessarily going to be a "great and reliable friend" to India in a future contingency.

Mr Sullivan made remarks at the Aspen Security Forum in Colorado while responding to questions about the recent visit of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to Russia for bilateral talks with President Vladimir Putin. "I think the biggest question is: Do we see tangible evidence that India is deepening its military and technology relationship with Russia? And I did not see tangible evidence out of that visit that it was deepening. I didn't see deliverables in that space," Mr Sullivan said. "How concerned were you when Prime Minister Modi met President Putin, essentially at the same time that President Joe Biden was hosting the NATO leaders in Washington?" he was asked. "Don't you think the bear hug was significant then?" he was asked. "Well,

Mr Modi has a certain way of course, of greeting world leaders. I've seen it up close and personal, actually," Mr Sullivan said. The Biden Administration, he said, never wants to see countries that the US cares about, who are its partners and friends, show up in Moscow and hug Putin.—Agency

Bangladesh top court scraps majority of job quotas that caused violent protests

DHAKA: Bangladesh's Supreme Court on Sunday scrapped most of the quotas on government jobs that have sparked student-led protests in which at least 114 people have been killed in the South Asian country, local media reported.

The court's Appellate Division dismissed a lower court order that had reinstated the quotas, directing that 93% of government jobs will be open to candidates on merit, without quotas, the reports said.

Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina's government had scrapped the quota system in 2018, but the lower court reinstated it last month, sparking the protests and an ensuing government crackdown. It was not immediately clear how the protesters would react to the decision. Streets near the Supreme Court were quiet immediately after the decision and army teams were deployed throughout the capital Dhaka, a Reuters witness said.

Local media had reported scattered clashes earlier in the day between protesters and security forces.

The government had extended a curfew as authorities braced for the Supreme Court hearing on the job quotas. Soldiers were on patrol on the streets of capital Dhaka, the centre of the demonstrations that spiralled into clashes between protesters and security forces.

Bangladesh students refuse to call off protests despite scrapping of job quotas

DHAKA: A Bangladeshi student group whose demonstrations against civil service hiring rules precipitated serious nationwide unrest said Sunday it would not abandon protests despite a Supreme Court ruling partially meeting their demands.

"We won't call off our protests until the government issues an order reflecting our demands," a spokesman for Students Against Discrimination told AFP on condition of anonymity.

Bangladesh's top court earlier in the day scrapped most of the quotas on government jobs that have sparked student-led protests in which at least 139 people have been killed in the South Asian country, local media reported.

Kundi Expresses Alarm Over KP's Worsening Law And Order Situation

MANSEHRA: Governor Khyber Pakhtunkhwa (KP) Faisal Karim Kundi on Sunday raised serious concerns about the deteriorating law and order situation in the province, criticising the provincial government for failing to meet its constitutional responsibilities.

Addressing a press conference in Mansehra, Governor Kundi emphasised that despite the ongoing severe lawlessness, the federal government respects the mandate given by the public to Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) to govern the province, and rejects any notion of imposing a governor's rule.

He highlighted that since the 18th Amendment was approved in 2011, maintaining law and order has been the responsibility of the provincial government. Kundi lamented that even after the Bannu incident, the provincial government has not lived up to public expectations, failing to convene an in-camera session of the provincial assembly. The Governor called for an urgent in-camera session of the assembly and cabinet to brief the members and ministers on the worsening law and order situation, noting the martyrdom of armed forces personnel and the kidnapping of judges in the southern districts.

Faisal Karim Kundi revealed that Chief Minister Ali Amin Gandapur had served him with a defamation notice for 500 million rupees. However, Kundi advised Gandapur to first address the issue of corruption in job appointments and transfers, accusing him of setting rates for these transactions and making appointments based on bribes. Addressing the possibility of an alliance between PTI and Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam-Fazl (JUI-F) against the Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N)-led federal government, Governor Kundi expressed skepticism. He argued that such an alliance was almost impossible as Maulana Fazlur Rehman was seeking retribution, having labeled Imran Khan's party as foreign agents.

In a separate address at a Pakistan People's Party (PPP) workers' convention, Governor Kundi announced the reorganisation of his party in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa.—RT/Agency

Hezbollah Fires Rockets At Israel After Strike On Lebanon

Beirut: Lebanon's Hezbollah on Sunday said it fired Katyusha rockets at northern Israel in response to an overnight Israeli strike that, according to state media, hit a weapons depot and wounded six people. Hezbollah has traded near-daily cross-border fire with Israeli forces in support of Hamas since the Palestinian militant group's October 7 attack on southern Israel triggered war in the Gaza Strip. The Iran-backed Hezbollah said it targeted northern Israel's Dafina area with Katyusha rockets "in response to the Israeli enemy's attacks that targeted civilians in the town of Adloun, injuring several of them". This comes after an Israeli military said its air force "struck two Hezbollah weapons storage facilities in southern Lebanon, containing rockets and additional weaponry". Late on Saturday, Lebanon's state-run National News Agency said "the Israeli enemy launched a raid" on the town of Adloun, about 30 kilometres (19 miles) from the border with Israel, later saying the target was "an ammunition depot". "Six civilians sustained moderate injuries," the NNA said on Sunday, revising the figure up from three the night before. Rockets were still exploding about an hour after the strike was first reported, the NNA said, with videos circulating online showing several large explosions in Adloun.—Agency

Supreme Court Judges Divided On Reviewing Reserved Seats Verdict

ISLAMABAD: The top three judges of the Supreme Court are at odds over fixing review petitions, against the apex court's verdict on reserved seats in the national and provincial assemblies, for hearing.

Media reported on Sunday that Chief Justice of Pakistan (CJP) Qazi Faez Isa was at loggerheads with Justice Syed Mansoor Ali Shah and Justice Munib Akhtar over fixing the review petitions for hearing as the former wants it to be immediately fixed, while the latter wanted it to be heard after summer vacations, when the detailed ruling is released.

CJP Isa said that it would be an injustice if the pleas were not fixed for hearing now. While, Justice Mansoor and Justice Munib believed that it could be fixed only after detailed verdict on the July 12 ruling was released by the 13-member bench.

During the 17th meeting of the committee constituted under Section 2 of the Supreme Court (Practice and Procedure) Act 2023 held on July 18, both the senior judges of the apex court opposed the idea.

Justice Munib participated in the meeting through a video link, as he is on vacation.

The majority of the committee members decided to fix the hearing's date after summer vacations, when the complete bench that announced the judgement would be available.

The committee secretary pointed out that in two urgent applications that were filed with the review petitions, the petitioners said that the order under review had set a deadline of 15 days, and if that order was executed, the petitions would already become redundant.

Under order XXVI, Rule 8 of the Supreme Court Rules 1980, Justices Mansoor and Munib made the following observations that the review petitions could only be scheduled before the bench that heard the case initially and given that the court is in the midst of its summer vacation and that the majority of its judges are either abroad or on vacation, hence, it would be suitable if the matter was fixed after the vacations.

"Additionally, it was also pointed out that the review petitions are not fixed until detailed judgement is released by the bench and in this case the detailed judgement is still awaited," read the minutes of the meeting.

Chief Justice Isa, nevertheless, urged that the right of review had been provided under the Constitution and such right had to be preferred over the judges' convenience.

"Also, as the judges had taken oath to abide by the Constitution, it would be unjust and unfair if the review petitions were not fixed urgently," the chief justice told the committee, emphasising that the order under review required reopening of the court even if it required cancellation of vacations.

In response, Justice Munib commented that summer vacations were provided under Order II of the Rules. Rule 3 of the said Order which provides that the judicial year of the Court shall commence on the second Monday in September each year and continue until the commencement of the vacation in the year next following.

Justice Munib said that Rule 4 provides that summer vacation of the Court shall commence on June 15 or on such date as may be fixed in each year by the CJ and notified in the gazette.

The judge pointed out that the chief justice through a notification dated June 4, 2024, extended the date of commencement of summer vacations as July 15, 2024, however, there is no provision in the said order for cancellation of the summer vacations once the same have been announced unless the matter is put up before the full court and the rules are amended accordingly.

"Hence, cancellation of vacation cannot be resorted to by the committee or the chief justice," the judge further told the body. Meanwhile, the committee considered and approved the court rosters during summer vacations from July 29 to September 6. Meanwhile, CJP Isa said that the minutes of the meeting have been written by his colleagues with whom in respect of agenda items 1 and 3, he cannot agree and has written his separate note.—RT/Agency

Chinese IPPs Urged To Use Local Coal In Effort To Lower Power Prices

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan has decided to press Chinese independent power producers (IPPs), which rely on imported coal, to switch to locally sourced solid fossil fuel to cut generation costs and provide relief to consumers tormented by bloated utility bills.

"Pakistan this month will ask Chinese power plants operating in the country to shift to using coal from Thar region rather than imported coal," Federal Minister for Energy (Power Division) Awas Leghari told Reuters on Sunday.

He added that the transition could save Pakistan more than Rs200 billion a year in imports, translating to a decrease of as much as Rs2.5 per unit in the price of electricity.

"Islamabad may also begin talks on re-profiling Pakistan's energy sector debt during the visit to Beijing."

Such a transition would benefit the Chinese-owned plants in Pakistan by reducing pressure on the country's foreign exchange reserves, he said, making it easier to repatriate dividends and offering a better return in dollar terms.

The power czar will be part of the delegation to discuss structural reforms to the power sector suggested by the International Monetary Fund (IMF), which last week agreed on a $7 billion bailout for the heavily indebted South Asian nation.

Neighbouring China has set up over $20 billion worth of energy projects in Pakistan.

"One of the key purposes of going along is the conversion of our imported coal units to the local coal. That would have a huge impact on the cost of energy, of power in the near future. So that is one of the biggest (items on the) agenda," Leghari said in an interview.

In April a subsidiary of conglomerate Engro agreed to sell all of its thermal assets, including Pakistan's leading coal producer, Sindh Engro Coal Mining to Liberty Power.

Liberty said the decision stemmed from Pakistan's foreign exchange crunch and its indigenous coal reserve potential.

The minister declined to elaborate on the possible talks with China over re-profiling energy debt.

Pakistan's power sector has been plagued by high rates of power theft and distribution losses, resulting in accumulating debt across the production chain — a concern raised by the IMF.

The government is implementing structural reforms to reduce circular debt — public liabilities that build up in the power sector due to subsidies and unpaid bills — by Rs100 billion a year, Leghari said.

Poor and middle-class households have been afected by a previous IMF bailout reached last year, which included raising power tariffs as part of the funding programme that ended in April.

Annual power use in Pakistan is expected to fall consecutively for the first time in 16 years as higher tariffs curb household consumption, despite summer temperatures surging to near records, which typically boosts air conditioning and fan use.

"We have seen a shrinking demand trend in the past year or year and a half, and we are expecting this to continue unless we rationalise the price of power," Leghari said, adding that the government's major challenge was getting demand to stop shrinking.

He said that since the per-unit tariff for power is more expensive, both urban and rural households are moving towards alternatives such as solar. "Right now we have close to 1,000 megawatts that are on the grid itself in the form of net metering systems and others. It's a very conservative estimate that (solar) could be five to six times more than that on the grid right now," Leghari said.—RT/Agency

Kirmani Criticizes PML-N As 'Non-Serious And Incompetent' After Leaving Party

LAHORE: Dr Syed Asif Kirmani, the former political secretary of ex-prime minister Nawaz Sharif, voicing strong opinion about the current state of the party, has said that members of the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) and the Jamaat-e-Islami (JI) have infiltrated the ranks of the N-League, adding that these individuals "do not represent the true face of the PML-N".

Kirmani, in a surprise statement on Saturday, announced quitting the PML-N, criticising the top leadership of the ruling party. He said he had already distanced himself from the political affairs of the Nawaz-led party for a long time.

The former N-League veteran quit the party over differences with the top party leadership's decision to form a government following the February 8 general election despite rigging allegations.

Sharing his insights in an interview with media on Sunday, he expressed concerns about the calibre of current party members holding key positions, also describing them as "non-serious and incompetent".

"It seems Nawaz Sharif has been rendered helpless," the former politico claimed. "This is not the same Nawaz Sharif I once knew."

Despite his departure, the PML-N's deserter stressed he still maintains his respect for Nawaz, saying: "I respected Nawaz Sharif in the past, and

I respect him now as well."

The former PML-N leader said he gave almost 19 to 20 years to the party and remained a close associate of Nawaz, adding that they have left a "loyal companion behind".

Reflecting on his decision to part ways with the party, he admitted: "It was painful leaving my home." He also called on the PML-N supremo to engage with the general public to have an idea of what they are going through. "Mian Sahib, everything is not alright. Come out, [mingle with people] and see for yourself!"

Responding to a query about his future political plans, Dr Kirmani insisted that he was not joining any political party, adding he was a "born PML-N supporter" and wished to die as a member of the PML-N family."

Kirmani was appointed by then-prime minister Nawaz as his political secretary during his rule in 2013. Being a close aide of the three-time PM, he played an active role during the PML-N's election campaign before the party rose to power in 2013.

Moreover, Abbas Khan Afridi also called it quits last month, claiming that the party's president Nawaz was "no longer relevant in the country's politics".

Similarly, senior PML-N leader and former Sindh governor Muhammad Zubair, ex-prime minister Shahid Khaqan Abbasi and former finance minister Mifath Ismail had left the ruling party in recent months.

Abbasi and Ismail had launched a new political party, Awaam Pakistan, earlier this month which was joined by several former PML-N leaders including Sardar Mehtab Ahmed Khan Abbasi, Javed Abbasi, Syed Zaeem Hussain Qadri, Rana Zahid Tauseef, Zahid Binnouri, and Sardar Anwar Soomro.—RT/Agency

Ban On PTI Is Solely PML-N's Decision: Governor Punjab

WAZIRABAD: Governor Punjab Sardar Salim Haider Khan stated that the decision to ban Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) was made solely by the Pakistan Muslim League Nawaz (PML-N) leadership without consulting the Pakistan Peoples' Party (PPP), media reported on Sunday.

Speaking to the media, Sardar Salim expressed that the PPP will address this issue in its party meeting and Central Executive Committee (CEC).

He added that, in his opinion, PTI should be considered in two parts: those involved in the May 9 incidents should be punished, but action against those patriotic to the country is inappropriate.

It is pertinent to mention here that the federal information minister Ata Tarar has announced that the government has decided to ban PTI.

Addressing an explosive presser, Ata Tarar said Article 17 of the constitution empowers the federal government to ban a political party. He said there is credible evidence to support a ban on the PTI and cited the party's involvement in foreign funding, the May 9 incident, its role in the resettlement of terrorists in Pakistan, the cipher episode, and the resolution passed in the United States.

Attaulah Tarar stated that a reference would also be filed against former President Arif Alvi, former Prime Minister Imran Khan, and former Deputy Speaker Qasim Suri for violating the Constitution when the assemblies were dissolved following the no-confidence motion against the PTI government. He said the reference will be forwarded to the Supreme Court after approval by the federal cabinet.

The minister said certain lobbies are sitting abroad that promote an anti-Pakistan agenda, support separatist movements, and conspire against the country's security and institutions. He mentioned the government has decided to take strict legal action against them, which may involve blocking their passports and identity cards.—RT/Agency

2018 Elections Were Not Rigged But Managed: Fawad

ISLAMABAD: Former Federal Minister Fawad Chaudhry has claimed that 2018 elections, wherein Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) emerged victorious, were not rigged but managed, media reported on Sunday.

In an interview, the former federal minister also castigated Chief Election Commissioner (CEC) Sikandar Raja Sultan and alleged that Pakistan Muslim League-Nawaz (PML-N) "installed" the latter through former director-general (DG) Inter-Services Intelligence (ISI) Faiz Hamid.

Fawad Chaudhry also claimed that former Chief of Army Staff (CAJS) Qamar Javed Bajwa sought an extension from PTI and wanted to get another extension from PML-N. He said 2018 elections were not rigged but 'managed'.

The former minister claimed that when Nawaz Sharif was allowed to travel abroad in 2019, he realised that "work" had started on the other side. He emphasised that the solution to all problems lies in a "Grand Dialogue" and that PML-N and Pakistan People's Party (PPP) are realities that need to be engaged with.

Earlier on July 3, Fawad Chaudhry expressed surprise at PTI's willingness to engage in talks with establishment, saying that this decision was tantamount to "deal-seeking".

Speaking to an international media outlet, the former minister said that negotiating with the establishment is equivalent to seeking a deal, and that talks will only be successful if held on an equal footing.

Chaudhry suggested that the PTI should only be talking to opposition parties at this stage, and that negotiations with the government should come later. He also criticised PTI's approach to negotiations, saying that seeking a deal with the establishment would be no different from what Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif would do.—RT/Agency

Imran Reveals Harrowing Prison Experience In Rare Interview, Describes 'Death Cell For Terrorists'

ISLAMABAD: In a rare interview from prison, former prime minister and Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Imran Khan denounced his harsh confinement conditions, likening them to those of a terrorist.

Khan described it as solitary confinement with minimal space and constant surveillance, highlighting the denial of basic rights, including visitation.

"I am confined in a 7ft by 8ft death cell, typically reserved for terrorists to ensure they have no contact with anyone," he told The Sunday Times. "It is solitary confinement with barely any space to move. I am under constant surveillance by the agencies, being recorded 24/7, and I am denied basic prisoner and human rights such as visitation," he said.

Khan, 71, has been imprisoned for nearly a year on various charges, including corruption, treason, and an illegal marriage. His third wife, Bushra, is also incarcerated. The interview was conducted through his lawyers due to restrictions on his access to writing materials.

Recently, a UN working group declared Khan's dement as arbitrary and in violation of international law, calling for his immediate release. Despite recent court rulings overturning some of his convictions, Khan remains in jail as bail was denied on allegations of inciting riots last year.

The government is contemplating a ban on Imran Khan's party, PTI, which won the most seats in the February elections. Khan argues that the elections were marred by "unprecedented pre-political rigging," including his imprisonment and the banning of his party's symbol.

Khawaja Asif: Shafqat Mehmood's Columns Against Imran Khan Were Well-Written In English

ISLAMABAD: Defence Minister Khawaja Asif has said when Shafqat Mehmood was with Shahbaz Sharif, he used to write columns against Imran Khan in very good English.

Asif said Mehmood's politics started with the Pakistan Peoples Party (PPP) and, all the way through Musharraf and Shahbaz Sharif, ended with the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI).

"I know Mehmood since 1964. I had a misunderstanding of a close friendship with him for 50 to 55 years. During that period, they both conducted good and bad deeds together, on him, Mehmood conducted a very smoky press conference against him upon his residence and salary broad.—RT/Agency
