PTI MPAs Among Escaped Inmates Recaptured After Brazen Gun Attack On Prison Vans In Islamabad

ISLAMABAD: Armed assailants have attacked three prison vans carrying several Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) lawmakers, government workers and cops detained in the D-Chowk protest case, a spokesperson for federal capital police said on Friday.

The unidentified attackers carried out a gun attack on three prison vans transporting 82 accused, including PTI members of provincial assembly (MPAs), government officials, and policemen, to Attock jail after a court hearing, the spokesperson added.

He said that all inmates, who fled after the attack, have been rearrested as police foiled the bid to escape. Rizvi confirmed that the fleeing inmates also include two MPAs who have also been taken into custody again.

One of the prison vans was transporting PTI MPAs Anwar Zaib, Liaquat, and Yasir Qureshi.

An Islamabad police spokesperson said that senior officers along with heavy contingents rushed to the scene and search operations were launched in different areas to find the culprits.

According to the Islamabad police, the PTI lawmakers among other inmates managed to flee from the prison vans following the armed assault, however, they were rearrested by the cops.

The armed attack occurred at Sangani Toll Plaza, the police said, adding that it was like an ambush as the armed men had already taken position before the arrival of the vans at the toll plaza. The attackers burst tyres of the vans and later opened fire on the cops, leaving four policemen wounded who were swiftly shifted to the hospital.

The pictures of the incident, obtained by media, showed that a police mobile van in the prison vans' convoy was also damaged in the attack.

Following the armed attack, Inspector General (IG) Islamabad Police Ali Nasir Rizvi told media that 82 prisoners were present in the prison vans who were being transported to Attock jail after being produced before a court in the federal capital.

Justice Shah Slams CJP Isa, Accuses Him Of Ignoring Dangerous External Pressures On Judiciary

ISLAMABAD: Justice Mansoor Ali Shah has fired broadside against outgoing Chief Justice of Pakistan (CJP) Qazi Faez Isa for remaining "complacent and indifferent to external pressure on the judiciary" during his tenure as the senior puisne judge skipped a full court reference to bid farewell to the latter.

CJP Isa took oath as the 29th chief justice of Pakistan (CJP) on Sept 17, 2023 at a ceremony, where his wife Sarina Isa was standing beside him.

He explained that he decided against attending former CJP Saqib Nisar's reference because "he had exceeded the limits of his constitutional role".

Justice Yahya Afridi, who was appointed by a Special Parliamentary Committee (SPC), is set to take oath as the next chief justice tomorrow (Saturday).

He reiterated that he would also not be attending CJP Isa's reference "though for different but more worrying reasons".

In a letter to Supreme Court Registrar, Justice Shah — who would have become the CJP had the 26th Amendment not been passed — noted that it is universal custom to hold a farewell event to acknowledge the departing chief justice's contributions.

The senior judge further said that the outgoing CJP showed "neither the courage nor the moral fortitude to defend the judiciary rather ceded ground to those who sought to weaken the courts for their own gain thereby compromising the very foundation of the rule of law."

However, he said, traditions, like institutions, "rely on the merits of those who embody them."

He also said that CJP Isa's actions have displayed a blatant disregard for the collegiality and respect essential to maintaining judicial harmony. "Through a pattern of self-righteousness he consistently failed to engage in dialogue and refused to lead with the consensus-building that is the hallmark of judicial leadership."

Apparently referring to the July 12 reserved seats verdict, Justice Shah said the incumbent chief justice has little regard for the judgments of Supreme Court and has "contemptuously and unashamedly suggested that they may not be implemented by the Executive."

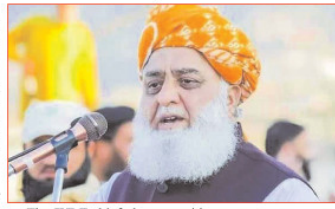

Justice Afridi has been appointed the 30th chief justice of the country, who will serve for a fixed three-year term starting tomorrow (October 26), according to a statement from the Aiwane-Sadr released on Wednesday.

Earlier on Oct 22, CJP Isa — in a detailed minority judgment — stated that the implementation of the top court's July 12 verdict was not binding as the review petitions in the case were still pending and not fixed for hearing.

He is the first CJP to be appointed under Articles 175A(3), 177, and 179 of the Constitution following the 26th Constitutional Amendment. The ruling coalition last week successfully pushed through the highly contentious judicial reforms through parliament via a two-thirds majority with 225 and 65 votes in the lower and upper house, respectively. —RT/Agency

Fazl Shuts Down Rumors Of Joining Government In Fiery Rebuttal

CHINNOT: Jamiat Ulema-e-Islam (F) chief Maulana Fazlur Rehman says pitting one province against another reflects a non-political mindset.

Talking to media in Chinnot on Friday, he said that 56 clauses in the amendment were reduced to 22, with five added back, highlighting the accomplishments of this change.

The JUI-F chief also remarked that Chief Justice Qazi Faez Isa has had a productive tenure and congratulated the incoming Chief Justice, wishing him success in delivering justice to the nation.

"I have no intention of joining the government. I am unaware of any such proposal, strong resistance will be made against the 27th constitutional amendment," he added.

Commenting on broader political dynamics, he clarified that JUI-F opposes revenge-driven politics and cases targeting politicians.

Fazl noted that the 27th constitutional amendment is not simple. He refrained from commenting on Sheikh Rashid's remarks, stating that he fundamentally does not believe in retaliatory politics, filing cases against politicians, or banning political protests.

"We believe in political freedom and do not support restrictions on protests," he said.

Army Cadet Tragically Killed In Vicious Terrorist Attack On Lakki Marwat Mosque

RAWALPINDI: A cadet of Pakistan Military Academy, Kakul, was martyred after terrorists attacked a mosque in Lakki Marwat during Maghrib prayers on Friday.

Such heinous and cowardly act of attacking worshippers in the mosque while praying reflects the true ideology of these militants.

The Inter Services Public Relations (ISPR) in a statement said the cadet Anifullah, who was under training at PMA Kakul, was on leave at his hometown, adding that he was present in the mosque for prayers when the attack was launched.

"Valiant act of a young Gentleman Cadet is a testament of spirit of sacrifice and dedication of Security Forces' personnel to eliminate the menace of terrorism from the country and such sacrifices further strengthen our resolve," read the ISPR statement. —RT/Agency

Shocking Turn Of Events: Imran's Sisters, Aleema And Uzma, Granted Bail Following Bushra Bibi

ISLAMABAD: An anti-terrorism court (ATC) in Islamabad has granted bail to Aleema Khan and Uzma Khan, the sisters of Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) founder Imran Khan, in the D-Chowk protest case.

Judge Abul Hasanat Zuleqarnain issued the order on Friday with regard to the case registered at the Kohsar police station in the federal capital.

The two sisters were arrested on October 4, 2024. The former ruling party's lawyers have left the Judicial Complex to go to jail with the mandamus i.e. the court's order directing the release of the Khan's sisters.

After getting bail from the ATC, the PTI founder's sisters were released from jail.

The former ruling party launched its anti-government campaign for the "independence" of the judiciary and the release of the former prime minister from jail.

PTI workers and supporters welcomed Aleema and Uzma outside the district jail in Jhelum. Aleema's son Sheraz and sister Noureen Niaz were also present on the occasion.

Meanwhile, the ATC's order came two days after the hearing of the plea was adjourned due to the non-submission of records in the case.

The court issued the orders following the approval of the former prime minister's two sisters' bail, granted against surety bonds worth Rs20,000 each.

Advocate Niazullah Niaz said that the record had yet to be presented at the previous hearing either, which had delayed the bail process.

Several PTI leaders as well as Imran's sisters were detained during the protest demonstration in Islamabad. The case against Imran's sisters was registered at the Kohsar Police Station on serious charges, including 16 provisions related to terrorism.

Barrister Salman Safdar, the PTI's lawyer, expressed his frustration, saying that he had been hearing since morning that the record was unavailable, and it reflected poorly on the proceedings. He questioned the prosecutor about the whereabouts of the record and the cause of the delay.

Barrister Safdar, while presenting his arguments on Wednesday, argued that the case for bail was strong on three points — both defendants were women, there was no direct evidence of conspiracy, and the charges were general.

He cautioned that if the record was not produced, he would have to take the bail application to the high court, requesting the ATC to approve the bail applications of Aleema and Uzma.

In response, the prosecutor said that without the case record, he was unable to present his arguments. —RT/Agency

Sports Activities Halted In Mirpurkhas Due To Flooded Ground

By Narain Das

MIRPURKHAS: In the vibrant city of Mirpurkhas, a concerning situation has emerged over the past two months as sports activities for children in the Pak Colony area and its surrounding neighborhoods have come to a standstill. The recent bouts of heavy rainfall have transformed the Pak Colony ground into what can only be described as a sprawling lake, rendering it completely unusable for any sporting events or recreational activities. The responsibility for this predicament lies squarely with the Mirpurkhas Municipal Corporation, whose apparent incompetence has prevented the timely drainage of rainwater that has accumulated in the area. As a result, the local community finds itself in a challenging situation where children and adults alike are deprived of the opportunity to engage in sports and physical activities that are crucial for their health and well-being. In addition to the disappointment faced by the youth, the unusual situation has led to some unexpected visitors: buffaloes have taken to frolicking in the flooded ground, further illustrating the extent of the flooding and the lack of action taken by local authorities. This surreal scene highlights not just the disruption of sports activities but also the broader impact of inadequate infrastructure and maintenance on community life. Community leaders, civil society organizations, and social representatives have raised their voices in frustration, urging the government to take immediate action to drain the rainwater from the Pak Colony ground. Their plea underscores a vital need for restored playgrounds and recreational spaces, emphasizing that such facilities are essential for the physical and mental development of children. The suspension of sports activities is not merely a minor inconvenience; it represents a significant loss of opportunities for children to engage in healthy, active play, which is crucial for their growth. As the community rallies together to demand action, the hope remains that local authorities will heed these calls and prioritize the restoration of vital recreational spaces.

The event served as a platform for a robust discussion about the urgent need for action against fossil fuel funding, particularly by the Asian Development Bank (ADB). During the seminar, participants unanimously called on the ADB to cease its funding of fossil fuel projects and to realign its investments with Pakistan's environmental objectives. Iqbal Haider, the CEO of the Lad Humanitarian Program, took center stage to emphasize the pressing need for accountability regarding the environmental damage attributed to projects financed by the ADB. His remarks underscored a growing concern that without proper oversight and accountability, such investments could exacerbate environmental degradation and hinder Pakistan's progress toward sustainable development. Attendees also highlighted the critical importance of transitioning to renewable energy sources as a means to address the country's energy crisis. Speakers pointed out that Pakistan currently faces a staggering energy shortage of approximately 6,000 megawatts (MW), which significantly impacts economic growth and the daily lives of citizens. Furthermore, the country is grappling with substantial debt in the energy sector, complicating efforts to invest in more sustainable alternatives. A focal point of the discussion was the urgent call for the early retirement of the JPC (Jamshoro Power Company Limited) plant, which many view as a relic of outdated energy practices. The participants argued that shifting away from fossil fuels is essential for creating a cleaner, more sustainable energy landscape. In addition to advocating for renewable energy, speakers stressed the necessity of investing in flood-resistant infrastructure, particularly for marginalized communities that are disproportionately affected by climate change and natural disasters. They argued that targeted investments in such infrastructure are vital for enhancing resilience and protecting vulnerable populations. The seminar concluded with a collective call for multilateral development banks to play a more proactive role in bridging the funding gap for sustainable energy initiatives in Pakistan. Participants expressed hope that increased collaboration with these institutions could lead to the development of innovative financing mechanisms that support renewable energy projects and infrastructure improvements. As the event wrapped up, there was a palpable sense of urgency among participants, who recognized that the path toward a sustainable energy future is not only an environmental imperative but also a crucial step in securing the well-being of future generations in Pakistan.

KOTRI: A pressing environmental and public safety issue has come to light in Kotri, where a group of concerned advocates has taken legal action against the ongoing discharge of sewage water from the Mehran Cooperative Society onto National Highway 55. Prominent advocates Mir Imtiaz Mangi, Zulfiqar Ali Chindio, and Aadeeb Ali Burhro have jointly filed a petition in the Sessions Court, seeking urgent intervention to address this alarming situation.

The sewage discharge from the Mehran Cooperative Society has not only raised serious health concerns but has also had dire consequences for the infrastructure in the area. Over time, the continuous flow of untreated sewage has severely damaged the road surface of National Highway 55, creating hazardous conditions that have resulted in frequent accidents. Motorists and pedestrians alike have expressed their frustration and fear as they navigate this perilous stretch, where the combination of water pooling and deteriorating road conditions poses a significant risk.

In response to the petition, the Sessions Court has issued notices to all parties involved, signaling the gravity of the situation and the need for immediate action. The advocates argue that the discharge of sewage is not only an environmental violation but also a blatant disregard for the safety and well-being of the community. They are calling for accountability and urging local authorities to take swift measures to rectify the issue, including the proper treatment and disposal of sewage waste.

Community members have voiced their support for the advocates' efforts, emphasizing the urgent need for a resolution to this crisis. Many residents have expressed their concern about the potential health hazards associated with sewage exposure, which can lead to serious illnesses and exacerbate existing public health challenges.

As the legal proceedings unfold, there is a growing hope among the residents of Kotri that the court's intervention will lead to a long-term solution, ensuring that such irresponsible waste disposal practices are curtailed and that National Highway 55 can be restored to a safe and usable condition. The situation serves as a stark reminder of the need for responsible environmental management and the importance of safeguarding public health in our communities.

Jhudo Residents Protest For Repair Of Faulty Transformer

By Shahid Majeed

JHUDO: In a determined show of unity, the Gujarati community in Jhudo staged a protest to voice their frustrations over ongoing electricity supply issues caused by a faulty transformer. The protest highlighted the community's demands for urgent repairs and the need for accountability from the local power utility, HESCO (Hyderabad Electric Supply Company).

For the past ten days, residents have been grappling with prolonged power outages, a situation exacerbated by the transformer's repeated failures. Protesters reported that the transformer, which had already undergone standard repairs, continues to burn out every few days, leading to significant disruptions in their daily lives.

The community members alleged that after each breakdown, they were forced to pay bribes to have the power restored, which they condemned as an unacceptable practice. This time, however, the situation escalated when the latest outage was compounded by delays in installation due to a demand for 40,000 PKR for repairing the transformer—a sum the community feels is unjust and unreasonable.

During the protest, community leaders expressed their anger and disappointment with HESCO Jhudo's management, stating that the repeated failures of the transformer not only disrupt their lives but also reflect poor service and negligence on the part of the power company. The demonstrators carried banners and shouted slogans demanding immediate action to repair the faulty transformer and restore electricity supply to their neighborhood.

"We are tired of living in the dark and paying bribes just to get basic services," one protester exclaimed. "This is not just about electricity; it's about our right to a fair and reliable service."

The community's urgent appeal to authorities included calls for strict action against HESCO for its failure to provide adequate and safe electrical services. They emphasized the need for a thorough investigation into the recurring issues and demanded that the authorities ensure that the transformer is repaired properly this time, without the expectation of bribes.

As the protest drew attention from local media, community leaders vowed to continue their fight until their demands are met, emphasizing that access to reliable electricity is essential for their livelihoods and well-being. They hope their collective action will compel the relevant authorities to address their concerns swiftly and effectively.

Lower Staff Employees In Tando Jam Struggle With Unpaid Salaries

By Irfan Ali Khushk

TANDO JAM: A troubling situation has arisen for lower staff members in the Education Department, including peons, gardeners, watchmen, and sweepers, who have not received their salaries from the Sindh government for the past fifteen months. This prolonged period without pay has exacerbated the ongoing unemployment crisis, leading to increased mental stress and financial hardship among these workers and their families.

In a bid to address their grievances, a delegation from the education department, led by Hakim Ali Zardari and Nisar Ahmed Soomro, recently met with Hyderabad Commissioner

Zain ul Abideen Memon. During the meeting, they expressed their frustrations over the unpaid wages, highlighting the severe impact it has had on their lives.

Commissioner Memon acknowledged the delegation's concerns but noted that there was no record of the lower staff's salaries or any formal orders to halt their payments. He pointed out that the issue is entangled in legal disputes, indicating that if the courts rule in favor of the staff, the government would comply with the decision. He encouraged the staff to discuss their concerns with their elected representatives, who could play a crucial role in facilitating the release of their salaries.

They made a heartfelt appeal to Chief Minister Murad Ali Shah and Minister Sharjeel Inam Memon, urging them to intervene and ensure that their salaries are released promptly. The staff emphasized the dire situation they face at home due to their financial struggles, underscoring the urgent need for action to alleviate their suffering.

A House Divided!

The recent remarks by Justice Mansoor Ali Shah about former Chief Justice Qazi Faez Isa have exposed deep-seated fractures within the Supreme Court of Pakistan, signaling a crisis that cannot be ignored. Justice Shah's decision, along with five other justices, to skip the full court reference in honor of outgoing CJP Isa is a clear indication of discontent and division. In his letter, Justice Shah accused CJP Isa of fostering divisions, failing to defend judicial independence, and being indifferent to external pressures that threatened the judiciary's autonomy. Such strong words from a senior judge demand serious introspection, not just within the judiciary but also by the new Chief Justice, Yahya Afridi, and the government.

The allegations raised by Justice Shah paint a troubling picture of a judiciary divided, with claims of pettiness and administrative failures under CJP Isa's tenure. These concerns, coupled with the boycott of six judges, highlight a crisis of confidence that could erode the public's trust in the courts. It is imperative for the incoming Chief Justice to take proactive steps to heal these divisions, fostering a culture of unity, transparency, and meritocracy. The judiciary must not be allowed to become a battleground of individual egos and factionalism.

The government, too, must tread carefully. An independent judiciary is the cornerstone of democracy, and any attempts to undermine it will be detrimental to the rule of law. The new Chief Justice has a historic opportunity to restore faith in the institution by building bridges, ensuring fair justice, and upholding the judiciary's independence without succumbing to external pressures. It is a moment that calls for courage, integrity, and leadership, qualities that will define the judiciary's future in Pakistan.

Legendary Boxer Muhammad Ali's Ex-Wife Ventures To Afghanistan, Backed By Taliban, To Build Sports Stadium

A former wife of legendary US boxer Muhammad Ali arrived in the Afghan capital, a Taliban government official said on Friday, to reportedly open a stadium in a country where women are barred from sports.

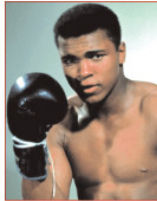

The head of the Taliban government's sports directorate, Ahmadullah Wasiq, told AFP that Khaliliah Camacho-Ali, who was married to the boxer for a decade from 1967, had arrived in Kabul.

State media cited the directorate as saying she was in the city "to build a sports stadium to be named 'Piroz' (victory in Dari) and a sports association named after Muhammad Ali".

Born Belinda Boyd in 1950 in the United States, Camacho-Ali, like her world champion boxer ex-husband, converted to Islam after they married.

Muhammad Ali himself visited Kabul in 2002, a year after the US forces overthrew the first Taliban government, visiting a girls' school in his role as a United Nations peace ambassador.

Since the Taliban government came to power in Afghanistan in 2021, they have imposed a strict interpretation of Islamic law, with women bearing the brunt of restrictions the United Nations have called "gender apartheid", including blocking women from participating in sports.

During the Taliban's first rule from 1996 to 2001, public executions in sports stadiums were common. Public corporal punishment has continued since their return to power and at least two public executions have been held in a sports stadium. The authorities have recently set restrictions on combat sports as well, saying free fighting such as in Mixed Martial Arts was un-Islamic. Camacho-Ali is a martial artist, as well as an actress and author, according to her website. Ali was born Cassius Clay in the southeastern state of Kentucky and is known as both a sporting great and for his role in fighting for civil rights for African Americans. He died in 2016.—Agency

Pakistan vs. England: Sajid And Noman Strike Early, England In Trouble At 24/3

RAWALPINDI: England suffered from three early blows against Pakistan as the hosts concluded their first innings on 344 runs on the second day of the third and final Test of the series on Friday at the Rawalpindi Cricket Stadium. As the English began their second innings, they faced two early blows as openers Ben Duckett and Zak Crawley were dismissed by Sajid Khan and Noman Ali respectively.

Pakistan continued their domination as Noman dismissed the dynamic Ollie Pope taking England to 20/3 in eight overs of the innings.

The match had to be suspended due to light concerns after England had just batted for nine overs and ended the day on 24/3. The side trails by 53 runs.

Earlier, Saud Shakeel crafted a gritty century to haul Pakistan back into the contest as the hosts bundled out on 344 runs. Pakistan were reeling 46-on Thursday in their first innings before Saud went on to forge three 50-plus partnerships to help them reach 267-8 at tea.

His 88-run stand with an equally defiant Noman Ali (45) for the eighth wicket helped Pakistan regain much of the ground they had lost in the match.

Said hit only four fours in his painstaking knock that stood out for its discipline. Sajid Khan was on one at the other end after as Pakistan staged a remarkable turnaround. England captain Ben

Stokes began the day with spin from both ends and Saud got a life on 26 when he edged Shaob Bashir low into the shin of wicketkeeper Jamie Smith. Off-spinner Bashir would not be denied, however, and removed Pakistan captain Shan Masood for 26, caught in the second slip. Rehan Ahmed (3-54) was brought in somewhat late but did not take long to make his mark, trapping Mohammad Rizwan lbw for 25. Rizwan burned a review on his way back to the pavilion trying to get the decision reversed.—Agency

Barcelona and Paris Saint-Germain (PSG) star failed to win the award last season but he is being considered the leading candidate for the award this year, after contributing 20 goals and 16 assists in just 19 games.

MVP. "Regarding Leo, I repeat myself, every time you ask me, I think he deserves all the awards they can give him. I think he is the best player in the world, with a lot of intensity compared to the rest and until he retires," he said on Friday. "I'm sure he'll win the MVP and if he doesn't win it, well, it's no longer anyone's decision, it's the people who vote but hey, for me he's the best."—Agency

Chinese Envoy Demands Pakistan Take Action, Calls For Aggressive Crackdown On Terrorism

ISLAMABAD: The Chinese Ambassador to Pakistan on Friday termed the recent visit of the Chinese prime minister a "complete success" but urged Pakistan to take practical and concrete steps to crack down on terrorist groups targeting Chinese nationals in the country.

"Top priority should be the security of Chinese personnel because they come to Pakistan to participate in the country's development," Jiang Zaidong told a select group of journalists at a rare press conference at the Chinese Embassy.

"They (Chinese) are innocent and they don't deserve this kind of sacrifice and their families do not deserve this kind of tragedy," the Chinese envoy added.

The Ambassador said that during the recent visit of the Chinese PM, the Pakistani leadership made commitments that the government would crackdown on terrorism and effectively safeguard the security of Chinese personnel, institutions and projects.

Just days before the visit of the Chinese PM, two Chinese engineers were killed in a terrorist attack outside the Jinnah International Airport in Karachi. The Ambassador

Tarar Blasts PTI For Allegedly Orchestrating Armed Assault On Prison Vans Near Sangjani Toll Plaza

ISLAMABAD: Federal Minister for Information, Broadcasting, National Heritage and Culture Attaullah Tarar on Friday said the Pakistan Tehreek-e-Insaf (PTI) had orchestrated an armed assault on prison vans near Sangjani Toll Plaza.

"Armed workers of the PTI including a son of the MPA of the PTI from KPK Liaquat Sahib attacked the prison vans which were carrying 83 detainees, and slowed down near the Sangjani Toll Plaza," said the minister while talking to the media.

He said up to 30 persons in four cars attacked the vans to help the detainees to escape from the custody of the police which had successfully repulsed the attack. Two police personnel got injured, but all those who tried to flee had been re-arrested.

Four assailants including the son of the PTI's MPA have been arrested, while their weapons and two cars were taken into custody, he said, adding interrogation of the arrested persons was underway.

Tarar said rest of the assailants and their cars were being traced and would be taken into custody soon. All those involved in the planning and abetment of the attack would face the law, he added.

The authorities had the CCTV footage of the attack, said the minister while debunking a flimsy story worked out by the PTI which claims that the police had staged the attack and itself opened the gates of the vans for prisoners and then vandalized the vehicles by their selves.

The PTI's reaction over the incident is "ludicrous," he said asking its spokesperson to be ashamed of himself for churning out such lies that showed the party had nothing to do but "deceit and fraud".

The minister condemned the attack which was planned by the PTI in a habitual criminal manner and just like gangsters, who always attacked a prison van at a time when it was supposed to be slowed down.

Tarar said the PTI had a history of attacking the state, citing the incidents of May 9 which included attack on memorials of the martyrs, and vandalizing of PTI building and the Parliament's gate during the sit-in of 2014.

They always resorted to the politics of violence, he said, vowing a strict legal action against the perpetrators of the attack.

An example will be set to prevent recurrence of such incidents and the writ of the state would be established at all cost, he stressed.

He said nobody would have dared to challenge the writ of the state if the perpetrators of May 9 were taken to the task.—RT/Agency
